Bizarre Story Of Two Rival Schemes To Overthrow U. S. Government Told

WHITE CAMELLIA KNIGHTS' CHIEF'S LETTER IS READ

Military Action 'To Get This Gang Out' Allegedly Urged By Deatherage

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Further details of a bizarre story of two rival plots to overthrow the United States government and a widespread anti-Semitic campaign were made public today by the house committee investigating un-American activities.

From the record of testimony taken in secret sessions, the committee released purported correspondence from George Deatherage of St. Albans, W. Va., chief of the Knights of the White Camellia, to James Erwin Campbell of Owensboro, Ky., which referred to an unnamed army general as the chosen leader of one group which planned to "do this job peacefully, and [illegible] by force if necessary."

Deatherage's letter, dated December 31, 1938, stated the general planned to start a little G. H. Q. in Atlanta where we will map the enemy, our friends, consolidate with us those that we know are right and prepare the plans for the campaign."

Campbell was on the witness stand when the letter was entered in the record [illegible] in response to a question as to whether the general was Major General Van Horn Moseley, retired, [illegible].

Campbell told the committee [illegible] dropped Deatherage when he found out what he was [illegible] and declared he regarded the letter as containing treasonable utterances.

The letter was part of the 245-page transcript of testimony taken at a long secret session of the committee last Thursday.

Moseley's name was linked with the anti-Semitic movement when Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, disclosed Thursday that the committee's agents had been following a trail through eastern and southern states in an effort to learn the facts concerning a reported anti-Semitic campaign based on fears of a revolution in this country.

The record showed that Campbell testified to dissemination to a carefully selected list of about 40 persons of reports from Dudley Pierpont Gilbert, socially prominent New Yorker, that a group of Jews were plotting the overthrow of the American form of government.

It was to offset this threat, Campbell testified, that he and Gilbert circulated the information, much of which Gilbert got from a waiter who overheard it in a New York club.

"I believe as you do that it will take military action to get this gang out," Deatherage's letter to Campbell said, "and the organization must be built around a propaganda organization now that can in a few hours be

JUDGES AND CITY MARSHALS ELECT

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—The City Judges' Association of Louisiana and the Louisiana City Marshals' association closed their annual two-day convention here today with election of officers.

The judges reelected all officers by acclamation. They are Judge Wilmot Dalferes, Lafayette, president, Judge J. B. Holloman, Lake Charles, vice-president, and Judge John B. Dubuisson, Opelousas, secretary.

Vernon Ware, Shreveport, was elected president of the city marshals, succeeding Robert Angers of New Iberia. T. C. Price, Lake Charles, succeeds Ware as vice-president. Mrs. Rene Domingue, Lafayette, was elected secretary to fill the place left vacant by the death of her husband three months ago.

Officers of the judges' association will select a 1940 convention city later and invite the marshals to join them. A suggestion was made by Judge Dalferes that after 1940 the association of judges meet biennually.

Speakers this morning put particular emphasis on handling of juvenile cases and domestic problems in city and district courts.

WINNERS NAMED IN AD CONTEST

Emale Gattis, Mildred Keller, Mary L. Inabnet And Marjorie Gremillion Win

First prize in The Monroe Morning World advertising-writing contest for outstanding members of the senior classes of the three local high schools was won by Emale Gattis of 1702 North Fourth street.

Although an equal number of boys participated, all of the prizes were captured by girls. Second place went to Mildred Keller, 300 Breard street; third to Mary Lavinia Inabnet, DeSiard road, and fourth, to Marjorie Gremillion, 1008 North Third street.

The winners of the awards were chosen by popular vote of readers of last Sunday's World, which carried a special section of advertisements written by the 29 students who participated in the contest. The readers designated what they considered the best ads on voting coupons carried in the section.

Announcement of the winners was made yesterday by George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe. Mr. Holland was chairman of a committee that tabulated the votes.

Miss Gattis will receive $50 as winner of first prize. Miss Keller will be awarded $25, Miss Inabnet, $15, and Miss Gremillion, $10. The prizes were offered by the News-Star—World Publishing corporation and will be awarded at its office at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Wilson Ewing, publisher of The World and The News-Star.

DEATH CALLS FOR ITS OWN REPORTER

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Death has claimed its own reporter.

Melvin E. Coleman, 63, who as biographical editor of the Associated Press supervised the preparation of thousands of obituary sketches, died of a heart ailment yesterday at his White Plains home.

An editor for the Associated Press for 34 years, Coleman scored a notable beat while covering the Leopold-Loeb murder case in Chicago. He also served as A. P. correspondent in St. Louis and Cincinnati before coming here 12 years ago. He handled many major news assignments.

His widow, a son, Wilbur, and a daughter, Mrs. Earl Hos, all of White Plains, survive. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the home.

GOVERNORS RAP PAY-HOUR RULE

Southern Executives Charge 'Maladministration' Of Labor Law

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 20.—(AP)—The southern governors conference today condemned what was described as "maladministration" of the wage-hour law and requested that congress investigate the personnel charged with the act's administration.

The conference said it was "its inescapable conclusion that it is the purpose of the present personnel to pervert the purposes of the act from the accomplishment of social justice."

Five of the conference's 11 members agreed to the statement, copies of which were sent to Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer Andrews, President Roosevelt and southern members of congress.

The governors said that "we want to get as high wages for the workers in all sections of the country, including our own, as can possibly be paid, but a failure to recognize the existing discriminatory differentials (in wages) will inevitably destroy the source of employment."

The conference suggested congress should direct such reorganization of personnel and policies as will guarantee "a proper administration of the law in terms of the legislative intent and the true objective of the act."

The statement added:

GIRL HEARS FROM LOVER LAST TIME

BESSEMER, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—"This is the last time you will hear from me—until I hold you in my arms. . . ."

Mabel Hallmark, 19-year-old fiancee of a Randolph field (Texas) flying student, reread these cherished words here last Thursday as she started for San Antonio to see Cadet Donald Roberts receive his lieutenant's commission. They closed a special delivery letter received just as she began the journey.

But Roberts was killed that night when his parachute failed to open after his plane fell during a final flight—the last five minutes needed to win his commission.

Relatives sent word of the tragedy to Miss Hallmark at New Orleans, intercepting her journey.

At 5 a.m. today, grief-stricken, the girl alighted from a New Orleans bus. In her hand the crumpled letter:

"This is the last time you will hear from me."

Pendergast Expected To Plead Guilty

KANSAS CITY, May 20.—(AP)—Democratic Boss Tom Pendergast goes into federal court Monday to plead guilty, the Kansas City Star says, to charges of income tax evasion, to pay approximately $450,000 in taxes and penalties and to plead for mercy on a prison term.

This decision was reached, the newspaper said, after a series of conferences yesterday between Pendergast, his attorneys, United States District Attorney Maurice Milligan and Judge Merrill E. Otis.

"At 9 o'clock Monday morning the case of the United States vs. T. J. Pendergast will be called in open court," Judge Otis told reporters. "What is to be done will be determined between now and then. Both sides have pledged themselves to say nothing until then."

Pendergast is accused by a federal grand jury of evading income taxes on $443,550 in 1935 and 1936, including $315,000 which the government charges he received from a compromise settlement of the $9,000,000 Missouri fire insurance rate case. He pleaded inno-

MINE WORKERS CALL OFF MEET

Action Taken Following Issuance Of Military Order Of Restrictions

HARLAN, Ky., May 20.—(AP)—United Mine Workers (C. I. O.) tonight called off a scheduled Sunday mass meeting in this troubled soft coal mine area following issuance of a military order of restrictions.

William Turnblazer, president of the Harlan district U. M. W., issued a lengthy statement in which he said:

"In order to prevent wholesale arrests we shall not attempt to have a mass meeting in Harlan country on tomorrow."

At the same time Turnblazer announced the signing of the "first commercial mine" contract containing the controversial "union shop" clause with the Black Star Coal company at Alva in Harlan county.

This mine employed about 800 workers normally.

Forty-six men were held under $1,000 bond each tonight after an ambushed group and national guardsmen engaged in gunfire but tension in the Harlan coal field strife appeared to have eased with few mines operating as Saturday generally is an "off day."

The 46 appeared at an arraignment before County Judge C. E. Ball and were held for preliminary hearing scheduled Monday. The number of spectators was so large the circuit courtroom was used for today's hearing.

The men were arrested late last night by national guardsmen some distance from the spot where the firing occurred, Lieutenant J. C. Fleming said. Two pistols, a blackjack, a razor and

YANKEE CLIPPER STARTS JOURNEY ACROSS ATLANTIC

ON TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT

Congratulations Exchanged But Inauguration Little More Than Routine

By Devon Francis
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—A metal flying boat rose from a Long Island bay and pointed its snout eastward today to inaugurate at last air-liner service between Europe and America.

Inside its broad, high hull, listening to the throaty symphony of its four motors, were 17 men, the first to cross the North Atlantic in an airplane operating by time table.

The start of scheduled transatlantic transport flights from Manhasset bay, hard by the little community of Port Washington, was routine, even casual.

A few short speeches were made. Congratulations were exchanged. A message from President Roosevelt was read.

Then Arthur E. La Porte, skipper of the 41 1-2 ton "Yankee Clipper," turned to Juan T. Trippe, president of the operating company, Pan American Airways. La Porte saluted.

"Captain La Porte," asked Trippe, "is the flight in order?"

"The Yankee Clipper is ready, sir," responded the skipper. "All stations are manned. Standing by for orders, sir."

Trippe nodded. "Very well, captain. I commit to you these manifests for the first United States air mails for transatlantic dispatch to Europe. You have your flight orders. Cast off and depart for Marseille in accordance therewith."

The crew marched smartly down a small quay, stepped aboard, the lines were cast off, and a few minutes later the 6,000 horsepower in the clipper's motors lifted her slowly aloft.

So, on the twelfth anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's memorable flight to Paris, began a service which men have talked about since the North Atlantic first was spanned by air in 1919 and actually have planned for a full decade.

This first flight over the so-called "southern" route is for mail only, and four more mail trips will be made before customers can step up to an airline ticket counter and buy 160-mile-an-hour transportation to Europe.

The take-off for Horta, the Azores, first stopping point and 2,400 miles away, was made at 11:07 a.m., central standard time.

At 6:30 p.m., eastern standard time, La Porte wirelessed Port Washington that he was 1,070 miles east of New York and, aided by a tail wind, was speeding along at 170 miles an hour.

Chamberlain Ready To Ask Cabinet To Okay Russian Arms Treaty

Poland And Rumania Believed To Be More Favorable To Such Treaty

LONDON, May 20.—(AP)—Diplomatic moves in London and Paris tonight pointed to a probable decision by the British cabinet next week in favor of a definite mutual aid pact with Soviet Russia.

While Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax consulted in Paris on the British-Soviet negotiations, the British government was understood to have sent fresh inquiries to Poland and Rumania as to whether they still objected to such a pact being concluded with their powerful neighbor.

With the Soviet Union apparently standing firm for the agreement and overwhelming sentiment voiced by parliamentary circles in favor of meeting the Russian terms, Prime Minister Chamberlain was reported ready to ask the cabinet next week to approve the step.

Diplomatic quarters believed Poland and Rumania had modified their original stand against an alliance

REV. WATSON TO ADDRESS CLASS

Christian Church Pastor To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon At College Today

All classes at Northeast Junior college met for the last time for the present semester the past week. Final examinations started Friday for members of the graduating class and will be continued through Monday and Tuesday. A few final examinations will be held Wednesday.

The examinations for freshmen will be held all this week, ending on Friday.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held at the college auditorium this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The public is invited. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. R. T. Watson, pastor of the First Christian church. He will take for his subject, "Life Is a Great Adventure."

Members of the graduating class, which numbers 100 this year, will appear in their caps and gowns and will form an impressive processional as they file into the auditorium where special seats in the center will be reserved for them. This number will be played by the college orchestra, which is directed by Lowry Jefferson, the selection being "Pomp and Chivalry" by Roberts.

Following invocation, the congrega-

CENT PER BALE WILL BE ASKED

Ginners To Seek Sum From Farmers And Give Equal Amount For Promotion

ATLANTA, May 20.—(AP)—Cotton farmers will be asked to contribute one cent for each bale they produce this year for use in promoting the use of their staple throughout the world, under a plan approved today by the National Cotton Ginners association.

The grower's penny would be added to another put up by the ginner and a half a cent each by the cotton seed crusher, warehouseman and cotton merchant—a total of 3 1-2 cents a bale—to finance a three-point promotion program of the National Cotton council.

W. Rhea Blake of Stoneville, Miss., executive secretary of the council, who explained the financing plan at the ginners convention, estimated it would provide the council $250,000 net annually for its program. He said that counting a surplus from money already raised or pledged the council expected to have something like $350,000 available the first of next year to support research, legislation and advertising to increase the use of cotton.

"Considering the immensity of the cotton industry," he added, "this is not a large sum but it should enable us to do a great deal to promote the use of the staple, cutting down the surplus and increasing the price and opportunity for re[illegible]."

Blake said the action of the ginners completed what can be done at pres-

HOSPITAL BIDS TO BE TAKEN JUNE 16

BATON ROUGE, May 20.—(AP)—The state hospital board will receive bids June 16 for the construction of the new regional charity hospital at Monroe, A. R. Johnson, state commissioner of welfare, announced today.

The foundation for the hospital has already been completed and contracts will be awarded at the letting for the superstructure, Johnson said. The hospital will contain 150 beds and will cost approximately $400,000.

This will be the fourth of the regional charity hospitals constructed under the program of medical care inaugurated by Governor Richard W. Leche and Commissioner Johnson subsequent to the creation of the state hospital board in 1936. A hospital is now in operation at Lafayette and others at Pineville and Independence are now being equipped and are expected to be placed in operation by midsummer.

CLEAN-UP IN 2 CITIES PLANNED

One Week's Campaign Will Be Prosecuted; Citizens Asked To Aid

The city beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce urges that all hoes, rakes, lawn mowers and all other implements of warfare on weeds, broken tree limbs, abandoned tin cans and litter of all description be impressed into immediate service, as well as all available yard men. The purpose of all this activity lies in the clean-up week project that starts Monday, sponsored by the city beautification group and aided by C. R. Tidwell, commissioner of streets and parks, and Mayor H. M. Williams, Jr., of West Monroe. Trucks of both cities will start their rounds early Monday to make collection and will continue their rounds throughout clean-up week, from Monday through Saturday.

Householders are urged to have the debris piled in the alley or on the neutral ground in front of residences as collectors with trucks will not enter anyone's property to make a collection, it is explained.

Special attention is called to tin cans in which stagnant rain water is found and in low places where there is water continuously. These places are fertile for the breeding of mosquitoes and the menace will be great all summer if action is not taken at once. The water should be removed and when this is impossible oil should be placed on the water to eradicate mosquito breeding, it is explained.

From the present outlook, the clean-up campaign this year promises to be a far greater success than in years past. Members of the city beautification committee have been active in their efforts to make of the event an outstanding success, stated Secretary George D. Holland of the Chamber of Commerce.

Members of this committee are the following: Thomas Frazer, chairman; R. W. Braswell, Mike John, Jr., Milton King, W. C. Ward, Joe Washburn and H. H. Brunsmade.

SHIP DAMAGED BY FIRE AT ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—(AP)—Fire today caused undetermined damage to the S. S. Aquarius of Houston and threatened two other freighters tied alongside before being extinguished in a two-hour fight.

The freighters Hanover and Syros, moored on either side of the Aquarius, were saved from damage by members of the crews and by fire fighting tugs. The flames on the burning ship were confined to the upper structure.

The Aquarius, 6,000 ton freighter owned by the Lykes Steamship line, was manned by skeleton crew at Quarantine Point, just below New Orleans in the Mississippi.

Fifteen other vessels moored three and four abreast, just below these ships, were not endangered by the fire.

The blaze was discovered at an early hour by a nightwatchman and was extinguished by the dock board fire tugs Deluge and Sampson.

PEOPLE BELIEVE HITLER WILL GO IN SOME NIGHT

Assert He Will Simply March Into Danzig 'When Nobody Is Looking'

FUEHRER'S AIDES KNOW MATTER NOT SO SIMPLE

Realize Nation Must Be Prepared For Hard Struggle If Necessary

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP)—Positive action by Germany to enforce the Reich's demands on Poland appeared to be foreshadowed in Berlin tonight.

After a week crowded with significant events, three circumstances indicated Germany was about to call for a show-down on the Polish question. They were:

1. Announcement today by Chancellor Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter that fortifications were being built along the eastern frontier for defense against Poland.

2. The visit of the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to Berlin over the week-end to sign on Monday the German-Italian military pact to pool the military strength of the two states.

3. An ominous speech at Cologne last night by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who said with great vigor that "Danzig and the Polish corridor have been placed on the debating agenda." Th speech was featured by the German press today.

The solution toward which Germany seemed to be heading remained an official secret, but it appeared that Poland next week would be confronted with the new military pacts with notice that Germany's eastern defenses were strong and would be strengthened; and with Goebbels' declaration of an offensive against Warsaw.

Construction of a new eastern defense line was disclosed in Chancellor

GERMAN PLOT TO KILL BENES TOLD

Diplomatic Sources In France Disclose Plan To Send Assassin From Europe

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources reported today a plot had been discovered to send a man from Europe to the United States to assassinate Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of now-dissolved Czecho-Slovakia.

These sources said the scheme was hatched in German-occupied Prague both to weaken Czech standing in the United States and to remove an important opponent of the Nazi regime.

Dr. Benes, who resigned as president of the Czecho-Slovak republic after it was reduced in size by the Munich settlement of last September 29, has been in the United States since February 11.

Those who reported the plot said that with their information in the hands of the American police they believed much danger to the former president had been averted.

(In Chicago, E. B. Hitchcock, personal aide to Dr. Benes, declined to say whether the former president had been warned of a plot to assassinate him but said every precaution was being taken for his protection.

(Bohus Benes, a nephew of Dr. Benes, said two young policemen of Czech descent had been assigned by the Chicago police department as a bodyguard for his uncle.)

GIRL HEARS FROM LOVER LAST TIME

BESSEMER, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—"This is the last time you will hear from me—until I hold you in my arms . . ."

Mabel Hallmark, 19-year-old fiancee of a Randolph field (Texas) flying student, reread these cherished words here last Thursday as she started for San Antonio to see Cadet Donald Roberts receive his lieutenant's commission. They closed a special delivery letter received just as she began the journey.

But Roberts was killed that night when his parachute failed to open after his plane fell during a final flight—the last five minutes needed to win his commission.

Relatives sent word of the tragedy to Miss Hallmark at New Orleans, intercepting her journey.

At 5 a.m. today, grief-stricken, the girl alighted from a New Orleans bus. In her hand the crumpled letter:

"This is the last time you will hear from me."

Pendergast Expected To Plead Guilty

KANSAS CITY, May 20.—(AP)—Democratic Boss Tom Pendergast goes into federal court Monday to plead guilty, the Kansas City Star says, to charges of income tax evasion, to pay approximately $450,000 in taxes and penalties, and to plead for mercy on a prison term.

This decision was reached, the newspaper said, after a series of conferences yesterday between Pendergast, his attorneys, United States District Attorney Maurice Milligan and Judge Merrill E. Otis.

"At 9 o'clock Monday morning the case of the United States vs. T. J. Pendergast will be called in open court," Judge Otis told reporters. "What is to be done will be determined between now and then. Both sides have pledged themselves to say nothing until then."

Pendergast is accused by a federal grand jury of evading income taxes on $443,350 in 1935 and 1936, including $315,000 which the government charges he received from a compromise settlement of the $9,000,000 Missouri fire insurance rate case. He pleaded inno-

MINE WORKERS CALL OFF MEET

Action Taken Following Issuance Of Military Order Of Restrictions

HARLAN, Ky., May 20.—(AP)—United Mine Workers (C. I. O.) tonight called off a scheduled Sunday mass meeting in this troubled soft coal mine area following issuance of a military order of restrictions.

William Turnblazer, president of the Harlan district U. M. W., issued a lengthy statement in which he said:

"In order to prevent wholesale arrests we shall not attempt to have a mass meeting in Harlan country on tomorrow."

At the same time Turnblazer announced the signing of the "first commercial mine" contract containing the controversial "union shop" clause with the Black Star Coal company at Alva in Harlan county.

This mine employed about 800 workers normally.

Forty-six men were held under $1,000 bond each tonight after an ambushed group and national guardsmen engaged in gunfire but tension in the Harlan coal field strife appeared to have eased with few mines operating at Saturday generally is an "off day."

The 46 appeared at an arraignment before County Judge C. E. Ball and were held for preliminary hearing scheduled Monday. The number of spectators was so large the circuit courtroom was used for today's hearing.

The men were arrested late last night by national guardsmen some distance from the spot where the firing occurred. Lieutenant J. C. Fleming said two pistols, a blackjack, a razor and

YANKEE CLIPPER STARTS JOURNEY ACROSS ATLANTIC

ON TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT

Congratulations Exchanged But Inauguration Little More Than Routine

By Devon Francis
(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—A metal flying boat rose from a Long Island bay and pointed its snout eastward today to inaugurate, at last, air-liner service between Europe and America.

Inside its broad, high hull, listening to the throaty symphony of its four motors, were 17 men, the first to cross the North Atlantic in an airplane operating by time table.

The start of scheduled transatlantic transport flights from Manhasset bay, hard by the little community of Port Washington, was routine, even casual.

A few short speeches were made. Congratulations were exchanged. A message from President Roosevelt was read.

Then, Arthur E. La Porte, skipper of the 41 1-2 ton "Yankee Clipper," turned to Juan T. Trippe, president of the operating company, Pan American Airways. La Porte saluted.

"Captain La Porte," asked Trippe, "is the flight in order?"

"The Yankee Clipper is ready, sir," responded the skipper. "All stations are manned. Standing by for orders, sir."

Trippe nodded. "Very well, captain. I commit to you these manifests for the first United States air mails for transatlantic dispatch to Europe. You have your flight orders. Cast off and depart for Marseille in accordance therewith."

The crew marched smartly down a small quay, stepped aboard, the lines were cast off, and a few minutes later the 6,000 horsepower in the clipper's motors lifted her slowly aloft.

So, on the twelfth anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's memorable flight to Paris, began a service which men have talked about since the North Atlantic first was spanned by air in 1919 and actually have planned for a full decade.

This first flight over the so-called "southern" route is for mail only, and four more mail trips will be made before customers can step up to an airline ticket counter and buy 160-mile-an-hour transportation to Europe.

The take-off for Horta, the Azores, first stopping point and 2,400 miles away, was made at 11:07 a.m., central standard time.

At 6:30 p.m., eastern standard time, La Porte wirelessed Port Washington that he was 1,070 miles east of New York and, aided by a tail wind, was speeding along at 170 miles an hour.

Chamberlain Ready To Ask Cabinet To Okay Russian Arms Treaty

Poland And Rumania Believed To Be More Favorable To Such Treaty

LONDON, May 20.—(AP)—Diplomatic moves in London and Paris tonight pointed to a probable decision by the British cabinet next week in favor of a definite mutual aid pact with Soviet Russia.

While Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax consulted in Paris on the British-Soviet negotiations, the British government was understood to have sent fresh inquiries to Poland and Rumania as to whether they still objected to such a pact being concluded with their powerful neighbor.

With the Soviet Union apparently standing firm for the agreement and overwhelming sentiment voiced by parliamentary circles in favor of meeting the Russian terms, Prime Minister Chamberlain was reported ready to ask the cabinet next week to approve the step.

Diplomatic quarters believed Poland and Rumania had modified their original stand against an alliance

REV. WATSON TO ADDRESS CLASS

Christian Church Pastor To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon At College Today

All classes at Northeast Junior college met for the last time for the present semester the past week. Final examinations started Friday for members of the graduating class and will be continued through Monday and Tuesday. A few final examinations will be held Wednesday.

The examinations for freshmen will be held all this week, ending on Friday.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held at the college auditorium this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The public is invited. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. R. T. Watson, pastor of the First Christian church. He will take for his subject, "Life Is a Great Adventure."

Members of the graduating class, which numbers 109 this year, will appear in their caps and gowns and will form an impressive processional as they file into the auditorium where special seats in the center will be reserved for them. This number will be played by the college orchestra, which is directed by Lowry Jefferson, the selection being "Pomp and Chivalry" by Roberts.

Following invocation, the congrega-

CENT PER BALE WILL BE ASKED

Ginners To Seek Sum From Farmers And Give Equal Amount For Promotion

ATLANTA, May 20.—(AP)—Cotton farmers will be asked to contribute one cent for each bale they produce this year for use in promoting the use of their staple throughout the world, under a plan approved today by the National Cotton Ginners association.

The grower's penny would be added to another put up by the ginner and a half a cent each by the cotton seed crusher, warehouseman and cotton merchant—a total of 3 1-2 cents a bale—to finance a three-point promotion program of the National Cotton council.

W. Rhea Blake of Stoneville, Miss., executive secretary of the council, who explained the financing plan at the ginners convention, estimated it would provide the council $250,000 net annually for its program. He said that counting a surplus from money already raised or pledged the council expected to have something like $350,000 available the first of next year to support research, legislation and advertising to increase the use of cotton.

"Considering the immensity of the cotton industry," he added, "this is not a large sum but it should enable us to do a great deal to promote the use of the staple, cutting down the surplus and increasing the price and opportunity for reduction."

Blake said the action of the ginners completed what can be done at pres-

HOSPITAL BIDS TO BE TAKEN JUNE 16

BATON ROUGE, May 20.—(AP)—The state hospital board will receive bids June 16 for the construction of the new regional charity hospital at Monroe, A. R. Johnson, state commissioner of welfare, announced today.

The foundation for the hospital has already been completed and contracts will be awarded at the letting for the superstructure, Johnson said. The hospital will contain 150 beds and will cost approximately $400,000.

This will be the fourth of the regional charity hospitals constructed under the program of medical care inaugurated by Governor Richard W. Leche and Commissioner Johnson subsequent to the creation of the state hospital board in 1936. A hospital is now in operation at Lafayette and others at Pineville and Independence are now being equipped and are expected to be placed in operation by midsummer.

CLEAN-UP IN 2 CITIES PLANNED

One Week's Campaign Will Be Prosecuted; Citizens Asked To Aid

The city beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce urges that all hoes, rakes, lawn mowers and all other implements of warfare on weeds, broken tree limbs, abandoned tin cans and litter of all description be impressed into immediate service, as well as all available yard men. The purpose of all this activity lies in the clean-up week project that starts Monday, sponsored by the city beautification group and aided by C. R. Tidwell, commissioner of streets and parks, and Mayor H. M. Williams, Jr., of West Monroe. Trucks of both cities will start their rounds early Monday to make collection and will continue their rounds throughout clean-up week, from Monday through Saturday.

Householders are urged to have the debris piled in the alley or on the neutral ground in front of residences as collectors with trucks will not enter anyone's property to make a collection, it is explained.

Special attention is called to tin cans in which stagnant rain water is found and in low places where there is water continuously. These places are fertile for the breeding of mosquitoes and the menace will be great all summer if action is not taken at once. The water should be removed and when this is impossible oil should be placed on the water to eradicate mosquito breeding, it is explained.

From the present outlook, the clean-up campaign this year promises to be a far greater success than in years past. Members of the city beautification committee have been active in their efforts to make of the event an outstanding success, stated Secretary George D. Holland of the Chamber of Commerce.

Members of this committee are the following: Thomas Frazer, chairman; R. W. Braswell, Mike John, Jr., Milton King, W. C. Ward, Joe Washburn and H. H. Brinsmade.

SHIP DAMAGED BY FIRE AT ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—(AP)—Fire today caused undetermined damage to the S. S. Aquarius of Houston and threatened two other freighters tied alongside before being extinguished in a two-hour fight.

The freighters, Hanover and Syros, moored on either side of the Aquarius, were saved from damage by members of the crews and by fire fighting tugs. The flames on the burning ship were confined to the upper structure.

The Aquarius 6,000 ton freighter owned by the Lykes Steamship line, was manned by skeleton crew at Quarantine Point, just below New Orleans in the Mississippi.

Fifteen other vessels, moored three and four abreast, just below these ships, were not endangered by the fire.

The blaze was discovered at an early hour by a nightwatchman and was extinguished by the dock board fire tugs Deluge and Sampson.

PEOPLE BELIEVE HITLER WILL GO IN SOME NIGHT

Assert He Will Simply March Into Danzig 'When Nobody Is Looking'

FUEHRER'S AIDES KNOW MATTER NOT SO SIMPLE

Realize Nation Must Be Prepared For Hard Struggle If Necessary

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP)—Positive action by Germany to enforce the Reich's demands on Poland appeared to be foreshadowed in Berlin tonight.

After a week crowded with significant events, three circumstances indicated Germany was about to call for a show-down on the Polish question. They were:

1. Announcement today by Chancellor Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter that fortifications were being built along the eastern frontier for defense against Poland.

2. The visit of the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to Berlin over the week-end to sign on Monday the German-Italian military pact to pool the military strength of the two states.

3. An ominous speech at Cologne last night by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who said with great vigor that "Danzig and the Polish corridor have been placed on the debating agenda." Th speech was featured by the German press today.

The solution toward which Germany seemed to be heading remained an official secret, but it appeared that Poland next week would be confronted with the new military pact; with notice that Germany's eastern defenses were strong and would be strengthened; and with Goebbels' declaration of an offensive against Warsaw.

Construction of a new eastern defense line was disclosed in Chancellor

Diplomatic Sources In France Disclose Plan To Send Assassin From Europe

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources reported today a plot had been discovered to send a man from Europe to the United States to assassinate Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of now-dissolved Czecho-Slovakia.

These sources said the scheme was hatched in German-occupied Prague both to weaken Czech standing in the United States and to remove an important opponent of the Nazi regime.

Dr. Benes, who resigned as president of the Czecho-Slovak republic after it was reduced in size by the Munich settlement of last September 29, has been in the United States since February 11.

Those who reported the plot said that with their information in the hands of the American police they believed much danger to the former president had been averted.

(In Chicago, E. B. Hitchcock, personal aide to Dr. Benes, declined to say whether the former president had been warned of a plot to assassinate him but said every precaution was being taken for his protection.

(Bohus Benes, a nephew of Dr. Benes, said two young policemen of Czech descent had been assigned by the Chicago police department as a bodyguard for his uncle.)

Stefan Osusky, former Czecho-

KING AND QUEEN STILL GREETED

No Let Up In Enthusiasm Of Receptions And Demonstrations Shown

OTTAWA, May 20. — (AP) — King George and Queen Elizabeth tonight rounded out four solid days of ceremonial welcoming to Canada, and in their "royal progress" through the North American dominion there was no let-up in the enthusiasm of receptions and the fervor of demonstrations.

Geographically, the royal couple have seen but a very small part of Canada, but half of the twelve million people of this country live in the two great eastern provinces where French Canadians and Canadians of British descent have been shouting in different languages but in the same spirit: "God save the king," and "vive le r[illegible]

[illegible] the queen, she is the toast of this part of the American continent. If a man ever ought to be proud of his wife, his Britannic majesty George VI is indebted to the gracious Scotswoman who has won Canadian hearts.

Today was set aside for celebration of King George's birthday, and it was one long public party.

In the uniform of a colonel of the Coldstream guards, with a towering bearskin hat, the king saw Canadian soldiers perform an old British custom of trooping the color. Queen Elizabeth made her first public address and laid the cornerstone of the new Canadian supreme court building.

They lunched privately with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and a few of his friends. They drove through Ottawa again, crossing this time the Ottawa river to Hull, Quebec, wound up their temporary residence at Government house where 5,000 attended a garden party, went back to town for a big government dinner at the Chateau Laurier, with appearances on a balcony before cheering crowds, witnessed a gigantic display of fireworks and with this finally were through for the day.

Tomorrow morning all Ottawa will gather in the central place of the city, Confederation square, to participate in the semi-religious ceremony of unveiling the national Canadian war memorial to the 60,000 men this country sacrificed in the World war. Many churches have cancelled regular services for this one.

This will conclude the two-day visit to the dominion capital and early Sunday afternoon the king and queen will take up residence in the royal train again and proceed to Kingston and other towns en route to Toronto, the final important city on the itinerary before the big swing west to Winnipeg, then the prairies, plains and Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast.

If the king and queen have made a great success of their visits to the great cities of eastern Canada, this is just as good a time as any to suggest that a good deal of credit goes to the Canadians themselves for the perfection and detail of the arrangements.

Every detail, from the 12-car royal train to the tea cakes at today's big garden party and the Canadian delicacy of moose meat, served to the royal guests at the government banquet tonight, has been faultless.

The king's birthday celebrations today were an example of arranging things, because actually it wasn't the king's birthday at all. He was born at York cottage, Sandringham, December 14, 1895, but the Canadian government thought it would be a fine thing to celebrate the king's birthday during this royal tour so they passed a law saying the king's birthday would be on May 20 this year.

Last year it was on June 9 because Canadians didn't want to celebrate it so close to Christmas.

ent in gaining approval of the financing plan, which was worked out on a tentative basis by a committee headed by Harold A. Young of North Little Rock, Ark., a cotton grower.

Representatives of the cotton seed crushers, warehousemen and cotton merchants already had given their assent, he explained, and since the growers have no national organization their support will be enlisted later by committees of five organized in each cotton producing county.

The ginner would collect the farmer's one cent a bale when the cotton is ginned, add it to his own contribution and turn the two cents over to the oil mill man for monthly remittance to the council along with the crusher's half a cent a bale quota. The warehousemen and merchant would remit direct.

W. H. Lovett of Dublin, president of the Georgia ginners, said he believed this plan put a disproportionately large burden on the ginners but that those in his state would "gladly shoulder the burden" for the benefit of others in the industry.

The National Ginners association also adopted resolutions urging that the government's 1939 cotton program payments be made this fall instead of sometime next year and that money the farmers paid out in 1933 and 1934 for "Bankhead script" be refunded.

The association reelected G. M. Lester, of Jackson, Miss., president, John C. Thompson, Dallas, Tex., vice-president, and Carl Williams, Jackson, Tenn., secretary-treasurer.

Lester explained the "Bankhead script" covered a tax on cotton produced in excess of allotments under a Bankhead cotton act later ruled unconstitutional. He estimated the payments totalled between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000.

ENLARGEMENTS IN PALACE WINDOW

Several weeks ago the News-Star—World candid cameraman started on a quota of 50,000 pictures. Almost everyone within 50 miles of this city has been photographed and many have appeared each day in the papers. And today on display at The Palace, in the big front window, you will find 75 7x9 inch sepia toned enlargements in folders, some of which have appeared in the papers. The majority of the enlargements are picked at random from pictures taken on the street by the candid cameraman.

The enlargements will be on display in the windows of The Palace until Wednesday, when the owners may receive them complimentary. When a picture is a group picture with two or more appearing, the first requesting the picture Wednesday will receive the enlargement.

When down town today visit The Palace, look over the pictures. Possibly the candid camera snapped you when you weren't looking, possibly your picture is on display. You can obtain these pictures on Wednesday, the compliments of The Palace and the News-Star—World candid camera.

tion of intolerable hours and wages. There is no question but that benefits have been derived from the passage of this legislation."

Six members of the conference were unable to be present, but L. W. (Chip) Robert, Jr., conference executive-director, said that five constituted a quorum and that the action of this number was "the action of the conference."

No names were mentioned in the "maladministration" charges.

Just before statements were handed to newspaper men, Governor Frank M. Dixon of Alabama was asked jokingly if the south had "seceded."

"No, we haven't seceded," he replied, "but I'm damned tired of being reconstructed."

Describing specifically what it meant by "maladministration," the statement said that the act contemplated that an industry's location and handicaps be taken into consideration but that "no such factors have been taken into consideration."

As a result, it continued, workers in various sections of the country face unemployment or are now unemployed "because of the forced shutting down of small business enterprises."

The governors said that workers thrown out of employment found themselves encountering "a wage differential despite the fact that such differential is not recognized in the present administration" of the law.

Governors attending today's conference were Dixon, E. D. Rivers of Georgia, chairman; Leon Phillips, Oklahoma; Carl Bailey, Arkansas, and Hugh White, Mississippi.

HAY FEVER TREATED MORE SUCCESSFULLY

NEW ORLEANS, May 20—(AP)— Science scored a new point in its battle against disease in the announcement here today by Tulane university of a secret chemical process for aiding sufferers from such maladies as asthma and hay fever.

The process, developed by Dr. Charlotte H. Boatner, assistant professor of chemistry at Newcomb college (women's college of Tulane), in collaboration with an allergist, provided more efficient allergic extracts, used in diagnosis and treatment.

Dr. Boatner said the discovery would permit preparation of extracts of far greater strength and uniformity than current methods, which would be to asthma what insulin is to diabetes.

The new preparation was expected to largely overcome obstacles encountered by extracts now used which were described as frequently not strong enough when used in tests to give a positive reaction to the excitant causing the trouble.

Hay fever and asthma are caused by hypersensitivity to such substances as certain kinds of food and dust. Extracts from these substances are used in tests to determine the particular excitant or allergen and then to build up resistance by injection of increasing doses.

Dr. Boatner said experiments thus far had been successful.

cent May 1 and his trial had been set for June 12.

The Star said Pendergast "must throw himself unreservedly upon the mercy of the court by admitting every charge the government has brought against him."

The maximum punishment is five years in prison and $10,000 fine on each of two counts.

To make full settlement with the government for civil liability for 1935 and 1936, Pendergast would have to pay delinquent taxes, penalties and interest approximating $450,000.

The Star said Pendergast would gain but one concession from the government by entering his plea at this time—the government to drop its investigation of his income for 1933, 1934 and 1937, well under way.

"There appears to be no chance whatever that Pendergast will be able to evade a prison term," the Star said. "More than a week ago the government representatives rejected bluntly suggestions that Pendergast be recommended for probation or, as a maximum, a jail term.

"The session in Judge Otis' court Monday morning is certain to be a dramatic thing. * * *

"The statement to be delivered orally by Milligan and Sam C. Blair, his assistant, will go into detail in describing how the evidence was assembled, the nature of it and facts and figures showing Pendergast's extravagant spending habits, including his 'sucker' activities in betting on (horse) races. It is expected that some startling figures about Pendergast's betting will be revealed.

"* * * The government attorneys are not expected to pull any punches."

Friends of the political chieftain, now 66 years old, indicated his health was too uncertain to risk the strain of a trial.

A federal grand jury which has continued its investigation of Pendergast's and O'Malley's incomes recessed late yesterday until Tuesday.

KING AND QUEEN STILL GREETED

No Let Up In Enthusiasm Of Receptions And Demonstrations Shown

OTTAWA, May 20. — (AP) — King George and Queen Elizabeth tonight rounded out four solid days of ceremonial welcoming to Canada, and in their "royal progress" through the North American dominion there was no let-up in the enthusiasm of receptions and the fervor of demonstrations.

Geographically, the royal couple have seen but a very small part of Canada, but half of the twelve million people of this country live in the two great eastern provinces where French Canadians and Canadians of British descent have been shouting in different languages but in the same spirit "God save the king," and "vive le roi."

[illegible] the queen, she is the toast of this part of the American continent. If a man ever ought to be proud of his wife, his Britannic majesty George VI is indebted to the gracious Scotswoman who has won Canadian hearts.

Today was set aside for celebration of King George's birthday, and it was one long public party.

In the uniform of a colonel of the Coldstream guards, with a towering bearskin hat, the king saw Canadian soldiers perform an old British custom of trooping the color. Queen Elizabeth made her first public address and laid the cornerstone of the new Canadian supreme court building.

They lunched privately with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and a few of his friends. They drove through Ottawa again, crossing this time the Ottawa river to Hull, Quebec, wound up their temporary residence at Government house where 5,000 attended a garden party, went back to town for a big government dinner at the Chateau Laurier, with appearances on a balcony before cheering crowds, witnessed a gigantic display of fireworks and with this finally were through for the day.

Tomorrow morning all Ottawa will gather in the central place of the city, Confederation square, to participate in the semi-religious ceremony of unveiling the national Canadian war memorial to the 60,000 men this country sacrificed in the World war. Many churches have cancelled regular services for this one.

This will conclude the two-day visit to the dominion capital and early Sunday afternoon the king and queen will take up residence in the royal train again and proceed to Kingston and other towns en route to Toronto, the final important city on the itinerary before the big swing west to Winnipeg, then the prairies, plains and Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast.

If the king and queen have made a great success of their visits to the great cities of eastern Canada, this is just as good a time as any to suggest that a good deal of credit goes to the Canadians themselves for the perfection and detail of the arrangements.

Every detail, from the 12-car royal train to the tea cakes at today's big garden party and the Canadian delicacy of moose meat, served to the royal guests at the government banquet tonight, has been faultless.

The king's birthday celebrations today were an example of arranging things, because actually it wasn't the king's birthday at all. He was born at York cottage, Sandringham, December 14, 1895, but the Canadian government thought it would be a fine thing to celebrate the king's birthday during this royal tour so they passed a law saying the king's birthday would be on May 20 this year.

Last year it was on June 9 because Canadians didn't want to celebrate it so close to Christmas.

ent in gaining approval of the financing plan, which was worked out on a tentative basis by a committee headed by Harold A. Young of North Little Rock, Ark., a cotton grower.

Representatives of the cotton seed crushers, warehousemen and cotton merchants already had given their assent, he explained, and since the growers have no national organization their support will be enlisted later by committees of five organized in each cotton producing county.

The ginner would collect the farmer's one cent a bale when the cotton is ginned, add it to his own contribution and turn the two cents over to the oil mill man for monthly remittance to the council along with the crusher's half a cent a bale quota. The warehousemen and merchant would remit direct.

W. H. Lovett of Dublin, president of the Georgia ginners, said he believed this plan put a disproportionately large burden on the ginners but that those in his state would "gladly shoulder the burden" for the benefit of others in the industry.

The National Ginners association also adopted resolutions urging that the government's 1939 cotton program payments be made this fall instead of sometime next year and that money the farmers paid out in 1933 and 1934 for "Bankhead script" be refunded.

The association reelected G. M. Lester, of Jackson, Miss., president; John C. Thompson, Dallas, Tex., vice-president, and Carl Williams, Jackson, Tenn., secretary-treasurer.

Lester explained the "Bankhead script" covered a tax on cotton produced in excess of allotments under a Bankhead cotton act later ruled unconstitutional. He estimated the payments totalled between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000.

BARKSDALE FIELD PRIVATE EXPIRES

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—Private James M. Hawkins, 38, of Barksdale Field here, who was flown yesterday from Memphis, Tenn., in an army bombing plane to the local air base hospital, where doctors fought to save his life, died today.

Hawkins became ill while visiting his parents at Vardaman, Miss., Friday afternoon Captain Frank Armstrong flew a plane over Vardaman, circling as a signal for an ambulance to take Hawkins toward Memphis and and suitable landing field.

The patient was transferred from the ambulance to the plane at Memphis and was rushed to the Barksdale hospital, but his condition grew steadily worse.

SHREVEPORT GIRL FATALLY INJURED

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—Miss Ann Keenan, 16-year-old junior at the Byrd High school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Keenan, of Shreveport, died today from injuries received Friday evening in a collision between a car in which she was riding and a truck just outside the city limits.

Miss Keenan with three high school companions was en route to a Goldbug (Byrd High organization) dinner and dance at the Shreveport Country club, when the accident occurred.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

NATCHEZ, Miss., May 20.—(AP)—Contract for superstructure of the Mississippi river bridge between Natchez and Vidalia, La., has been awarded to the Bethlehem Steel company of Bethlehem, Pa., for $1,474,000. The award was made by the mayor and city council, sponsors of the project. Work is now progressing on the bridge piers.

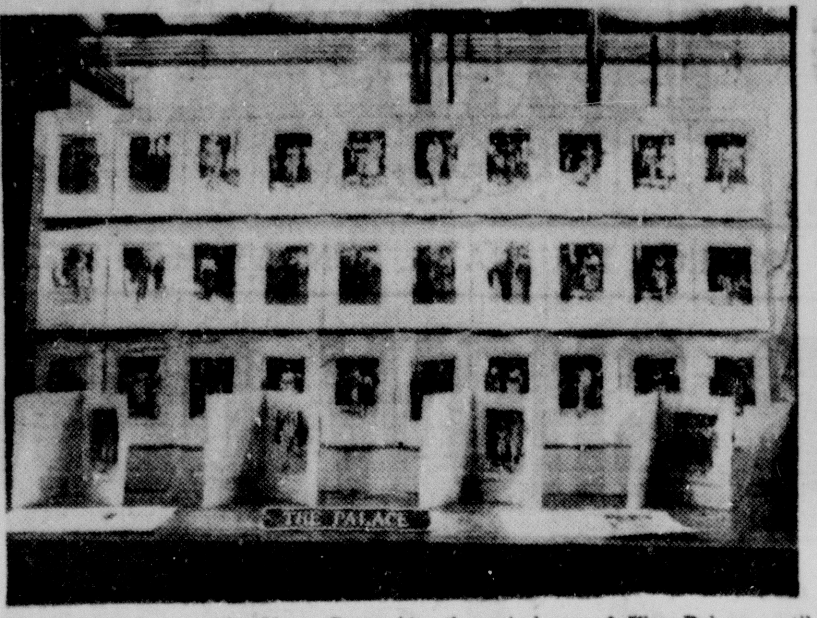
ENLARGEMENTS IN PALACE WINDOW



Several weeks ago the News-Star—World candid cameraman started on a quota of 50,000 pictures. Almost everyone within 50 miles of this city has been photographed and many have appeared each day in the papers. And today on display at The Palace, in the big front window, you will find 75 7x9 inch sepia toned enlargements in folders, some of which have appeared in the papers. The majority of the enlargements are picked at random from pictures taken on the street by the candid cameraman.

The enlargements will be on display in the windows of The Palace until Wednesday, when the owners may receive them complimentary. When a picture is a group picture with two or more appearing, the first requesting the picture Wednesday will receive the enlargement.

GOVERNORS RAP PAY-HOUR RULE

tion of intolerable hours and wages. There is no question but that benefits have been derived from the passage of this legislation."

Six members of the conference were unable to be present, but L. W. (Chip) Robert, Jr., conference executive-director, said that five constituted a quorum and that the action of this number was "the action of the conference."

No names were mentioned in the "maladministration" charges.

Just before statements were handed to newspaper men, Governor Frank M. Dixon of Alabama was asked jokingly if the south had "seceded."

"No, we haven't seceded," he replied, "but I'm damned tired of being reconstructed."

Describing specifically what it meant by "maladministration," the statement said that the act contemplated that an industry's location and handicaps be taken into consideration but that "no such factors have been taken into consideration."

As a result, it continued, workers in various sections of the country face unemployment or are now unemployed "because of the forced shutting down of small business enterprises."

The governors said that workers thrown out of employment found themselves encountering "a wage differential despite the fact that such differential is not recognized in the present administration" of the law.

Governors attending today's conference were Dixon, E. D. Rivers of Georgia, chairman; Leon Phillips, Oklahoma; Carl Bailey, Arkansas, and Hugh White, Mississippi.

REV. WATSON TO ADDRESS CLASS

tion will sing the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

A tenor solo, "The Lord Is My Light," by Allitsen, will be rendered by Lavan Robinson, Miss Mack Fay Hammons, accompanist.

Following the address by Rev. Watson, and the singing of the doxology, the benediction will be pronounced and as the audience is remaining seated, the members of the class of 1939 will file from the room.

Immediately at the close of this service, a tea will be served to honor the graduates at the home of Dean and Mrs. C. C. Colvert, in Spurgeon drive.

The seventh annual commencement of Northeast Junior college will take place on May 29 at 10 a.m.

HAY FEVER TREATED MORE SUCCESSFULLY

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—(AP)—Science scored a new point in its battle against disease in the announcement here today by Tulane university of a secret chemical process for aiding sufferers from such maladies as asthma and hay fever.

The process, developed by Dr. Charlotte H. Boatner, assistant professor of chemistry at Newcomb college (women's college of Tulane), in collaboration with an allergist, provided more efficient allergic extracts, used in diagnosis and treatment.

Dr. Boatner said the discovery would permit preparation of extracts of far greater strength and uniformity than current methods, which would be to asthma what insulin is to diabetes.

The new preparation was expected to largely overcome obstacles encountered by extracts now used which were described as frequently not strong enough when used in tests to give a positive reaction to the excitant causing the trouble.

Hay fever and asthma are caused by hypersensitivity to such substances as certain kinds of food and dust. Extracts from these substances are used in tests to determine the particular excitant or allergen and then to build up resistance by injection of increasing doses.

Dr. Boatner said experiments thus far had been successful.

DR. CHARLES MAYO ILL OF PNEUMONIA

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP)—The condition of Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous Rochester, Minn., physician and surgeon, was reported as favorable today by attendants at Mercy hospital, where he is being treated for pneumonia.

Attendants said Dr. Mayo, who is 73, spent a comfortable night, although he is not out of danger. He was stricken last night in his hotel suite.

PENDERGAST TO CONFESS GUILT

cent May 1 and his trial had been set for June 12.

The Star said Pendergast "must throw himself unreservedly upon the mercy of the court by admitting every charge the government has brought against him."

The maximum punishment is five years in prison and $10,000 fine on each of two counts.

To make full settlement with the government for civil liability for 1935 and 1936, Pendergast would have to pay delinquent taxes, penalties and interest approximating $450,000.

The Star said Pendergast would gain but one concession from the government by entering his plea at this time—the government to drop its investigation of his income for 1933, 1934 and 1937, well under way.

"There appears to be no chance whatever that Pendergast will be able to evade a prison term," the Star said. "More than a week ago the government representatives rejected bluntly suggestions that Pendergast be recommended for probation or, as a maximum, a jail term.

"The session in Judge Otis' court Monday morning is certain to be a dramatic thing. * * *

"The statement to be delivered orally by Milligan and Sam C. Blair, his assistant, will go into detail in describing how the evidence was assembled, the nature of it and facts and figures showing Pendergast's extravagant spending habits, including his 'sucker' activities in betting on (horse) races. It is expected that some startling figures about Pendergast's betting will be revealed.

"* * * The government attorneys are not expected to pull any punches."

Friends of the political chieftain, now 66 years old, indicated his health was too uncertain to risk the strain of a trial.

A federal grand jury which has continued its investigation of Pendergast's and O'Malley's incomes recessed late yesterday until Tuesday.

The Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco had taken in $3,249,000 in toll fees up to May of this year. Revenues in March, 1939, were $1,300 a day more than in the same month of 1938.

CONDITION OF TRUCK DRIVER IS CRITICAL

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—The condition of Robert Smith, 25, of New Orleans, a truck driver for a transportation company of New Orleans, injured early Thursday morning on the Coushatta road 20 miles south of Shreveport, in a truck collision was reported by an attending physician as extremely critical today with little hope entertained for his recovery.

Smith is said to have been lighting a cigarette when his truck rammed another truck. Acetylene torches were used to cut away the wreckage before Smith could be removed.

Figures Don't Lie

Figures, when viewed in an abstract and disinterested manner, are practically meaningless. Conversely, when viewed in the light of interest and careful study they become alive with dynamic truth.

That is quoted from a bulletin entitled "Statistical Analysis of Purchasing Power of Northeast Louisiana Parishes," the latest in the series of treatises on certain economic aspects of Monroe's trade territory issued by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe.

To say that facts and figures contained in such an analysis are most significant is a trite expression, but this latest bulletin is well worth digesting, indeed. And this analysis is significant in that it proves with figures the tremendous possibilities of northeast Louisiana as a profitable market, as well as the expansion of Monroe as a wholesale and jobbing center.

For instance, the average purchasing power per capita for the state is $202.00. The highest per capita purchasing power in 16 parishes of northeast Louisiana is $233.00. The lowest per capita in any parish in Louisiana is $86, while the lowest in this section is $151. The per capita purchasing power of eight parishes east of the Ouachita river is $201, while that of eight parishes west of the river included in the survey is $187.62.

The value of industries to Ouachita parish is well illustrated. We often think of agriculture as the principal contribution to our economic welfare, yet 27.4 per cent of Ouachita parish's total income for 1937, the latest figures available, came from industrial payrolls, as compared with 14.3 for agricultural income.

A study of the report will reveal the importance of Monroe as a wholesale center. Latest figures available were those of 1935, which show 71 wholesale establishments in that year, as compared to 56 in 1933 and 41 in 1929, the so-called boom year of the present decade. Wholesale trade amounted to $15,842,000 in 1935 and $14,020,000 in 1929. Sales reached a low of $11,200,000 in 1933. Ten per cent of Ouachita parish's income in 1937 was derived from the wholesale payroll here. That is only 4.3 per cent under the agricultural figure.

The analysis as a whole indicates a forward trend in our section. While the figures on manufacturing and retailing for 1935 are not as large as those for 1929, they show a decided increase over 1933. Undoubtedly figures for 1937 and 1938 will show an even greater total than during the depression years and judging from the steady improvement shown from 1933 to 1935, latest figures when available may top those of 1929.

The bulletin, first of all, illustrates the tremendous economic possibilities in northeast Louisiana, of which Monroe is the principal city and the logical trading center. It reveals that Monroe business houses, through constant expansion, are serving our neighbors more efficiently and in ever increasing numbers from year to year. And it shows that northeast Louisiana is in better condition economically than many other parts of the state.

An aggressive, forward policy by our people—not only in Monroe and West Monroe but throughout the entire section—will result in even greater improvement during the remainder of 1939. The Chamber of Commerce's bulletin proves that it can be done.

HITLER'S WORST OFFENSE

Historians may, in the long run, decide that Herr Hitler's worst offense against civilization was the forcing of huge war preparations upon the nations of Europe. When one man virtually converts a whole continent into a powder keg, he has certainly conspired, regardless of any self-conceived justification, against the welfare of mankind.

Great Britain, for example, has been forced into an unprecedented peacetime conscription move. France is arming to the teeth and manning her eastern fortifications day and night. Even the smaller nations have developed such a bad case of jitters that they are spending for armaments far in excess of normal amounts.

It all comes down to a state of mind, to a matter of basic attitude. No one has confidence in Hitler when he declares for peace. No one is satisfied that his demands at any one moment represent the sum total of what he is really after.

If the situation can be ameliorated without a colossal blow-up, a diplomatic miracle indeed will have been achieved. It is in this sense that the recurring crises are a real menace to international stability and that the Rome-Berlin axis is a potent threat to the pacification of the world. The tragedy of it is that one word from Hitler, if a word of obvious sincerity, could change it all for the better.

Senator Hattie Caraway, speaking of the European situation, advises us to keep our mouths shut. The Nazis and Fascists will claim anything that's open.

A Lorain, O., postman estimates he has walked more than 110,000 miles. The pity of it is that most of it has been to deliver statements and circulars.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—This is the congress that was going to do big things in the way of economizing.

It applauded ironically last January when President Roosevelt, delivering his annual message, suggested that it could obtain economy if it so desired by cutting expenditures sharply. It followed up by sailing into the WPA deficiency appropriation bill and knocking $150,000,000 off it. It talked economy almost daily thereafter.

But, by this time, 4½ months of the session have passed, and a few votes have been taken. And the sad fact is that after it handled the WPA bill and got the oratory out of its system, congress settled down to add to the deficit in a whole-hearted, two-handed manner. The total increases may well run over 500 millions of dollars.

Drawing Comparisons

What the performance has been like can be gauged by glancing at the sums actually voted to date and comparing them with the sums recommended in the budget which the president submitted to congress early in the year.

The most striking case, of course, is the agriculture department appropriation bill which is still pending.

In the budget, this was listed at $705,000,000.

When the bill passed the house, it carried $835,000,000. It had not been in the senate a week before the total had risen to $1,216,000,000—the senators accomplishing this feat by boosting parity payments $225,000,000, sticking in $25,000,000 under the farm tenant act, and hiking the surplus commodities expenditures by $113,000,000.

The budget put the navy department down for $720,987,000 (in all of these figures the odd thousands are omitted). When the navy bill got through the house it carried $773,000,000. It has not yet been acted on by the senate.

Army, Office Figures Up

The budget offered the army $461,710,000. When the army appropriations bill reached the president it carried $508,789,000.

Biggest single appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1940 to come before congress to date is the independent offices bill. This was budgeted at $1,656,000,000; it was passed carrying $1,668,000,000.

Some economies were made here and there along the line, of course.

The budget allowed $51,562,000 for the District of Columbia. The house knocked this down to $46,302,000 and sent it to the senate, which has not yet acted on it. District of Columbia residents whose municipal services (such as hospitals, police and fire departments, and so on) are covered in this bill, have no vote.

The budget allowed expenditures in the postoffice department of $733,331,000. This went through at $730,000,000.

The department of labor was budgeted to get $30,930,000. The bill which passed the house and went on to the senate carried $30,847,000.

Looks Bad For Economy

The budget allowed $23,543,000 for the legislative establishment. As passed by the two houses and adjusted in conference, the legislative establishment bill carries $21,985,000.

The record is by no means complete as yet, of course. Many of the totals listed above may change materially before the bills actually go to the White House for signature. Some sizable appropriation measures have not yet come to a vote.

But the indications are pretty clear.

The administration won't demand economy, and congress obviously won't go ahead and economize on its own hook, in spite of all its oratory.

And so economy just won't be forthcoming at this session

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Sometimes I wonder how many of the beautiful young things who gush so volubly about their "art," really want to be great actresses. Today, for instance, I witnessed a battle between one of our minor stars and her director. The scene called for her to appear overwrought and disheveled. The director wanted realism; she was concerned only with her desire to appear beautiful. And, as usual, she had her way. In that particular scene, she will be about as genuine as a ten cent store tiara. Probably the director will get the blame.

Talk to that same star tomorrow and the odds are she will go into an absolute dither about her burning ambition to be a second Bernhardt. I've been hearing such misty-eyed harangues for twenty years—yet in all that time, not more than one or two of the haranguers has been sincere enough to forget vanity, throw beauty overboard and concentrate on honest-to-goodness emotional acting. Bette Davis, of course, is the outstanding exception. Helen Hayes was an exception; Elizabeth Bergner is a third. All three have scored their greatest successes and made themselves the three high-priestesses of their profession by consigning beauty to the devil—if beauty happened to interfere with a realistic characterization. As Madelon Claudet, Hayes made herself a hag; as the little strumpet in "Of Human Bondage," Bette was not afraid to be hateful as well as homely.

If any actress is really ambitious to be "great" her first step should be the adoption of the Hayes-Davis-Bergner attitude. Beauty consciousness and acting ability are oil and water—they don't mix.

Idol Chatter: Ethereal beauty's all right in its way—but in the case of Anita Louise I wish it weighed about ten pounds more. Hollywood similes, as humorless as one of Francis Lederer's pet jokes. Mention "gorgeous brunette" in my presence and I'll think of Dolores del Rio—quick as a wink. Flashes of the Filmville scene: Ned Sparks in Sardi's looking sourly at a caricature of Ned Sparks looking sourly at nothing.

Wonder who Vincent Price hires to wear his clothes the first year or two? There's something irresistibly stimulating about Joy Hodge's crispy walk. Peas-in-a-pod: June (Mrs. Stuart Erwin) Collyer and Mary Astor—in profile. According to Hugh Herbert, going Hollywood isn't so much a state of mind as it is a state of pocketbook.

Strange people, these studio financiers. For instance, to punish Wayne Morris for his pained squawks about the size of his salary, his studio bosses resolutely refused to grant him a formal raise, even after he had appeared in several hits. But, to keep him happy, they gave him a weekly bonus. And that weekly bonus has been kited from time to time until it now amounts to exactly twice as much as his regular paycheck.

No matter how many times I see them, the American flags flown for movie scenes always give me a shock. Instead of being the proper red, white and blue, they are black, white and gray. The real colors, filmed in monochrome, never balance realistically.

Quotes and Comments: A Chicago columnist asks: "What will Movieland gossips talk about now that all the glamour girls and boys are safely married?" Probable dates and causes of their divorces, no doubt. . . . Rosalind Russell, in a fan mag: "I live alone—and I hate it. I'd like to have a man around the house, all draped in tool chests and buzz saws, tinkering away like mad." Why not call a carpenter? . . . Richard Greene: "I was so bewildered I didn't even get a thrill when I found myself making love to Loretta Young in my first scenes." Aw, shucks—is that chivalry?

Glancing through the back files of a trade paper this morning to verify a picture title, I ran across a page advertisement for Universal Pictures. It was illustrated with small photographs of forty players and, over all, in large type, was this advice: "Watch for these new faces in Universal Pictures—these are the stars of tomorrow. The date of the publication was November, 1936—just 2 1-2 years ago. Of the pictured forty, only two, Deanna Durbin and Nan Gray, are still under contract to Universal. Two others, Louis Hayward and Wendy Barrie, have made satisfactory progress. Twenty-five have disappeared from the screen entirely. Comment, it seems to me, is almost superfluous.

Ask Gertrude Niesen, just back from a London stage engagement, if she was presented with a gas-mask by military defense authorities while there and you'll find she has a pat answer. "They offered me one," she retorts, "but I refused it. Why should I need a gas mask after the years I've spent working in American night clubs."

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

With women barging in everywhere—into bars, professions, offices, colleges, sports, congress, the president's cabinet and even M. I. T.—the stock exchange has been the last holdout, the stubbornly held citadel of organized, specialized and exclusive masculinity, the Alamo of this little beleaguered band. Operators, pages, clerks, runners, stenographers have been men.

But at last, here's the teletyping on the clacking ticker, just as ominous as that doomful flash on the wall of Belshazzar's palace. The curb exchange has installed a comely receptionist, Miss Ruth Virginia Maclin of Tennessee, and has arranged for the cordial reception of visitors in a roped-off enclosure. Her minions are specially trained page boys who serve as escorts for the visitors.

Miss Maclin is a sort of official hostess, making everybody feel at home, when they drop in to watch the traders scalping eighths even if this is a rather desultory business in these days of low sales volume. The women have thrust a tiny toeless shoe into the narrow crack of a big bronze door long closed against them. What next?

The incident is not unrelated to other recent developments in the stock exchanges. The fact is that these practitioners of a bloodless and statistical art are mellowing quite noticeaby.

Within the last few weeks we have noted the start of the first large-scale good-will advertising by stock exchange firms, seeking to enlighten the public on what the exchange is, how it works and how it performs a necessary and useful service in our complicated economy.

Back in the days of "Sockless Jerry" Simpson of Kansas, everybody west of the Alleghenies was convinced that all stock brokers had horns and put in a full working shift every day robbing the farmer and working man. In the flush days of the twenties, the latter were eager to learn how the ogreish brokers worked the trick and began to "fade" Wall Street, making quite a few straight passes before they finally rolled snake-eyes. There was a measure of enlightenment in that, and as Wall Street goes human, it doesn't have to buck anything like the hostility of those pre-war days. Furthermore, the board of governors has done a lot of renovating on its own account, entirely apart from the prodding of Messrs. Pujo, Pecora, Douglas, et al, and nobody turns in a riot call when a stock exchange house starts explaining why and how it helps to keep the wheels of industry turning and pay checks moving.

Edwin Markham has a poem in which it is related that somebody or other was dealing misery to his crowd. This outsider had "drawn a circle" which excluded the poet. The poem concludes:

"But Love and I had wit to win;
We drew a circle and took him in."

As Jim Watson of Indiana once said: "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

And so, with the harried brokers, regardless of the fact that their partner may be Money, rather than Love. Their wider inclusiveness is revealed in many ways. Just a little while ago you had to go through all sorts of abracadabra, everything short of vaccination and an allergy test, to get into the stock exchange, with a pass from a member and his personal escort to the balcony. That's all done away with now. John W. Featherstone, the Whatcheer, Ia., hardware dealer, can step up to the window and be passed in without any fuss whatsoever, and only the most casual identification. The exchange invites all and sundry to note that it has nothing up its sleeve.

Our world's fair makes a grand occasion for declaring everybody in. Many brokers display signs inviting fair visitors to come around, ask questions and see all the sights. It would appear that world's fairs are useful in mixing up the citizenry in this way. Probably few of the bitterest haters of Wall Street back in Bryan's day never saw either Wall Street or a broker. And again it won't do Wall Street [illegible] to take to just [illegible] people from the sticks. The process of enlightenment doubtless works both ways.

The note on Miss Maclin of Tennessee acting as hostess at the curb exchange is a follow-up on a story we had the other day about charming southern girls being a smash-hit in public contact jobs here. What could be more appropriate than the warmly inclusive southern "you all" in opening our marts of trade to all comers? Maybe we need more "you all" and "we all" in our national make-up, and less of the "me and mine."

That Body of Yours

MANY PHYSICIANS NOW HAVE METABOLISM MACHINES

One of the pieces of apparatus that is coming more into use in physicians' offices is that used for the metabolism test—rate at which the body processes are working. This rate is controlled by the thyroid gland in the neck. The body processes would go on without this gland but this gland decides or determines how fast the process will work.

This metabolism machine is now made so small that the physician can carry it to the home of the patient and make the test quietly without the mental disturbance and physical effort of going to the hospital metabolism clinic. Some patients get so upset by going to hospital before breakfast in the morning that it is necessary to have them rest from a half to as long as an hour and a half before they are sufficiently quieted down to undergo the test. And even after this rest there may be the "inward" emotion that makes the body processes go a little more rapidly than they would if the patient were completely calm in mind.

For years, the use of this metabolism machine has enabled physicians to learn whether the thyroid gland was pouring the normal amount of juice into the blood, or if, on the other hand, it was pouring too much or not enough. One of the results of too much thyroid juice is a rapid heart beat and loss of body weight, where there is not enough juice, the heart is slower than normal and there is an increase of fat in and on the body.

A more recent finding is that when the thyroid gland is overactive too much juice the ability of the liver to filter harmful substances from the blood is lessened so that the individual loses some of his protection from the waste substances resulting from digestion. It was found that when a part or all of the thyroid gland was removed in these cases, the liver's ability to rid the blood of harmful substances became normal or nearly normal.

It can thus be seen that with a metabolism equipment in the physician's office, the patient will undergo the test just as his heart, lungs, or blood pressure is tested. It will not disturb or upset him and so spoil the reading.

It will immediately give the physician some very helpful information in trying to find the cause of the patient's symptoms.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I don't know about that. We ought to tell Sam that he will have to take on this extra burden of work if he expects to enter engineering school. He has such a temper. At the least word he flares off the handle. We [illegible] speaking to him about it."

"I spoke to him about it yesterday. He knows all about it. I'm telling you about it now because it means a change in Sam's program."

"Did he get angry and throw things and [illegible] in the face?"

"No. I've never seen Sam behave that way. He's been with us now for three years and nothing like that has ever happened. What makes you think he would lose his temper? There's nothing to lose his temper about. But [illegible]."

"At home nobody dares speak to him about anything. Not about coming to his meals when they are ready, or closing a door he has left open, or anything. He has a perfectly terrible temper. We simply don't know what to do about it."

"I'd suggest that you stand right there, wait until he loses his breath and ask him, 'What of it?' Then tell him what you mean and mean it. This is nonsense. No boy can be allowed to behave like that. He never loses his temper here, and he gets along with many, many people who are not especially thoughtful about his feelings."

"You don't know our Sam. His temper is terrible and we are afraid to rouse it. He might do anything."

The chances are that Sam wouldn't do anything but grumble a bit and subside, like the rest of us when life goes against us. But Sam has been allowed to believe that his temper tantrum governs the household. All he has to do when he wants to feel important is to shake himself and roar.

Don't let such gestures frighten anybody into submission to them. Stand still, keep still, and wait for him to exhaust himself and then say, briefly, what you have to say. And never, if you can possibly help it, let a child profit by a temper tantrum, or any other indication of his desire to dominate the family for his own pleasure.

I once went home with a school friend, something I was forbidden to do. We were about eight years apiece and he said, "Come along home. I'll make my mother give us a pie." When we reached the kitchen the boy's mother was not there, but her sister was and my friend proceeded according to formula. He went into a rage, stamping, shouting, yelling for his pie. His aunt looked at him with horrified eyes, lifted a bowl of not too fresh water from the table and let him have it squarely in the face. As he gasped for breath she lifted the window and showed him the coveted little pastry, saying, "And for all that you don't get it. The birds can have it. They have manners." And out went the pastry to the sparrows.

I don't know whether that cured him, or not, but it cured me of any desire to go anywhere he went, or do anything he did. It is best not to be afraid of children's gestures, but to deal with them firmly, intelligently and finally.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—Every time President Roosevelt comes out with a new consolidation and reorganization plan, teeth chatter from one end of Pennsylvania avenue to the other, but when he ordered abolishment of the national coal commission in his second plan the titters outdid the teeth-chattering.

The coal commission has been a comedy of administration errors since it was invented four years ago. The supreme court abolished it once in the Carter coal case but it was recreated under a new act. And almost at once some of the fanciest stories of patronage rows ever heard in Washington began leaking out.

The strange part of it was that anybody who wanted to verify them could do so. The side that was getting licked on patronage was always willing to tell of the injustices heaped upon them.

There was the matter of ink wells. Of the seven members of the commission, three for a long time were in the "minority camp." One day an employe of one of the minority commissioners strolled into the office of a majority commissioner. Resting upon the majority commissioner's desk was a combination fountain-pen and ink stand set that was a marvel to behold. It was a $12 model and really a splendid work of art and utility.

Minority Evens Things Up

But only the majority members had these splendiferous ink and pen sets. The minority members had just a bottle of ink. They went to the newspapers about it. Justice was done.

But that was not all. Tribal jealousies developed. One of the minority members found that his secretary was paid $[illegible] a year instead of the $[illegible] a year paid to the secretary of one of the majority members.

Instantly the minority member brought it up in commission meeting. We saw both [illegible] and we couldn't tell the $[illegible] secretary from the $[illegible] secretary except that we thought the $[illegible] one a little prettier. Anyway, the under-privileged secretaries got an increase in pay.

There were other patronage rows. Minority members protested that Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, who instigated the coal law, was getting a lion's share of the patronage. Guffey valiantly denied it but Senator Rush Dew Holt of West Virginia, who wanted some of the patronage but was not getting it, [illegible] being a rambunctious fellow, printed the whole coal commission payroll in the congressional record.

Lots Of Dittos

The home states of scores of employes [illegible] to be a ditto. One word "[illegible]" would be printed near the top of the page and then a long [illegible] of ditto marks [illegible] the employes should come from Pennsylvania [illegible] of all the states in the union Pennsylvania is the [illegible]. But after [illegible] and Holt felt that he should have had a bigger view of the patronage, anyway, more especially since his home state of West Virginia is right up close to Pennsylvania as a coal state.

The commission's chief job was to determine a schedule of [illegible] prices for [illegible] present [illegible] other mines. It was [illegible] that it [illegible] price [illegible] has been fixed up.

Don't wait for a copy to find out what your stove coal should cost. So complex [illegible] that it requires a coal expert to make head or tail of it.

Of course the work of the commission isn't [illegible], just the commission. The work will be carried on under the department of interior. That is Secretary Ickes. To him will go all the employes yoked together [illegible] the New Deal's most hectic experiment.

When Rogers Flew To Help Managuans

AN earthquake lasting only six seconds practically destroyed Managua, Nicaragua, in April, 1931. Thousands were killed, nearly every building in the business district was razed, thousands were left homeless. For 24 hours the stricken city suffered fear of further disturbances and then came lack of food and water and simultaneous outbreak of disease.

This was the scene that greeted the humorist Will Rogers when he arrived in Managua a few hours after the quake, began climbing over the ruins of homes and office building.

Rogers had come to organize help for the Managuans and he lost no time in doing it, beginning by donating $5000 himself. Very shortly, he had induced "friends" to donate many thousands more.

"What do they need here?" he inquired of U. S. marines working in the stricken area. "Who is receiving funds? Who is on the committee? What is the best way to help these people?"

Informed that canned milk, rice, corn and beans were the greatest necessities, Rogers spun a droll story about "there's no bean ever was a bad bean." Thus he brought a ray of good humor to the scene at a time when refugees and rescuers alike faced a grim picture.

That trip was a complete conquest for Will Rogers. The people of Managua never forgot him. That is why the country has chosen to honor the memory of the late humorist with a set of five values, picturing him on the earthquake scene in Managua. One is shown above.

Figures Don't Lie

Figures, when viewed in an abstract and disinterested manner, are practically meaningless. Conversely, when viewed in the light of interest and careful study they become alive with dynamic truth.

That is quoted from a bulletin entitled "Statistical Analysis of Purchasing Power of Northeast Louisiana Parishes," the latest in the series of treatises on certain economic aspects of Monroe's trade territory issued by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe.

To say that facts and figures contained in such an analysis are most significant is a trite expression, but this latest bulletin is well worth digesting, indeed. And this analysis is significant in that it proves with figures the tremendous possibilities of northeast Louisiana as a profitable market, as well as the expansion of Monroe as a wholesale and jobbing center.

For instance, the average purchasing power per capita for the state is $202.00. The highest per capita purchasing power in 16 parishes of northeast Louisiana is $233.00. The lowest per capita in any parish in Louisiana is $86, while the lowest in this section is $151. The per capita purchasing power of eight parishes east of the Ouachita river is $201, while that of eight parishes west of the river included in the survey is $187.62.

The value of industries to Ouachita parish is well illustrated. We often think of agriculture as the principal contribution to our economic welfare, yet 27.4 per cent of Ouachita parish's total income for 1937, the latest figures available, came from industrial payrolls, as compared with 14.3 for agricultural income.

A study of the report will reveal the importance of Monroe as a wholesale center. Latest figures available were those of 1935, which show 71 wholesale establishments in that year, as compared to 56 in 1933 and 41 in 1929, the so-called boom year of the present decade. Wholesale trade amounted to $15,842,000 in 1935 and $14,020,000 in 1929. Sales reached a low of $11,200,000 in 1933. Ten per cent of Ouachita parish's income in 1937 was derived from the wholesale payroll here. That is only 4.3 per cent under the agricultural figure.

The analysis as a whole indicates a forward trend in our section. While the figures on manufacturing and retailing for 1935 are not as large as those for 1929, they show a decided increase over 1933. Undoubtedly figures for 1937 and 1938 will show an even greater total than during the depression years and judging from the steady improvement shown from 1933 to 1935, latest figures when available may top those of 1929.

The bulletin, first of all, illustrates the tremendous economic possibilities in northeast Louisiana, of which Monroe is the principal city and the logical trading center. It reveals that Monroe business houses, through constant expansion, are serving our neighbors more efficiently and in ever increasing numbers from year to year. And it shows that northeast Louisiana is in better condition economically than many other parts of the state.

An aggressive, forward policy by our people—not only in Monroe and West Monroe but throughout the entire section—will result in even greater improvement during the remainder of 1939. The Chamber of Commerce's bulletin proves that it can be done.

HITLER'S WORST OFFENSE

Historians may, in the long run, decide that Herr Hitler's worst offense against civilization was the forcing of huge war preparations upon the nations of Europe. When one man virtually converts a whole continent into a powder keg, he has certainly conspired, regardless of any self-conceived justification, against the welfare of mankind.

Great Britain, for example, has been forced into an unprecedented peacetime conscription move. France is arming to the teeth and manning her eastern fortifications day and night. Even the smaller nations have developed such a bad case of jitters that they are spending for armaments far in excess of normal amounts.

It all comes down to a state of mind, to a matter of basic attitude. No one has confidence in Hitler when he declares for peace. No one is satisfied that his demands at any one moment represent the sum total of what he is really after.

If the situation can be ameliorated without a colossal blow-up, a diplomatic miracle indeed will have been achieved. It is in this sense that the recurring crises are a real menace to international stability and that the Rome-Berlin axis is a potent threat to the pacification of the world. The tragedy of it is that one word from Hitler, if a word of obvious sincerity, could change it all for the better.

Senator Hattie Caraway, speaking of the European situation, advises us to keep our mouths shut. The Nazis and Fascists will claim anything that's open.

A Lorain, O., postman estimates he has walked more than 110,000 miles. The pity of it is that most of it has been to deliver statements and circulars.

Farmers can't be expected to stay out of war any longer. The grasshoppers are coming!

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—This is the congress that was going to do big things in the way of economizing.

It applauded ironically last January when President Roosevelt, delivering his annual message, suggested that it could obtain economy if it so desired by cutting expenditures sharply. It followed up by sailing into the WPA deficiency appropriation bill and knocking $150,000,000 off it. It talked economy almost daily thereafter.

But, by this time, 4½ months of the session have passed, and a few votes have been taken. And the sad fact is that after it handled the WPA bill and got the oratory out of its system, congress settled down to add to the deficit in a whole-hearted, two-handed manner. The total increases may well run over 500 millions of dollars.

Drawing Comparisons

What the performance has been like can be gauged by glancing at the sums actually voted to date and comparing them with the sums recommended in the budget which the president submitted to congress early in the year.

The most striking case, of course, is the agriculture department appropriation bill which is still pending.

In the budget, this was listed at $705,000,000.

When the bill passed the house, it carried $835,000,000. It had not been in the senate a week before the total had risen to $1,216,000,000—the senators accomplishing this feat by boosting parity payments $225,000,000, sticking in $25,000,000 under the farm tenant act, and hiking the surplus commodities expenditures by $113,000,000.

The budget put the navy department down for $720,987,000 (in all of these figures the odd thousands are omitted). When the navy bill got through the house it carried $773,000,000. It has not yet been acted on by the senate.

Army, Office Figures Up

The budget offered the army $461,710,000. When the army appropriations bill reached the president it carried $508,789,000.

Biggest single appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1940 to come before congress to date is the independent offices bill. This was budgeted at $1,656,000,000; it was passed carrying $1,668,000,000.

Some economies were made here and there along the line, of course.

The budget allowed $51,562,000 for the District of Columbia. The house knocked this down to $46,902,000 and sent it to the senate, which has not yet acted on it. District of Columbia residents whose municipal services (such as hospitals, police and fire departments, and so on) are covered in this bill, have no vote.

The budget allowed expenditures in the postoffice department of $793,331,000. This went through at $790,000,000.

The department of labor was budgeted to get $30,930,000. The bill which passed the house and went on to the senate carried $30,847,000.

Looks Bad For Economy

The budget allowed $23,543,000 for the legislative establishment. As passed by the two houses and adjusted in conference, the legislative establishment bill carries $21,985,000.

The record is by no means complete as yet, of course. Many of the totals listed above may change materially before the bills actually go to the White House for signature. Some sizable appropriation measures have not yet come to a vote.

But the indications are pretty clear.

The administration won't demand economy, and congress obviously won't go ahead and economize on its own hook, in spite of all its oratory.

And so economy just won't be forthcoming at this session.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Sometimes I wonder how many of the beautiful young things who gush so volubly about their "art," really want to be great actresses. Today, for instance, I witnessed a battle between one of our minor stars and her director. The scene called for her to appear overwrought and disheveled. The director wanted realism; she was concerned only with her desire to appear beautiful. And, as usual, she had her way. In that particular scene, she will be about as genuine as a ten cent store tiara. Probably the director will get the blame.

Talk to that same star tomorrow and the odds are she will go into an absolute dither about her burning ambition to be a second Bernhardt. I've been hearing such misty-eyed harangues for twenty years—yet in all that time, not more than one or two of the haranguers has been sincere enough to forget vanity, throw beauty overboard and concentrate on honest-to-goodness emotional acting. Bette Davis, of course, is the outstanding exception. Helen Hayes was an exception; Elizabeth Bergner is a third. All three have scored their greatest successes and made themselves the three high-priestesses of their profession by consigning beauty to the devil—if beauty happened to interfere with a realistic characterization. As Madelon Claudet, Hayes made herself a hag; as the little strumpet in "Of Human Bondage," Bette was not afraid to be hateful as well as homely.

If any actress is really ambitious to be "great" her first step should be the adoption of the Hayes-Davis-Bergner attitude. Beauty consciousness and acting ability are oil and water—they don't mix.

Idol Chatter: Ethereal beauty's all right in its way—but in the case of Anita Louise I wish it weighed about ten pounds more. Hollywood similes: as humorless as one of Francis Lederer's pet jokes. Mention "gorgeous brunette" in my presence and I'll think of Dolores del Rio—quick as a wink. Flashes of the Filmville scene: Ned Sparks in Sardi's looking sourly at a caricature of Ned Sparks looking sourly at nothing.

Wonder who Vincent Price hires to wear his clothes the first year or two? There's something irresistibly stimulating about Joy Hodge's crispy walk. Peas-in-a-pod: June (Mrs. Stuart Erwin) Collyer and Mary Astor—in profile. According to Hugh Herbert, going Hollywood isn't so much a state of mind as it is a state of pocketbook.

Strange people, these studio financiers. For instance, to punish Wayne Morris for his pained squawks about the size of his salary, his studio bosses resolutely refused to grant him a formal raise, even after he had appeared in several hits. But, to keep him happy, they gave him a weekly bonus. And that weekly bonus has been kited from time to time until it now amounts to exactly twice as much as his regular paycheck.

No matter how many times I see them, the American flags flown for movie scenes always give me a shock. Instead of being the proper red, white and blue, they are black, white and gray. The real colors, filmed in monochrome, never balance realistically.

Quotes and Comments: A Chicago columnist asks: "What will Movieland gossips talk about now that all the glamour girls and boys are safely married?" Probable dates and causes of their divorces, no doubt. . . . Rosalind Russell, in a fan mag: "I live alone—and I hate it. I'd like to have a man around the house, all draped in tool chests and buzz saws, tinkering away like mad." Why not call a carpenter? . . Richard Greene: "I was so bewildered I didn't even get a thrill when I found myself making love to Loretta Young in my first scenes." Aw, shucks—is that chivalry?

Glancing through the back files of a trade paper this morning to verify a picture title, I ran across a page advertisement for Universal Pictures. It was illustrated with small photographs of forty players and, over all, in large type, was this advice: "Watch for these new faces in Universal Pictures—these are the stars of tomorrow. The date of the publication was November, 1936—just 2 1-2 years ago. Of the pictured forty, only two Deanna Durbin and Nan Gray, are still under contract to Universal. Two others, Louis Hayward and Wendy Barrie, have made satisfactory progress. Twenty-five have disappeared from the screen entirely. Comment, it seems to me, is almost superfluous.

Ask Gertrude Niesen, just back from a London stage engagement, if she was presented with a gas-mask by military defense authorities while there and you'll find she has a pat answer. "They offered me one," she retorts, "but I refused it. Why should I need a gas mask after the years I've spent working in American night clubs."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

UNCLE SAM'S RICHEST AREA—Thirty miles from Alamosa, Colo., lie the Sand Dunes National monument at the foothills of the Sangre de Christo (Blood of Christ) mountains. The gold contained in the 36 square miles of dunes is estimated to average 54 cents per ton—a total of $6,000,000,000. Because the area is a national monument, no one is permitted to work the dune to obtain the gold content.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

With women barging in everywhere—into bars, professions, offices, colleges, sports, congress, the president's cabinet and even M. I. T.—the stock exchange has been the last holdout, the stubbornly held citadel of organized, specialized and exclusive masculinity, the Alamo of this little beleagured band. Operators, pages, clerks, runners, stenographers have been men.

But at last, here's the teletyping on the clacking ticker, just as ominous as that doomful flash on the wall of Belshazzar's palace. The curb exchange has installed a comely receptionist, Miss Ruth Virginia Maclin of Tennessee, and has arranged for the cordial reception of visitors in a roped-off enclosure. Her minions are specially trained page boys who serve as escorts for the visitors.

Miss Maclin is a sort of official hostess, making everybody feel at home, when they drop in to watch the traders scalping eighths—even if this is a rather desultory business in these days of low sales volume. The women have thrust a tiny toeless shoe into the narrow crack of a big bronze door long closed against them. What next?

The incident is not unrelated to other recent developments in the stock exchanges. The fact is that these practitioners of a bloodless and statistical art are mellowing quite noticeaby.

Within the last few weeks we have noted the start of the first large-scale good-will advertising by stock exchange firms, seeking to enlighten the public on what the exchange is, how it works and how it performs a necessary and useful service in our complicated economy.

Back in the days of "Sockless Jerry" Simpson of Kansas, everybody west of the Alleghenies was convinced that all stock brokers had horns and put in a full working shift every day robbing the farmer and working man. In the flush days of the twenties, the latter were eager to learn how the ogreish brokers worked the trick and began to "fade" Wall Street, making quite a few straight passes before they finally rolled snake-eyes. There was a measure of enlightenment in that, and as Wall Street goes human, it doesn't have to buck anything like the hostility of those pre-war days. Furthermore, the board of governors has done a lot of renovating on its own account, entirely apart from the prodding of Messrs. Pujo, Pecora, Douglas, et al, and nobody turns in a riot call when a stock exchange house starts explaining why and how it helps to keep the wheels of industry turning and pay checks moving.

Edwin Markham has a poem in which it is related that somebody or other was dealing misery to his crowd. This outsider had "drawn a circle" which excluded the poet. The poem concludes:

"But Love and I had wit to win;
We drew a circle and took him in."

As Jim Watson of Indiana once said: "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

And so, with the harried brokers, regardless of the fact that their partner may be Money, rather than Love. Their wider inclusiveness is revealed in many ways. Just a little while ago you had to go through all sorts of abracadabra—everything short of vaccination and an allergy test—to get into the stock exchange, with a pass from a member and his personal escort to the balcony. That's all done away with now. John W. Featherstone, the Whatcheer, Ia., hardware dealer, can step up to the window and be passed in without any fuss whatsoever, and only the most casual identification. The exchange invites all and sundry to note that it has nothing up its sleeve.

Our world's fair makes a grand occasion for declaring everybody in. Many brokers display signs inviting fair visitors to come around, ask questions and see all the sights. It would appear that world's fairs are useful in mixing up the citizenry in this way. Probably few of the bitterest haters of Wall Street, back in Bryan's day, never saw either Wall Street or a broker. And, again, it won't do Wall Street any harm to talk to just run-of-the-mill people from the sticks. The process of enlightenment doubtless works both ways.

The note on Miss Maclin of Tennessee acting as hostess at the curb exchange is a follow-up on a story we had the other day about charming southern girls being a smash-hit in public contact jobs here. What could be more appropriate than the warmly inclusive southern "you all" in opening our marts of trade to all comers? Maybe we need more "you all" and "we all" in our national make-up, and less of the "me and mine."

That Body of Yours

MANY PHYSICIANS NOW HAVE METABOLISM MACHINES

One of the pieces of apparatus that is coming more into use in physicians' offices is that used for the metabolism test—rate at which the body processes are working. This rate is controlled by the thyroid gland in the neck. The body processes would go on without this gland but this gland decides or determines how fast the process will work.

This metabolism machine is now made so small that the physician can carry it to the home of the patient and make the test quietly without the mental disturbance and physical effort of going to the hospital metabolism clinic. Some patients get so upset by going to hospital before breakfast in the morning that it is necessary to have them rest from a half to as long as an hour and a half before they are sufficiently quieted down to undergo the test. And even after this rest there may be the "inward" emotion that makes the body processes go a little more rapidly than they would if the patient were completely calm in mind.

For years, the use of this metabolism machine has enabled physicians to learn whether the thyroid gland was pouring the normal amount of juice into the blood, or if, on the other hand, it was pouring too much or not enough. One of the results of too much thyroid juice is a rapid heart beat and loss of body weight; where there is not enough juice, the heart is slower than normal and there is an increase of fat in and on the body.

A more recent finding is that when the thyroid gland is overactive—too much juice—the ability of the liver to filter harmful substances from the blood is lessened so that the individual loses some of his protection from the waste substances resulting from digestion. It was found that when a part or all of the thyroid gland was removed in these cases, the liver's ability to rid the blood of harmful substances became normal or nearly normal.

It can thus be seen that with a metabolism equipment in the physician's office, the patient will undergo the test just as his heart, lungs, or blood pressure is tested. It will not disturb or upset him and so spoil the reading.

It will immediately give the physician some very helpful information in trying to find the cause of the patient's symptoms.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"I don't know about that. We ought to tell Sam that he will have to take on this extra hour's work if he expects to enter engineering school. He has such a temper. At the least word he flies off the handle. Would you mind speaking to him yourself about it?"

"I spoke to him about it yesterday. He knows all about it. I'm telling you about it now because it means a change in Sam's program."

"Did he get mad and throw things and holler himself blue in the face?"

"No. I've never seen Sam behave that way. He's been with us now for three years and nothing like that has ever happened. What makes you think he would lose his temper? There's nothing to lose his temper about. But why should he?"

"At home nobody dares speak to him about anything. Not about coming to his meals when they are ready, or closing a door he has left open, or anything. He has a perfectly terrible temper. We simply don't know what to do about it."

"I'd suggest that you stand right there, wait until he loses his breath and ask him. What of it? Then tell him what you mean and mean it. This is nonsense. No boy can be allowed to behave like that. He never loses his temper here, and he gets along with many, many people who are not especially thoughtful about his feelings."

"You don't know our Sam. His temper is terrible and we are afraid to rouse it. He might do anything."

The chances are that Sam wouldn't do anything but grumble a bit and subside, like the rest of us when life goes against us. But Sam has been allowed to believe that his temper tantrum governs the household. All he has to do when he wants to feel important is to shake himself and roar.

Don't let such gestures frighten anybody into submission to them. Stand still, keep still, and wait for him to exhaust himself and then say, briefly, what you have to say. And never, if you can possibly help it, let a child profit by a temper tantrum, or any other indication of his desire to dominate the family for his own pleasure.

I once went home with a school friend, something I was forbidden to do. We were about eight years apiece and he said, "Come along home. I'll make my mother give us a pie." When we reached the kitchen the boy's mother was not there, but her sister was, and my friend proceeded according to formula. He went into a rage, stamping, shouting, yelling for his pie. His aunt looked at him with horrified eyes, lifted a bowl of not too fresh water from the table and let him have it squarely in the face. As he gasped for breath she lifted the window and showed him the coveted little pastry, saying, "And for all that you don't get it. The birds can have it. They have manners." And out went the pastry to the sparrows.

I don't know whether that cured him, or not, but it cured me of any desire to go anywhere he went, or do anything he did. It is best not to be afraid of children's gestures, but to deal with them firmly, intelligently and finally.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—Every time President Roosevelt comes out with a new consolidation and reorganization plan, teeth chatter from one end of Pennsylvania avenue to the other, but when he ordered abolishment of the national coal commission in his second plan the titters outdid the teeth-chattering.

The coal commission has been a comedy of administration errors since it was invented four years ago. The supreme court abolished it once in the Carter coal case but it was recreated under a new act. And almost at once some of the fanciest stories of patronage rows ever heard in Washington began leaking out.

The strange part of it was that anybody who wanted to verify them could do so. The side that was getting licked on patronage was always willing to tell of the injustices heaped upon them.

There was the matter of ink wells. Of the seven members of the commission, three for a long time were in the "minority camp." One day an employe of one of the minority commissioners strolled into the office of a majority commissioner. Resting upon the majority commissioner's desk was a combination fountain-pen and ink stand set that was a marvel to behold. It was a $12 model and really a splendid work of art and utility.

Minority Evens Things Up

But only the majority members had these splendiferous ink and pen sets. The minority members had just a bottle of ink. They went to the newspapers about it. Justice was done.

But that was not all. Tribal jealousies developed. One of the minority members found that his secretary was paid $2,300 a year instead of the $3,000 a year paid to the secretary of one of the majority members.

Instantly the minority member brought it up in commission meeting. We saw both jobholders and we couldn't tell the $2,300 secretary from the $3,000 secretary except that we thought the $2,300 one a trifle prettier. Anyway, the under-privileged secretaries got an increase in pay.

There were other patronage rows. Minority members protested that Senator Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, who instigated the coal legislation, was getting a lion's cut of the patronage. Guffey valiantly denied it but Senator Rush Dew Holt of West Virginia, who wanted some of the patronage but was not getting it—he being a rambunctious fellow—printed the whole coal commission payroll in the congressional record.

Lots Of Dittos

The home states of scores of employes were simply indicated by a ditto. One word, "Pennsylvania" would be printed near the top of the page and then a long list of "ditto" marks would follow. Now it was not surprising that a lot of the employes should come from Pennsylvania, as of all the states in the union Pennsylvania is the most coal-minded. But after all a coal commission is a national commission and Holt felt that he should have had a bird's-eye view of the patronage, anyway, more especially since his home state of West Virginia is right up close to Pennsylvania as a coal state.

The commission's job was to determine a schedule of base prices for coal so as to prevent certain mines chiseling on prices against other mines. It was not surprising that it proved a well-nigh impossible job, although as we understand it now a price schedule has been fixed up.

Don't send for a copy to find out what your stove coal should cost. So complex is it that it requires a coal expert to make head or tail of it.

Of course the work of the commission isn't of itself abolished, just the commission. The work will be carried on under the department of interior. That is Secretary Ickes. To him will go all the employes raked together under the New Deal's most hectic experiment.

When Rogers Flew To Help Managuans

AN earthquake lasting only six seconds practically destroyed Managua, Nicaragua, in April, 1931. Thousands were killed, nearly every building in the business district was razed, thousands were left homeless. For 24 hours the stricken city suffered fear of further disturbances and then came lack of food and water and simultaneous outbreak of disease.

This was the scene that greeted the humorist Will Rogers when he arrived in Managua a few hours after the quake, began climbing over the ruins of homes and office buildings.

Rogers had come to organize help for the Managuans and he lost no time in doing it, beginning by donating $5000 himself. Very shortly, he had induced "friends" to donate many thousands more.

"What do they need here?" he inquired of U. S. marines, working in the stricken area. "Who is receiving funds? Who is on the committee? What is the best way to help these people?"

Informed that canned milk, rice, corn and beans were the greatest necessities, Rogers spun a droll story about "there's no bean ever was a bad bean." Thus he brought a ray of good humor to the scene at a time when refugees and rescuers alike faced a grim picture.

That trip was a complete conquest for Will Rogers. The people of Managua never forgot him. That is why the country has chosen to honor the memory of the late humorist with a set of five values, picturing him on the earthquake scene in Managua. One is shown above.

28 GRADUATES AT DOWNSVILLE

Commencement Week To Be Held; Baccalaureate Exercises Today

DOWNSVILLE, La., May 20.—(Special)—Commencement exercises for Downsville High school began with the staging of the senior play, "Sonny Jane," Tuesday night, May 16, and Thursday night, May 18.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. P. B. Durbin at 11 a.m. in the Baptist church Sunday, May 21.

The certificates for the seventh grade will be awarded Monday night, May 22, 8 p.m.

The closing exercises for the graduating class will be held Wednesday night, May 24, at 8:30 p.m., in the high school auditorium. Billie Hamilton will deliver the valedictory and Harold Aswell the salutatory. E. E. Puls, of the state department of education, will address the seniors.

Members of the graduating class are Floye Allen, Mitchell Antley, Harold Aswell, J. V. Aulds, Cortez Carter, Joyce Foster, Milton Futrell, Billie Hamilton, Harold Hammons, Jimmie Hinton, Drayton Holman, Sammie Lee Johnston, Harry Maxey, Pearl McNeil, W. L. Norris, J. E. Owens, Robert Ray, Hugh Roberts, James Roberts, Janice Roberts, Nell Robinson, Archie Roye, Margie Smith, Mary Alice Smith, Ocile Taylor, Oleta Taylor, Fulton Terry, J. B. Terry.

BUILDING AND LOAN DECLARES DIVIDEND

A semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on all classes of shares for the first six months of the year was voted by the board of directors of the Monroe Building and Loan association at their meeting May 8th, payable to stockholders of record as of June 30, being at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, stated Louis Buckner, president of the association.

During the last six months the association has made substantial progress in every phase of its activity, Mr. Buckner said.

The appeal to the public of insured savings share accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan corporation, an agency of United States government, was credited by Mrs. Buckner for the increase in volume of new share accounts. This makes available a large sum for new loans. The liberalized loan plan adopted by the association attracted a large number of persons interested in home ownership, it was stated.

MAJOR KNAPP PRAISES MONROE HOSPITALITY

Major S. Arthur Knapp, affiliated with the Calcasieu National bank at Lake Charles, in a letter to R. W. Germany, past department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans and general chairman of the state encampment held here last week, wrote as follows:

"I will appreciate it if you will express to your camp my very sincere appreciation of all the courtesies shown to us and for the splendid time we had during the convention.

"The whole community seemed to cooperate, and everywhere I went in your city, they just had one idea in mind, that of being of service and seeing that we had a good time."

Major Knapp was major of the Third battalion of the First Louisiana Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish war and is senior vice-commander of the United Spanish War Veterans department of Louisiana.

BUILDING AND LOAN DECLARES DIVIDEND

A semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on all classes of shares for the first six months of the year was voted by the board of directors of the Monroe Building and Loan association at their meeting, May 8th, payable to stockholders of record as of June 30, being at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, stated Louis Buckner, president of the association.

During the last six months the association has made substantial progress in every phase of its activity, Mr. Buckner said.

The appeal to the public of insurance of savings share accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan corporation, an agency of United States government, was credited by Mrs. Buckner for the increase in volume of new share accounts. This makes available a large sum for new loans. The liberalized loan plan adopted by the association attracted a large number of persons interested in home ownership, it was stated.

HOME LOANS IN STATE INCREASE

Money Lent For Construction Of New Dwellings Breaks Previous Records

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 20—(Special)—Home loans made in April by the insured Louisiana homesteads and savings associations for the construction of new dwellings exceeded all previous records, according to the monthly report of the Federal Home Loan bank of Little Rock. Loans totaling $1,663,000 were made to 691 Louisiana home owners by the associations, the proceeds of more than a third of which was used to build new houses.

April was the third consecutive month in which the volume of lending done was well in excess of $1,500,000 for a thirty-day period. The report prepared by the bank includes the figures of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, the Monroe Building and Loan association, and the Peoples Homestead and Savings association in Monroe by which the local area is served.

Along with the loans granted for new construction, the associations loaned $639,000 during April to assist 234 borrowers to purchase existing dwellings. Since January, the Louisiana associations have made loans for that purpose totaling $2,274,000, being an increase of more than a half million dollars over those made for the same period last year. Collections on loans previously made were reported to be excellent.

Savings and investment funds in the insured associations in Louisiana continue to increase the report stated. The cash receipts from investors since January 1 total $4,902,000 as compared with $3,707,000 in 1938. Officers of the bank attributed the increase to better business conditions prevailing throughout the state and to the fact that funds placed in the associations are insured against loss up to $5,000 for each account by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, an instrumentality of the federal government.

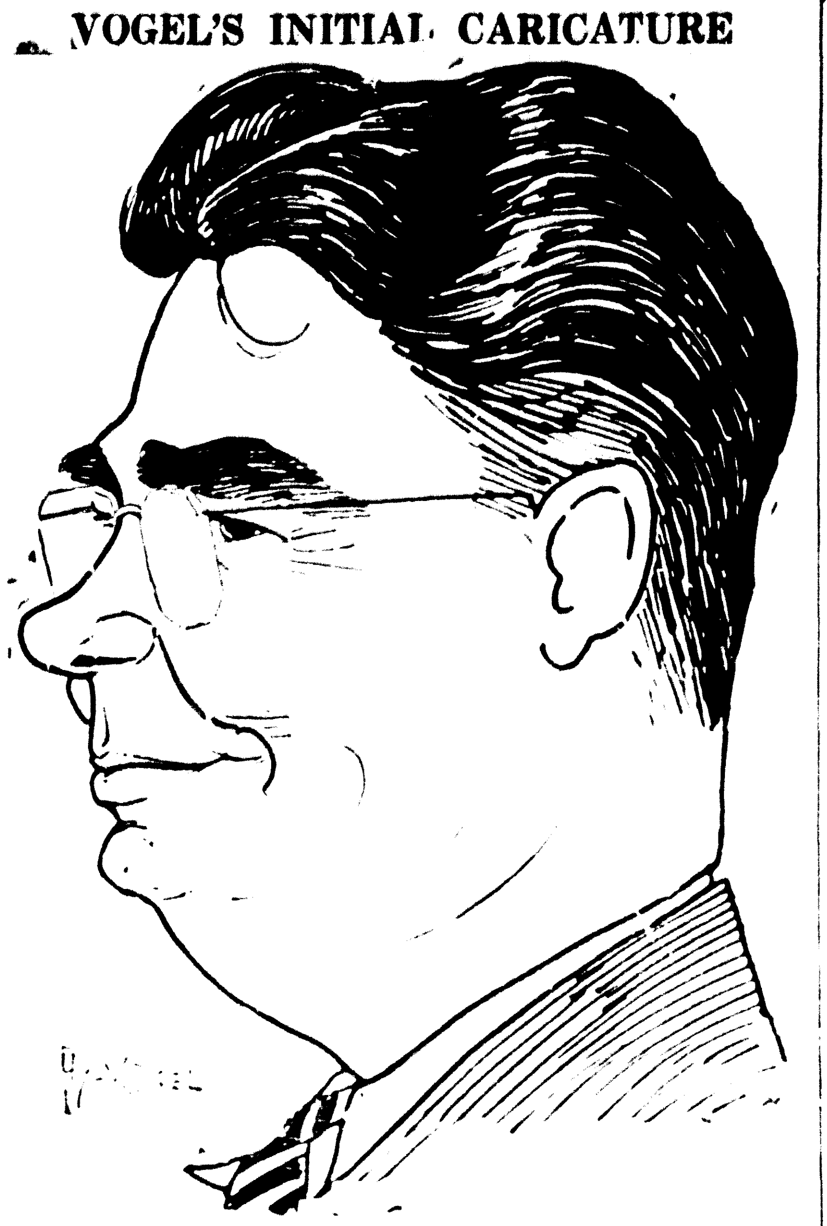
VOGEL'S INITIAL CARICATURE



If you haven't already guessed it, folks, this is the publisher of The World and The News-Star, Wilson Ewing. In this, his first caricature published since his arrival in Monroe, Hy Vogel, renowned caricaturist, has focussed in his sketch one of Mr. Ewing's chief characteristics, his pleasant disposition. There's joviality lurking behind that faint smile. Mr. Vogel, who is in the city at the invitation of the management of the News-Star-World Publishing corporation, has, in the few days he has been here, sketched a number of leading residents of the community. Their caricatures, five at a time, will soon be appearing in The World and The News-Star as a local human interest feature.

Local Man Will Be Buried For Six Days In Deep Grave

For what will be the 30th time S. G. Snyder, middle-aged former vaudeville actor and showman, will allow himself to be "buried alive" in six feet of earth for six days and five nights in West Monroe, near the approach to the new Ouachita river traffic bridge.

He will be "buried" in a rough box placed six feet down in terra firma and there he will stay and stay and stay. But he will not be a "quiet" corpse, by any means. He will have a connection that will link up KMLB broadcasting studio and he will deliver talks from the "grave" by this means for many hours during each day and night.

His breathing will be made possible by means of a tube that will extend from the bowels of the earth to the outer world. He will partake of no food for the entire time and is expected to lose flesh, but he is well supplied with avoirdupois and is not at all regretful on that score.

The "burial" project is sponsored by the Burnett-Downs post of the American Legion in West Monroe, which will receive a large percentage of the receipts, which will be realized in various ways.

There will be plenty of thrills as the public listens to the talks Snyder will make. Also many will desire to peer down into the "grave" to be assured the man is really there.

The "burial" date was set Saturday for May 31 at 10 a.m. There will be a parade, music and a long procession will attend the "funeral," which will include in the long line a sound truck and all the fixin's.

Snyder is well known here and has recommendations from some of the leading business houses here, which have known him for some time and attest to his responsibility.

GIRL SCOUTS TO COME HERE

Miss Alwine Mulhearn, Attorney, To Be In Charge Of Tallulah Group

Forty Girl Scouts from Tallulah, under the supervision of Miss Alwine Mulhearn, will visit Monroe June 1.

Miss Mulhearn is a daughter of P. S. Mulhearn of Monroe and is a graduate of the Neville High school and of Tulane university law school. Upon graduating she established an office for the practice of law in Tallulah and for the past four years has made a reputation as attorney of which many a male attorney might well be proud.

While the Girl Scouts are in Monroe, they will visit the plant of the News-Star—World, Selman airport, carbon plants and other industries at Sterlington and vicinity and also will probably visit the natatorium and city parks.

They will be entertained at noon with luncheon in a local cafeteria.

BAPTISTS HIT AT 'TRESPASSING'

Protests Against Trend Toward 'Government Control Of Churches'

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 20—(AP)—The Southern Baptist convention struck out with strongly-worded resolutions today against governmental "trespassing."

Without a dissenting voice, the convention put into its record a "pronouncement on religious freedom" protesting what the public relations committee interpreted as a trend toward government control of church activities.

"Today," the statement reads, "the trend of government, even in democratic countries, lies in the direction of greater centralization. The philanthropic activities of the churches within the United States are being taken over by the government.

"We recognize the sovereignty of the state and we give allegiance to the state, but we cannot give to the state the control of our consciences. We must obey God rather than men."

In another resolution, the convention "deplored and protested" President Roosevelt's action in sending Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy to Rome as his personal representative at the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

The resolution expressed sympathy to the Catholic church for the passing of Pius XI, "a distinguished world citizen," but criticized as "unwise and unwarranted" the adjournment of congress in respect to him.

"The right and freedom of religious opinion," it stated, "does not justify the union or mingling of state and church, but rather requires and demands that the two be kept separate and inviolate.

"We deplore and protest such action by congress and the president of the United States * * * as indicating a dangerous tendency toward the union of church and state, which is a chief cause of the troubles of the old world.

"If the sending of the ambassador of the United States was to honor the crowning of an ecclesiastical head, we believe it was an obvious violation of the traditions of this republic and of the spirit of the first amendment to our constitution.

"If this course was in honor of the crowning of the civil ruler of a state (the Vatican) with which we are not in diplomatic relation, it was obviously an impropriety."

The convention social service commission, headed by Dr. Arthur J. Barton of Wilmington, N. C., reported it was "gratified" that in 1938 the number of lynchings in the south decreased and "only six lives were sacrificed to mob violence," indicating "that racial animosities are growing less."

The report also called for "outlawry and destruction of the whole liquor traffic."

UNIQUE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES TO BE HELD

The most unique commencement exercises to be held here will be those for the Ouachita Parish Literacy classes which will be held with all due ceremony at the Monroe Colored High school auditorium this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The program will comprise chiefly negro spirituals, addresses from leading educators of the state both white and colored.

The Choral club of Louisiana Rural Normal college, at Grambling, will render selections.

These classes have been taught by 68 teachers of the parish and city with an enrollment of 1,620 students. Of this number, 831 had never attended any school before and they have been taught to read and write in the past few months.

The public both white and colored have been invited to attend the exercises and it is expected that more persons will receive certificates than has ever been the case at any single local "commencement" held here.

The program will comprise chiefly negro spirituals, addresses from leading educators of the state both white and colored.

The Choral club of Louisiana Rural Normal college, at Grambling, will render selections.

These classes have been taught by 68 teachers of the parish and city with an enrollment of 1,620 students. Of this number, 831 had never attended any school before and they have been taught to read and write in the past few months.

The public both white and colored have been invited to attend the exercises and it is expected that more persons will receive certificates than has ever been the case at any single local "commencement" held here.

Flush Kidneys Of Acid And Poisons

Gain In Health And Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are continually overburdened they often become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

A safe, harmless and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore more healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35 cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—don't be disappointed.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL — the original — the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box —35 cents.

Remember—other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble may be backache, puffy eyes, nervousness and leg cramps. (Adv.)

36 BANDS PARADE IN SHREVEPORT

Each Group Presents 20-Minute Concert In Third Ark-La-Tex Festival

SHREVEPORT, May 20.—(AP)—Thirty-six gaily dressed bands from Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas paraded through Shreveport streets this morning for more than an hour in the opening event of the third annual Ark-La-Tex band festival today.

During the afternoon, each band presented a 20-minute concert on the steps of the parish court house. Two bands performed simultaneously, one taking the north steps of the court house and the other the south side, while crowds trampled all the grass on both sides.

This evening, the Fair park and Byrd bands of Shreveport, both of whom were recently given high national ratings, combined to present a concert at the Municipal auditorium with Everett McCracken, director of the Baylor university band at Waco, Tex., as guest conductor.

The annual festival is held each year under sponsorship of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce and the Ark-La-Tex Music Directors' association. The music directors held their annual spring banquet preceding the evening concert with W. Hines Sims, president, as toastmaster.

Bands taking part in the festival included: El Dorado "A" and "B" bands and Stamps High school band from Arkansas; Jacksonville, Gilmer, Sabine of Gladewater, Gaston of Joinerville, Carthage, Pine Tree of Longview, Jefferson, East Mountain of Gilmer, Center, Atlanta, Troup, Leverette's Chapel of Overton, Rocky Mountain of Overton, Marshall, Longview and Jasper school bands from Texas; and from Louisiana, Fair Park, Byrd, St. John's and Salvation Army, all of Shreveport, Leesville, Ruston, Minden, Mooringsport, Homer, Bossier City, Haynesville, Arcadia, Gibsland and Barkdull Faulk of Monroe.

CAMP FIRE

Chitimacha

The Chitimacha group met Friday afternoon, with Miss Rose Taylor guardian, at the Camp Fire headquarters.

The meeting was opened with each girl repeating the trail seekers' desire. The Chitimacha group has chosen as one of the requirements of the trail seeker rank the earning of at least one honor in each of the seven crafts, and this is to be fulfilled during the week.

After the meeting refreshments were served to Dorothy Prater, Reta Clement, Evelyn Middleton, Jean Carrol, Mary Lin O'Kelly, Joy Bernhardt, Betty Dawson, Bennie Turner.

Okeehee

Scouts present were James Mooney, Fred Strickland, Burvon Sikes, J. E. Jones, Carl McCellan, Jarrel McCullough, J. E. Freeman, Everett Earl Taylor, Bob Strickland, Dan Pickens, Jimmie Hines, Pete Edney, Melvin Lambert and Clyde Lee.

Camp Fire girls present were Lillie Mae Lewis, Clarice Davis, Betty Bawcom, Georgette Bowie, Allie Mae Clark, Rosette Carrie, Margie Reese, Leora Lewis, Winnie Smith, Virginia Butler and mascot, Bobbie Jean Parrot.

The guardian of the Okeehee group, Miss Junie McRamey, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mooney, Mr. and Mrs. McNiell, Mr. Carl Roy Thompson and Lee Otis Thompson were present.

Tawanka

The Tawanka group met at the Sherrouse school Thursday afternoon with its guardian Mrs. Fred Hemler. Plans for the camp beginning July 2 were discussed. Requirements for the rank of trail seeker were studied and Camp Fire songs were sung. Next week the Tawanka group will begin studying symbolism. Those present are emblematic of all that Camp Fire Louise Williams, Elizabeth Siegle, Ottolyne Payne, Joy James, Beatrice Panzico, Ruth Horton, Jonnye Lou McCarthy, Vivian Weatherby, Mary Lee Perot, Patsy Ann Harbuck.

Tami

The Tami group met at the home of its guardian, Mrs. Dopson, in West Monroe. Plans were discussed for a group council fire and honors were counted and checked. Several of the girls in the Tami group fulfilled some of the requirements for the trail seeker rank during the week.

Those present were Velma Ann Bourgeois, Billie Brewton, Sarah Frances Anders, Irene Rainbolt, Ouida Welch, Jeanne Hunt, Betty Jo Henry, Georgene Welch, Billie Cole, Alma Jean Kennedy, Joan Cole, Mildred Sally.

Wacherlovan Nos. 1 And 2

The Wacherlovan groups Nos. 1 and 2 met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Lucy Neelley at the Camp Fire headquarters. The groups are studying symbolism in preparation for making headbands. Symbols express thoughts, desires and ambitions in figures that ar eembematic of all that Camp Fire girls are and hope to be; just as the flag of the nation is the symbol of liberty and freedom.

Those present were Frances Cooper, Carolyn Watts, Judith Roberts, Marie Sims, Florence Reynolds, Betty Brown, Bessie Shepard, Betty Firnberg, Barbara Wallace, Martha Brown, Helen Brothers, Elaine Sittason, Helen Hooper Stein, Barbara Cash, Marie Houston Moore, Myrtle Elizabeth Worley, Nan Evans, Rema Jane Farr, Marguerite Aston, Gwendolyn Hathaway, Dorothy Jo Jones, Shirley Courtney.

Wicaka

The Wicaka group met at the Mitchell school Monday with its guardian, Miss Hazel Fairchild. Work was continued on the rank of trail seeker and each girl repeated the trail seekers' desire. Several games were played after the meeting and cookies were passed to Louise Williamson, Evelyn Gannaway, Dolores Masset, Norma Jean Warren, Eloise Woods, Patsy Ruth Gandy, Mildred White, Laverne Carlton, Jessie May Jennings, Jackie White.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING!

White System Is Ready To Aid You Take A Vacation

Vacation time this year takes on more than ordinary significance because of two world's fairs. Both the one in New York City and the one in San Francisco are in full blast.

Perhaps you will like to go to one or the other. But perhaps, like most people, you failed to include such an extensive vacation in your budget. That, however, is insufficient reason to miss the wonders on display at the expositions, both of which are said to eclipse any previous world's fairs.

White System, 137 North Second street, offers its facilities to aid you in attending either or both of the fairs. Take off a couple of weeks. A change of scene will do you good. The wonders you see in New York and San Francisco will refresh your mind.

Loans for all useful purposes are made quickly and confidentially at White System and are repayable in small installments.

Raymaster Tire Conserves Power

Savings in power consumption up to 12 1-2 per cent are made available to truck and bus operators in the new, advanced U. S. Royal Raymaster tire, according to Luther Howell of 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets, local U. S. tire dealer.

"This new Raymaster tire, into which have been incorporated the latest improvements in rayon cord manufacture, consumes less power," Mr. Howell said, "because its greatly increased body flexibility, due to the elimination of bulk and stiffness, enables it to absorb road inequalities and roll more freely."

This new ease of roll, he added, "facilitated by Raymaster's smooth rolling tread of continuous ribs, effects power savings in all types of operation and at all speeds."

Poultry Advice Given By Firm

If you are raising chicks strictly for broilers, you will keep them on Staf-O-Life all mash broiler ration or Staf-O-Life all mash battery feed until ready to market. If you carry them to a larger size than usual, or above three pounds, before marketing, and particularly if shipped as live chickens, grain should be added gradually after the birds are 2 or 2 1-2 pounds in weight.

That's the advice of the poultry experts at Tyner-Petrus company, 311 Trenton street, West Monroe. The firm carries a full line of Staf-O-Life feeds.

When the pullets are to be saved and developed into layers, and the cockerels fed out as broilers or fryers, take the cockerels out as soon as they are easily distinguishable and finish them to the desired weight as suggested above. After six weeks, put the pullets on Staf-O-Life growing mash and Staf-O-Life growing grains. Make the change gradually, taking about a week to replace the starting feed, then keep Staf-O-Life growing mash in the hoppers at all times. Also keep Staf-O-Life growing grains before them at all times or feed about as much scratch grain as mash for the first few weeks. The amount of scratch may be varied according to the weight of the pullets as they approach the laying stage.

Supply hard grit of medium size when chicks are put on growing grains. Be sure to check over equipment and supply additional feeding space. There should be at least one foot of mash hopper space and one foot of grain hopper space for each 10 birds, 10 weeks of age or older. Be sure to increase the number and capacity of water containers accordingly.

Put the pullets out on range by about eight weeks of age or as soon as weather conditions will permit. Corn and soybeans make good shade. Plenty of oats, rape, rye or other green feed should be provided, in addition to a full allowance of Staf-O-Life growing mash and Staf-O-Life growing grains.

Vaccinate pullets for fowl pox when they reach 12 weeks of age. Treat them for roundworms by feeding one pound of Staf-O-Life pullet worming mash for each 10 pullets, at intervals of 30 to 60 days, according to the degree of infestation. Individual treatment may be administered when there is an occasion to handle the flock individually before pullets start laying, after they are in production use Staf-O-Life hen worming mash according to directions.

Auto Coverage Is Broadened

An extensive broadening of protection, without additional cost, under existing automobile liability and property damage policies covering private passenger motor vehicles owned by individuals has just been announced by Gregg and McKenzie, 313 Harrison street, Monroe's largest and oldest insurance agency.

These policies are now being construed as protecting both husbands and wives while either are operating or riding in any other private passenger automobiles not specifically excluded by endorsement, and while either are operating hired passenger automobiles, where such hiring is occasional. Moreover, they are construed to protect them against personal non-ownership liability arising out of the operations of private passenger automobiles by chauffeurs or domestic servants in their employ, including the operations of private passenger automobiles owned by such chauffeurs and servants. Such operations must, of course, be within the scope of the chauffeurs' or servants' employment.

Heretofore the protection afforded by these policies has been limited to the specific automobiles to which they applied. The additional protection, called drive-other-car coverage, became effective the first of the month.

For up-to-the-minute insurance protection, get in touch with Gregg and McKenzie, the telephone number of which is 473. As to the premiums, they can be financed on convenient terms.

Termite Booklet Offered Free By Terminix Of La.

A valuable and interesting booklet, "How To Detect Termites," just published by the E. L. Bruce company of Memphis, manufacturers of Terminix, the nationally used termite control chemical, is being offered free to Louisiana property owners.

Many think that unless they see the swarming reproductives — commonly called "flying ants"—which emerge from the colonies each spring to establish new nests, they are free from the termite menace. This is a fallacy, for termites often swarm to the outside of a building, unnoticed by the occupant. When they do swarm inside of the house, it is usually a warning of more serious trouble, and probably damaged timbers or flooring.

Once established, termites work the year around, and often can be detected only by an expert.

"How to Detect Termites" will, however, make it possible for any property owner to discover the more frequent indications and thus put him in a position to take steps to avert serious damage.

Curby Jamerson, head of Terminix of Louisiana, local unit of the world's largest termite control organization, will be glad to furnish this valuable booklet to anyone interested in the subject of termites. Simply phone 1341 or write Terminix of Louisiana, 321 Bernhardt building, Monroe.

Terminix of Louisiana offers a free inspection service of any properties in its territory, which comprises the northern part of Louisiana. The inspection will be made in accordance with their slogan, "If They Are There We Will Show You. If They Are Not, We Will Tell You."

Terminix of Louisiana maintains a large staff of thoroughly trained men in Monroe and a call will bring a competent man without delay.

There is no charge made for property inspection, Mr. Jamerson stresses, and if an infestation is present, a careful survey and estimate will be furnished.

This firm, busy all the year around, urges that property owners examine property now, as this is the season when the pests may, in some cases, be more easily detected, as they emerge in the winged state and seek new nests.

Mills And Olcott Has Cars To Get You To The Fairs

Whether you are planning to go to either or both of the World fairs — the one in New York City and the one in San Francisco — you can get what it takes to get you there at Mills and Olcott, 201-211 North Second street.

The firm is local dealer in Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles and has on display some of the best used cars in this area. Chryslers fall in the medium-price field, Plymouths, in the popular-price.

The better of the used cars offered by Mills and Olcott will take you to either or both of the fairs or anywhere else you want to go. These cars have been thoroughly reconditioned in the service department of the concern and even the tires are good. Prices of used cars begin as low as $50 at Mills and Olcott.

Chrysler and Plymouth salesmen employed by the firm are C. D. Henderson and A. B. Hopson. Ed Lyons is in charge of used car sales. For demonstrations, just call telephone number 816.

36 BANDS PARADE IN SHREVEPORT

Each Group Presents 20-Minute Concert In Third Ark-La-Tex Festival

SHREVEPORT, May 20.—(AP)—Thirty-six gaily dressed bands from Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas paraded through Shreveport streets this morning for more than an hour in the opening event of the third annual Ark-La-Tex band festival today.

During the afternoon, each band presented a 20-minute concert on the steps of the parish court house. Two bands performed simultaneously, one taking the north steps of the court house and the other the south side, while crowds trampled all the grass on both sides.

This evening, the Fair park and Byrd bands of Shreveport, both of whom were recently given high national ratings, combined to present a concert at the Municipal auditorium with Everett McCracken, director of the Baylor university band at Waco, Tex., as guest conductor.

The annual festival is held each year under sponsorship of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce and the Ark-La-Tex Music Directors' association. The music directors held their annual spring banquet preceding the evening concert with W. Hines Sims, president, as toastmaster.

Bands taking part in the festival included: El Dorado "A" and "B" bands and Stamps High school band from Arkansas; Jacksonville, Gilmer, Sabine of Gladewater, Gaston of Joinerville, Carthage, Pine Tree of Longview, Jefferson, East Mountain of Gilmer, Center, Atlanta, Troup, Leverette's Chapel of Overton, Rocky Mountain of Overton, Marshall, Longview and Jasper school bands from Texas; and from Louisiana, Fair Park, Byrd, St. John's and Salvation Army, all of Shreveport, Leesville, Ruston, Minden, Mooringsport, Homer, Bossier City, Haynesville, Arcadia, Gibsland and Barkdull Faulk of Monroe.

CAMP FIRE

Chitimacha

The Chitimacha group met Friday afternoon, with Miss Rose Taylor guardian, at the Camp Fire headquarters.

The meeting was opened with each girl repeating the trail seekers' desire. The Chitimacha group has chosen as one of the requirements of the trail seeker rank the earning of at least one honor in each of the seven crafts, and this is to be fulfilled during the week.

After the meeting refreshments were served to Dorothy Prater, Reta Clement, Evelyn Middleton, Jean Carrol, Mary Lin O'Kelly, Joy Bernhardt, Betty Dawson, Bennie Turner.

Okeehee

Scouts present were James Mooney, Fred Strickland, Burvon Sikes, J. E. Jones, Carl McCellan, Jarrel McCullough, J. E. Freeman, Everett Earl Taylor, Bob Strickland, Dan Pickens, Jimmie Hines, Pete Edney, Melvin Lambert and Clyde Lee.

Camp Fire girls present were Lillie Mae Lewis, Clarice Davis, Betty Bawcom, Georgette Bowie, Allie Mae Clark, Rosette Carrie, Margie Reese, Leora Lewis, Winnie Smith, Virginia Butler and mascot, Bobbie Jean Parrot.

The guardian of the Okeehee group, Miss Junie McRamey, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mooney, Mr. and Mrs. McNiell, Mr. Carl Roy Thompson and Lee Otis Thompson were present.

Tawanka

The Tawanka group met at the Sherrouse school Thursday afternoon with its guardian Mrs. Fred Hemler. Plans for the camp beginning July 2 were discussed. Requirements for the rank of trail seeker were studied and Camp Fire songs were sung. Next week the Tawanka group will begin studying symbolism. Those present are emblematic of all that Camp Fire Louise Williams, Elizabeth Siegle, Ottolyne Payne, Joy James, Beatrice Panzico, Ruth Horton, Jonnye Lou McCarthy, Vivian Weatherby, Mary Lee Perot, Patsy Ann Harbuck.

Tami

The Tami group met at the home of its guardian, Mrs. Dopson, in West Monroe. Plans were discussed for a group council fire and honors were counted and checked. Several of the girls in the Tami group fulfilled some of the requirements for the trail seeker rank during the week.

Those present were Velma Ann Bourgeois, Billie Brewton, Sarah Frances Anders, Irene Rainbolt, Ouida Welch, Jeanne Hunt, Betty Jo Henry, Georgene Welch, Billie Cole, Alma Jean Kennedy, Joan Cole, Mildred Sally.

Wacherlovan Nos. 1 And 2

The Wacherlovan groups Nos. 1 and 2 met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Lucy Neelley at the Camp Fire headquarters. The groups are studying symbolism in preparation for making headbands. Symbols express thoughts, desires and ambitions in figures that ar eembematic of all that Camp Fire girls are and hope to be; just as the flag of the nation is the symbol of liberty and freedom.

Those present were Frances Cooper, Carolyn Watts, Judith Roberts, Marie Sims, Florence Reynolds, Betty Brown, Bessie Shepard, Betty Firnberg, Barbara Wallace, Martha Brown, Helen Brothers, Elaine Sittason, Helen Hooper Stein, Barbara Cash, Marie Houston Moore, Myrtle Elizabeth Worley, Nan Evans, Rema Jane Farr, Marguerite Aston, Gwendolyn Hathaway, Dorothy Jo Jones, Shirley Courtney.

Wicaka

The Wicaka group met at the Mitchell school Monday with its guardian, Miss Hazel Fairchild. Work was continued on the rank of trail seeker and each girl repeated the trail seekers' desire. Several games were played after the meeting and cookies were passed to Louise Williamson, Evelyn Gannaway, Dolores Masset, Norma Jean Warren, Eloise Woods, Patsy Ruth Gandy, Mildred White, Laverne Carlton, Jessie May Jennings, Jackie White.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING!

White System Is Ready To Aid You Take A Vacation

Vacation time this year takes on more than ordinary significance because of two world's fairs. Both the one in New York City and the one in San Francisco are in full blast.

Perhaps you will like to go to one or the other. But perhaps, like most people, you failed to include such an extensive vacation in your budget. That, however, is insufficient reason to miss the wonders on display at the expositions, both of which are said to eclipse any previous world's fairs.

White System, 137 North Second street, offers its facilities to aid you in attending either or both of the fairs. Take off a couple of weeks. A change of scene will do you good. The wonders you see in New York and San Francisco will refresh your mind.

Loans for all useful purposes are made quickly and confidentially at White System and are repayable in small installments.

Raymaster Tire Conserves Power

Savings in power consumption up to 12 1-2 per cent are made available to truck and bus operators in the new, advanced U. S. Royal Raymaster tire, according to Luther Howell of 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets, local U. S. tire dealer.

"This new Raymaster tire, into which have been incorporated the latest improvements in rayon cord manufacture, consumes less power," Mr. Howell said, "because its greatly increased body flexibility, due to the elimination of bulk and stiffness, enables it to absorb road inequalities and roll more freely."

This new ease of roll, he added, "facilitated by Raymaster's smooth rolling tread of continuous ribs, effects power savings in all types of operation and at all speeds."

Poultry Advice Given By Firm

If you are raising chicks strictly for broilers, you will keep them on Staf-O-Life all mash broiler ration or Staf-O-Life all mash battery feed until ready to market. If you carry them to a larger size than usual, or above three pounds, before marketing, and particularly if shipped as live chickens, grain should be added gradually after the birds are 2 or 2 1-2 pounds in weight.

That's the advice of the poultry experts at Tyner-Petrus company, 311 Trenton street, West Monroe. The firm carries a full line of Staf-O-Life feeds.

When the pullets are to be saved and developed into layers, and the cockerels fed out as broilers or fryers, take the cockerels out as soon as they are easily distinguishable and finish them to the desired weight as suggested above. After six weeks, put the pullets on Staf-O-Life growing mash and Staf-O-Life growing grains. Make the change gradually, taking about a week to replace the starting feed, then keep Staf-O-Life growing mash in the hoppers at all times. Also keep Staf-O-Life growing grains before them at all times or feed about as much scratch grain as mash for the first few weeks. The amount of scratch may be varied according to the weight of the pullets as they approach the laying stage.

Supply hard grit of medium size when chicks are put on growing grains. Be sure to check over equipment and supply additional feeding space. There should be at least one foot of mash hopper space and one foot of grain hopper space for each 10 birds, 10 weeks of age or older. Be sure to increase the number and capacity of water containers accordingly.

Put the pullets out on range by about eight weeks of age or as soon as weather conditions will permit. Corn and soybeans make good shade. Plenty of oats, rape, rye or other green feed should be provided, in addition to a full allowance of Staf-O-Life growing mash and Staf-O-Life growing grains.

Vaccinate pullets for fowl pox when they reach 12 weeks of age. Treat them for roundworms by feeding one pound of Staf-O-Life pullet worming mash for each 10 pullets, at intervals of 30 to 60 days, according to the degree of infestation. Individual treatment may be administered when there is an occasion to handle the flock individually before pullets start laying; after they are in production use Staf-O-Life hen worming mash according to directions.

Auto Coverage Is Broadened

An extensive broadening of protection, without additional cost, under existing automobile liability and property damage policies covering private passenger motor vehicles owned by individuals has just been announced by Gregg and McKenzie, 313 Harrison street, Monroe's largest and oldest insurance agency.

These policies are now being construed as protecting both husbands and wives while either are operating or riding in any other private passenger automobiles not specifically excluded by endorsement; and while either are operating hired passenger automobiles, where such hiring is occasional. Moreover, they are construed to protect them against personal non-ownership liability arising out of the operations of private passenger automobiles by chauffeurs or domestic servants in their employ, including the operations of private passenger automobiles owned by such chauffeurs and servants. Such operations must, of course, be within the scope of the chauffeurs' or servants' employment.

Heretofore, the protection afforded by these policies has been limited to the specific automobiles to which they applied. The additional protection, called drive-other-car coverage, became effective the first of the month.

For up-to-the-minute insurance protection, get in touch with Gregg and McKenzie, the telephone number of which is 473. As to the premiums, they can be financed on convenient terms.

Termite Booklet Offered Free By Terminix Of La.

A valuable and interesting booklet, "How To Detect Termites," just published by the E. L. Bruce company of Memphis, manufacturers of Terminix, the nationally used termite control chemical, is being offered free to Louisiana property owners.

Many think that unless they see the swarming reproductives — commonly called "flying ants"—which emerge from the colonies each spring to establish new nests, they are free from the termite menace. This is a fallacy, for termites often swarm to the outside of a building, unnoticed by the occupant. When they do swarm inside of the house, it is usually a warning of more serious trouble, and probably damaged timbers or flooring.

Once established, termites work the year around, and often can be detected only by an expert.

"How to Detect Termites" will, however, make it possible for any property owner to discover the more frequent indications and thus put him in a position to take steps to avert serious damage.

Curby Jamerson, head of Terminix of Louisiana, local unit of the world's largest termite control organization, will be glad to furnish this valuable booklet to anyone interested in the subject of termites. Simply phone 1341 or write Terminix of Louisiana, 321 Bernhardt building, Monroe.

Terminix of Louisiana offers a free inspection service of any properties in its territory, which comprises the northern part of Louisiana. The inspection will be made in accordance with their slogan, "If They Are There, We Will Show You. If They Are Not, We Will Tell You."

Terminix of Louisiana maintains a large staff of thoroughly trained men in Monroe and a call will bring a competent man without delay.

There is no charge made for property inspection, Mr. Jamerson stresses, and if an infestation is present, a careful survey and estimate will be furnished.

This firm, busy all the year around, urges that property owners examine property now, as this is the season when the pests may, in some cases, be more easily detected, as they emerge in the winged state and seek new nests.

MONROE SWEEPS 3-GAME SERIES WITH HELENA

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

A REAL CAMPAIGNER

He was sprawled out on my bed at the Alcazar hotel in Clarksdale last Wednesday night. The White Sox had dropped their third straight game to the Red Sox by a score of 4-3. He was tired after a hard night's work—in fact, after a month of hard work.

"Is it true they're going to bring Bobby Schang back?" he asked.

"I don't know," I replied. "I hear something's been said about it."

"I hope they do," was his response. "Bobby's a great little catcher and he'll help our club. I'll play the outfield, the infield or any place else Doug Taitt puts me. Watch and see if we don't go places."

If you haven't guessed it already, it was Hank Taylor speaking. He had dropped up to the room to talk awhile about the club and its prospects. He had heard that Monroe club owners were angling for the return of Schang, and he heartily approved of the move. He was willing to sacrifice his place as first-string catcher in any effort to strengthen the team. Not that he doesn't think he's as good a catcher as Schang, but he's willing to fill in any place for the good of the club.

That, ladies and gents, is the real team spirit.

Since our conversation the White Sox have won three straight games. Taylor has had a hand in each victory. Hank has some faults back there and he knows it, but he's determined to overcome them. With the will to win and the team spirit that he demonstrates every minute of the ball game, you can't keep him down.

THOSE AGREEMENTS

Working agreements with clubs of higher classification are the vogue in the small minors nowadays but so far the Monroe club hasn't profited greatly by the hookups they've effected. And neither has the rest of the league if the records mean anything.

Last year Monroe worked with the Chicago White Sox through Dallas. But after a dismal showing early in the season it was found necessary to go out and dicker elsewhere for reinforcements. Some players were bought and others were sent here on option from clubs not associated with the parent chain.

The same [illegible] this season. Monroe [illegible] to Dallas, [illegible] from the White Sox last winter but closed a working agreement with Monroe owners. That player is Frank Hargrove. Again this season it was found necessary to strengthen the club after the schedule opened, and again it was a purchase or two and favors from other clubs of higher classification that furnished the replacements. Only yesterday the Sox obtained Les Dunkle from Shreveport.

For the use of Hargrove, Dallas may take its pick of Monroe-owned players for a small sum of money at the end of the season. Frankly, it isn't worth the gamble. If the Sox come up with a promising rookie, a player who may bring several thousand dollars in a year or two, Dallas can grab him for practically nothing. Such an agreement certainly isn't profitable, and local owners realize it.

Still owners are due credit for shopping elsewhere to give Monroe fans a winner. They didn't rely entirely on the parent club to furnish the necessary players. They shelled out the cash and made deals with other clubs to put the Sox on top. It was a winner they wanted, and they have spared no expense or effort to get just that.

Other clubs have had similar difficulties with their working agreements, but their officials weren't as successful as Monroe's owners in obtaining help elsewhere. Pine Bluff, for instance, worked with the Cardinals last year and this year effected an agreement with Brooklyn. Neither proved satisfactory. Greenwood was a Dodger farm in 1938 and this year works with the Atlanta Crackers. Hot Springs retained its connection with Detroit through Beaumont this season and it seems to be working much better after a most successful start in 1938. Others have been satisfactory one year and a failure the next, but the independent policy of Monroe's powers-that-be seems to work out best for all concerned.

GROWLERS

The "wolves" are giving the boys some concern all over the circuit. It appears the Hot Springs variety is the toughest, and President Emmet Harty of the Cotton States circuit has registered a formal complaint with President Lloyd Adams and Manager Conrad Fisher of the Hot Springs club.

President Harty reported that opposing players have complained of the language used by the "wolves" in the left field bleachers. And club officials countered with the pledge that in the future policemen will be stationed in the "den" to "maintain decency and order."

Incidentally, Monroe's "wolves" have Clarksdale fans all in a dither. It was reported in the Clarksdale gazettes that pop bottles were showered on Clarksdale players from all parts of the grandstand during a recent game here. They didn't know, of course, that the grandstand is completely protected by wire netting and that only one bottle went hurtling within fifteen feet of Manager "Cowboy" Jones, said bottle, accompanied by a can, coming from the bleachers.

There was no excuse, of course, for throwing that bottle. It showed mighty poor sportsmanship, and fortunately such displays are few and far between.

Frankly, if I were a club owner I'd rather have a park full of paying "wolves"—not the swearing or bottle throwing kind—than 25 customers who praised the team or the opponents on every occasion.

SNYDER CAPTURES POLE BERTH FOR AUTOMOBILE RACE

Drives Car At Speed Of 130.492 Miles An Hour In Qualifying Spin

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—(AP)—Jimmy Snyder, once a milk wagon driver in Chicago, captured the pole position today in the starting lineup for the Memorial day 500-mile automobile race during a thrill-packed speed session which saw fifteen cars qualify for the race and Johnny Seymour of Groose Point, Mich., escape with his life when his car hit the wall and was destroyed by fire.

Snyder, a husky blond daredevil who is widely known as a midget race driver, wheeled one of the six-cylinder Joel Thorne entries for the ten mile qualifying jaunt at a speed of 130.138 miles an hour, breaking both the qualifying and one lap records. His best lap was turned at 130.757 miles an hour. The old one lap record, also held by Snyder, was 130.492 miles an hour. The old qualifying record was 125.769 miles an hour.

The thrills of Snyder's run barely had died down when Seymour, driving one of the two of brand new streamlined cars, built by Harry Miller, cracked into the wall at the northwest turn and the car burst into flames. Seymour, his clothing afire, either was thrown from the car or jumped. He was burned severely.

Every one of the fifteen qualifiers today did better than 120 miles an hour, two miles a minute. The record breaking started within a few minutes after 10 a.m., the time for the beginning of the trials. Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three time winner of the race, first broke the qualifying record with a speed of 130.067 miles an hour. That stood until Snyder's run.

Speedway officials said the crowd was the largest that ever had seen the trials. They estimated the attendance at 20,000.

Seymour's accident came while he was traveling about 125 miles an hour on a practice run.

From his hospital bed he told of his wreck.

"I went into a long spin and lost control of the car. The car hit the wall and caught fire and I went out. Then I went over the wall into the dirt and grass."

Witnesses said Seymour, after trying to beat out the fire on his clothing, ran and jumped over the wall near the spot where his car had first crashed. There an ambulance picked him up.

The car, one of three rear motored racers built by Harry Miller of Pittsburgh, was destroyed by the fire.

Additional trials will be held tomorrow with others scheduled for next week.

First row: Jimmy Snyder of Chicago, Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., and Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis.

Second row: Ted Horn of Los Angeles, Chet Miller of Detroit, George Bailey of Detroit.

Third row: William (Shorty) Cantlon of Detroit, Mauri Rose of Columbus, O., Herb Ardinger of Pittsburgh.

Fourth row: Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Calif., Frank Brisko of Chicago, George Connor of Los Angeles.

EFFORTS MADE TO ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Efforts to organize a baseball league from independent teams of the immediate vicinity are being made by Francis Hayes, manager of the Monroe Eagles, who announced last night that he had been contacting several teams not affiliated with any league and that he expected to hold a meeting of interested clubs soon.

Sterlington, Swartz, Choudrant, Marion and Spearsville, in addition to the local club, have clubs that are expected to join the new organization, Hayes stated.

Any other teams wishing to join such a loop are also requested to communicate with Hayes at the Spatafora Pharmacy here.

HURLER MAY BE USED BY MONROE AGAINST LIONS

Moundsman Optioned To Local Club Under 24-Hour Recall Provision

Acquisition of Leslie Dunkle, a left-hander, from the Shreveport Sports of the Texas league, was announced here yesterday by Monroe baseball club officials.

Dunkle, who was considered one of the best hurlers in the Cotton States league last year as a member of the Pine Bluff Judges' pitching staff, will be here this morning to join Manager Doug "Poco" Taitt and other White Sox. It is highly probable that he will hurl one of this afternoon's games against the El Dorado Lions.

With the coming of Dunkle, who is being optioned here on a 24-hour recall specification, the White Sox squad will have to be cut again before today's games, despite the fact that two players are on the suspended list. Just who will be released had not been announced last night but the club will have to make the squad limit of 15 again today.

Dunkle, during his season with the sixth-place Pine Bluff club last year, won 19 games and lost 16. He was third in the league as a strikeout artist, having fanned 170 in 29 games. Charles Hawley, El Dorado, led the league with a slight margin of 174 strikeouts. He issued only 81 bases on balls during the season, an average of approximately two walks a game in the 39 he worked.

The El Dorado Lions will be here only for the two games today and then the Hot Springs Bathers invade Casino park for the first time this season for a three-game series on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Pine Bluff Judges will be here for three games, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The pennant-raising ceremony will be held at the Wednesday night game, it was announced by club officials. The pennant-raising was originally scheduled for today, but it was decided yesterday to postpone the program until Wednesday. The V. F. W. drum and bugle corps will be included on the Wednesday program as the White Sox fly the 1938 pennant in the park here for the first time.

Changes in game times for the remainder of the season have also been announced by Saul Adler, club president.

Henceforth all night games in the local park will begin at 8:15 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock, with the exception of Saturday night engagements. Saturday games will begin at 8:30 p.m. Sunday double headers will begin at 2:15 p.m.

CAROLINA KEEPS SOUTHERN CROWN

Six New Records Set And One Old Mark Equalled In Track Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., May 20.—(AP)—Six new records went into the Southern conference track and field book today and an old mark was equalled as the University of North Carolina won its second consecutive loop championship and its sixth since 1929.

The team scores were: North Carolina 65 1-2 points; Duke 43, Maryland 39 1-2, South Carolina 22; Washington and Lee 22; V. M. I. 12; Richmond 7, North Carolina State 4; William and Mary 4, Davidson 3; and Clemson 3.

Jimmy Davis, North Carolina star mile runner, started the record-setting in the mile run, first event on the program. His time was 4 minutes, 14.2 seconds.

Tom Crockett of North Carolina cut an even six seconds from the two-mile record. He stepped the distance under a hot sun in 9 minutes, 40.4 seconds.

In the 880 Bill Hendrix of North Carolina marked up 1 minute 52.7 seconds, to reduce the old mark fixed by Headley of Maryland in 1938 at 1 minute 53.3 seconds.

Bill Corpening got a fourth new record for North Carolina. He flashed over the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.3 seconds, to whip by inches Donn Kinzle of Duke, who set the old mark last year at 14.5.

Dick Stricler of V. M. I. for the third year extended the conference record for the shotput with a push of 48 feet 8 1-2 inches.

Maryland mile relay team, V. Miller, Kim Kehoe, Gene Ochsenretter and A. Miller, set a new record of 3 minutes 18.6 seconds. The Maryland relay team of 1935 set the old mark at 3 minutes 18.7 seconds.

NEBRASKA THINCLADS REGAIN BIG SIX CROWN

AMES, Ia., May 20.—(AP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers regained the Big Six conference field and track championship here today, scoring 59 9-10 points.

Dethroned a year ago by Missouri, the Cornhuskers came back today to outpoint Oklahoma's Sooners in what turned out to be a two-team race for the title. The Oklahomans collected 47 2-5 points.

Kansas State finished third with 32 and Kansas and Missouri tied for fourth with 31 1-2. Iowa State was last with 26.

McGuire Club Prepares For Twin City Tourney

Largest Number Of Entries In Annals Of Big Golf Event Expected

McGuire Park Golf club is preparing for the biggest golfing event ever to be held in this area when the annual Twin City amateur tournament gets under way over the McGuire course on June 3.

The committee in charge of arrangements is making preparations to receive approximately 200 entries, according to Frank Johnson, chairman, and other features of the tourney program are to be emphasized more than ever this year.

Last year the club played host to 165 players and approximately 75 guests, but the mark this year should reach 200 players and approximately 150 guests. The club membership of 125 golfers will otherwise swell the attendance.

In addition to Frank Johnson, other members of the tournament committee are Kenneth E. Holt and Vance Rhodes.

Golfers participating again this year will find accommodations at the McGuire club house more comfortable than ever. Increased locker space now provides enough lockers for all that are expected to attend and other additions to the clubhouse are nearing completion.

An annual feature of the tournament day is the big free barbecue to entries, their families and guests on the opening night. Ford Hines will have complete charge of the barbecue preparations and more than enough will be available to all.

Although the McGuire course appears to be in its finest condition, Jim McKenzie, the club pro, is busy checking every hazard, green and fairway on the course to have it in tip-top shape for the club's feature event of the season.

Henry Castillo, of Louisiana State university, the defending champion will be back to defend his title, according to information received from Major Cole, L. S. U. golfing coach, who states that he also plans to bring the entire L. S. U. golfing team here to compete in the event. Bobby Cole, son of the major and one of the top-ranking younger linksmen of the state, will also be here.

Qualifying rounds begin next Sunday and continue through the following Friday. First and second round matches will be played Saturday, June 3 and semi-finals and finals will take place Sunday, June 4.

GRID COACHES PICK TENNESSEE

Vols Seen By Mentors As Best 1939 Eleven In Southeastern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—Major Bob Neyland wouldn't have any part in it, but Southeastern conference football coaches put Tennessee on the spot today.

Eleven grid coaches here during the conference's annual track and field meet picked next season's football winner at the request of Zipp Newman, Birmingham news sports editor.

Seven named the Vols to retain their football title, with the majority also agreeing on Tulane for the second spot, Alabama third and Louisiana State fourth.

Major Neyland, Tennessee's astute skipper, did not vote for his own team in ranking the squads. Football coaches being the reticent creatures they are, that's a pretty good indication of where the major thinks the Vols stand.

Tulane and Alabama received two votes apiece for first place, with the Tide also ranked second by two coaches, but the majority picked the Greenies to finish second and the Crimsons third.

Here is the ranking of the teams:

1 Tennessee; 2 Tulane; 3 Alabama, 4 Louisiana State, 5. Auburn; 6 Vanderbilt, 7 Ole Miss; 8 Georgia Tech, 9 Georgia, 10 Florida, 11 Mississippi State; 12 Kentucky, 13. Sewanee.

Coaches participating in the ballot were Neyland, Frank Thomas, Alabama; Elmer Lampe, Georgia; Hek Clarke, Sewanee, Jack Meager, Auburn, Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech; Red Dawson, Tulane, Josh Cody, Florida, Harry Mehre, Ole Miss, Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt, and Bernie Moore, Louisiana State.

AMERICANS DRAW MOST WINNERS IN SWEEPSTAKES

Fifty-One And Eight-Tenths Per Cent Of Lucky Tickets Held In U. S.

DUBLIN, May 20.—(AP)—The two-day drawing of the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes on the Derby next Wednesday at Epsom Downs, England, ended today with 51.8 per cent of the winning tickets owned in the United States.

The outcome of the race Wednesday will decide who will share in the big prizes of £30,000 (about $140,400) for each of the nine tickets held on the horse finishing first, £15,000 (about $70,200) for each on the second horse and £10,000 (about $46,800) for each on the third.

In today's drawing, 34 of the 50 residual prizes worth £1,122 (about $5,250) and 453 of the 900 consolation prizes of £100 (about $465) went to United States ticket-holders, a total of approximately $404,500.

Yesterday, 401 American-owned tickets on horses, 133 of them on racers still entered in the Derby, were drawn.

Each of these, except the ones held on the horses which finish first, second or third on Wednesday, will be worth slightly more than £397 (about $1,957).

United States ticket-holders who won $5,250 residual prizes were: Good Friday Twins, Towanda, N. Y.; Going to Ireland, New Richmond hotel, 117 West and Eighth avenue, Norfolk, Va.; I Hope I Hope, 1013 East Rittenhouse street, Germantown, Pa.; Edward Kozlowski, 233 Weimar street, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dopey, 4747 South Hoyne avenue, Chicago; Dorothy and Grandpa, 158 South Second avenue, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Kate Bruce, Langeloth, Pa.

Cheer Up You May Win Next Time, 2317 Cambridge avenue, Chicago; Angelus, 1306 South Orange drive, Los Angeles; Watchman Number 32, 567 92nd street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rose Trapani and Company, 12 State street.

HOFFMAN BLANKS SEAPORTERS, 4-0; GIVES UP 5 HITS

Arkansas Club Threatens To Score But Twice, In Fifth And Eighth Innings

HELENA, Ark., May 20.—(Special)—Ray Hoffman, a right-hander obtained by Monroe from Cedar Rapids, Ia., blanked the Helena Seaporters, 4 to 0 here today as the Monroe White Sox made a clean sweep of the three-game series with the locals.

Hoffman, allowing only five hits, limited the locals to two hits until the eighth inning, when the Seaporters bunched three safeties but were unable to score.

Only 33 batters faced Hoffman during the nine innings, the Helena batters going out "three up and three down" in five innings. Four batters faced him in three innings and six men faced him in the eighth, when the locals threatened but were unable to score.

Forest Austin, local hurler, pitched almost equally effective ball, allowing the Sox only five hits, but Monroe bunched two doubles, a single and a base on balls in the sixth inning to score three times, and made good use

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

Monroe's White Sox return to Casino park here this afternoon to engage the El Dorado Lions in a double header, the first game to get under way promptly at 2:15 o'clock.

The Lions have faced the Sox four times this season, losing each game, but Manager Frank O'Rourke has had some replacements since those early season engagements and can be expected to face the Sox with a better ball club today.

MONROE SWEEPS 3-GAME SERIES WITH HELENA

White Sox Acquire Pitcher Dunkle From Shreveport

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

A REAL CAMPAIGNER

He was sprawled out on my bed at the Alcazar hotel in Clarksdale last Wednesday night. The White Sox had dropped their third straight game to the Red Sox by a score of 4-3. He was tired after a hard night's work—in fact, after a month of hard work.

"Is it true they're going to bring Bobby Schang back?" he asked.

"I don't know," I replied. "I hear something's been said about it."

"I hope they do," was his response. "Bobby's a great little catcher and he'll help our club. I'll play the outfield, the infield or any place else Doug Taitt puts me. Watch and see if we don't go places."

If you haven't guessed it already, it was Hank Taylor speaking. He had dropped up to the room to talk awhile about the club and its prospects. He had heard that Monroe club owners were angling for the return of Schang, and he heartily approved of the move. He was willing to sacrifice his place as first-string catcher in any effort to strengthen the team. Not that he doesn't think he's as good a catcher as Schang, but he's willing to fill in any place for the good of the club.

That, ladies and gents, is the real team spirit.

Since our conversation the White Sox have won three straight games. Taylor has had a hand in each victory. Hank has some faults back there and he knows it, but he's determined to overcome them. With the will to win and the team spirit that he demonstrates every minute of the ball game, you can't keep him down.

THOSE AGREEMENTS

Working agreements with clubs of higher classification are the vogue in the small minors nowadays but so far the Monroe club hasn't profited greatly by the hook-ups they've effected. And neither has the rest of the league, if the records mean anything.

Last year Monroe worked with the Chicago White Sox, through Dallas. But after a dismal showing early in the season, it was found necessary to go out and dicker elsewhere for reinforcements. Some players were bought and others were sent here on option from clubs not associated with the parent chain.

The same applies this season. Monroe now has one player who belongs to Dallas, who cast adrift from the White Sox last winter but closed a working agreement with Monroe owners. That player is Frank Hargrove. Again this season it was found necessary to strengthen the club after the schedule opened, and again it was a purchase or two and favors from other clubs of higher classification that furnished the replacements. Only yesterday the Sox obtained Les Dunkle from Shreveport.

For the use of Hargrove, Dallas may take its pick of Monroe-owned players for a small sum of money at the end of the season. Frankly, it isn't worth the gamble. If the Sox come up with a promising rookie—a player who may bring several thousand dollars in a year or two—Dallas can grab him for practically nothing. Such an agreement certainly isn't profitable, and local owners realize it.

Said owners are due credit for shopping elsewhere to give Monroe fans a winner. They didn't rely entirely on the parent club to furnish the necessary players. They shelled out the cash and made deals with other clubs to put the Sox on top. It was a winner they wanted, and they have spared no expense or effort to get just that.

Other clubs have had similar difficulties with their working agreements, but their officials weren't as successful as Monroe's owners in obtaining help elsewhere. Pine Bluff, for instance, worked with the Cardinals last year and this year effected an agreement with Brooklyn. Neither proved satisfactory. Greenwood was a Dodger farm in 1938 and this year works with the Atlanta Crackers. Hot Springs retained its connection with Detroit, through Beaumont, this season and it seems to be working much better after a most successful start in 1938. Others have been satisfactory one year and a failure the next, but the independent policy of Monroe's powers-that-be seems to work out best for all concerned.

GROWLERS

The "wolves" are giving the boys some concern all over the circuit. It appears the Hot Springs variety is the toughest, and President Emmet Harty of the Cotton States circuit has registered a formal complaint with President Lloyd Adams and Manager Conrad Fisher of the Hot Springs club.

President Harty reported that opposing players have complained of the language used by the "wolves" in the left field bleachers. And club officials countered with the pledge that in the future policemen will be stationed in the "den" to "maintain decency and order."

Incidentally, Monroe's "wolves" have Clarksdale fans all in a dither. It was reported in the Clarksdale gazettes that pop bottles were showered on Clarksdale players from all parts of the grandstand during a recent game here. They didn't know, of course, that the grandstand is completely protected by wire netting and that only one bottle went hurtling within fifteen feet of Manager "Cowboy" Jones, said bottle, accompanied by a can, coming from the bleachers.

There was no excuse, of course, for throwing that bottle. It showed mighty poor sportsmanship, and fortunately such displays are few and far between.

SNYDER CAPTURES POLE BERTH FOR AUTOMOBILE RACE

Drives Car At Speed Of 130.492 Miles An Hour In Qualifying Spin

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—(AP)—Jimmy Snyder, once a milk wagon driver in Chicago, captured the pole position today in the starting lineup for the Memorial day 500-mile automobile race during a thrill-packed speed session which saw fifteen cars qualify for the race and Johnny Seymour of Groose Point, Mich., escape with his life when his car hit the wall and was destroyed by fire.

Snyder, a husky blond daredevil who is widely known as a midget race driver, wheeled one of the six-cylinder Joel Thorne entries for the ten mile qualifying jaunt at a speed of 130.138 miles an hour, breaking both the qualifying and one lap records. His best lap was turned at 130.757 miles an hour. The old one lap record, also held by Snyder, was 130.492 miles an hour. The old qualifying record was 125.769 miles an hour.

The thrills of Snyder's run barely had died down when Seymour, driving one of the trio of brand new rear-motored cars, built by Harry Miller, cracked into the wall at the northwest turn and the car burst into flames. Seymour, his clothing afire, either was thrown from the car or jumped. He was burned severely.

Everyone of the fifteen qualifiers today did better than 120 miles an hour—two miles a minute. The record breaking started within a few minutes after 10 a.m. the time for the beginning of the trials. Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three time winner of the race, first broke the qualifying record with a speed of 130.067 miles an hour. That stood until Snyder's run.

Speedway officials said the crowd was the largest that ever had seen the trials. They estimated the attendance at 50,000.

Seymour's accident came while he was traveling about 120 miles an hour in a practice run.

From his hospital bed, he told of his wreck:

"I went into a long spin and lost it (the car). The car hit the wall and caught fire and I went out. Then I went over the wall into the dirt and grass."

Witnesses said Seymour, after trying to beat out the fire in his clothing, ran and jumped over the wall near the spot where his car had first crashed. There an ambulance picked him up.

The car, one of three rear-motored racers built by Harry Miller of Pittsburgh, was destroyed by the fire.

Additional trials will be held tomorrow with others scheduled for next week.

First row: Jimmy Snyder of Chicago, Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., and Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis.

Second row: Ted Horn of Los Angeles, Chet Miller of Detroit, George Bailey of Detroit.

Third row: William (Shorty) Cantlon of Detroit, Mauri Rose of Columbus, O., Herb Ardinger of Pittsburgh.

Fourth row: Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Calif., Frank Brisko of Chicago, George Connor of Los Angeles.

EFFORTS MADE TO ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Efforts to organize a baseball league from independent teams of the immediate vicinity are being made by Francis Hayes, manager of the Monroe Eagles, who announced last night that he had been contacting several teams not affiliated with any league and that he expected to hold a meeting of interested clubs soon.

Sterlington, Swartz, Choudrant, Marion and Spearsville, in addition to the local club, have clubs that are expected to join the new organization, Hayes stated.

Any other teams wishing to join such a loop are also requested to communicate with Hayes at the Spatafora Pharmacy here.

HURLER MAY BE USED BY MONROE AGAINST LIONS

Moundsman Optioned To Local Club Under 24-Hour Recall Provision

Acquisition of Leslie Dunkle, a left-hander, from the Shreveport Sports of the Texas league, was announced here yesterday by Monroe baseball club officials.

Dunkle, who was considered one of the best hurlers in the Cotton States league last year as a member of the Pine Bluff Judges' pitching staff, will be here this morning to join Manager Doug "Poco" Taitt and other White Sox. It is highly probable that he will hurl one of this afternoon's games against the El Dorado Lions.

With the coming of Dunkle, who is being optioned here on a 24-hour recall specification, the White Sox squad will have to be cut again before today's games, despite the fact that two players are on the suspended list. Just who will be released had not been announced last night but the club will have to make the squad limit of 15 again today.

Dunkle, during his season with the sixth-place Pine Bluff club last year, won 19 games and lost 16. He was third in the league as a strikeout artist, having fanned 170 in 39 games. Charles Hawley, El Dorado, led the league with a slight margin of 174 strikeouts. He issued only 84 bases on balls during the season, an average of approximately two walks a game in the 39 he worked.

The El Dorado Lions will be here only for the two games today and then the Hot Springs Bathers invade Casino park for the first time this season for a three-game series on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Pine Bluff Judges will be here for three games, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The pennant-raising ceremony will be held at the Wednesday night game, it was announced by club officials. The pennant-raising was originally scheduled for today, but it was decided yesterday to postpone the program until Wednesday. The V. F. W. drum and bugle corps will be included on the Wednesday program as the White Sox fly the 1938 pennant in the park here for the first time.

Changes in game times for the remainder of the season have also been announced by Saul Adler, club president.

Henceforth all night games in the local park will begin at 8:15 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock, with the exception of Saturday night engagements. Saturday games will begin at 8:30 p.m. Sunday double headers will begin at 2:15 p.m.

CAROLINA KEEPS SOUTHERN CROWN

Six New Records Set And One Old Mark Equalled In Track Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., May 20.—(AP)—Six new records went into the Southern conference track and field book today and an old mark was equalled as the University of North Carolina won its second consecutive loop championship and its sixth since 1929.

The team scores were: North Carolina 65 1-2 points; Duke 43; Maryland 39 1-2; South Carolina 22; Washington and Lee 22; V. M. I. 12; Richmond 7; North Carolina State 4; William and Mary 4; Davidson 3; and Clemson 3.

Jimmy Davis, North Carolina star mile runner, started the record-setting in the mile run, first event on the program. His time was 4 minutes, 14.2 seconds.

Tom Crockett of North Carolina cut an even six seconds from the two-mile record. He stepped the distance under a hot sun in 9 minutes, 40.4 seconds.

In the 880 Bill Hendrix of North Carolina marked up 1 minute 52.7 seconds, to reduce the old mark fixed by Headley of Maryland in 1938 at 1 minute 53.3 seconds.

Bill Corpening got a fourth new record for North Carolina. He flashed over the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.3 seconds, to whip by inches Donn Kinzle of Duke, who set the old mark last year at 14.5.

Dick Stricler of V. M. I. for the third year extended the conference record for the shotput with a push of 48 feet 8 1-2 inches.

Maryland mile relay team, V. Miller, Kim Kehoe, Gene Ochsenretter and A. Miller, set a new record of 3 minutes 18.6 seconds. The Maryland relay team of 1935 set the old mark at 3 minutes 18.7 seconds.

NEBRASKA THINCLADS REGAIN BIG SIX CROWN

AMES, Ia., May 20.—(AP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers regained the Big Six conference field and track championship here today, scoring 59 9-10 points.

Dethroned a year ago by Missouri, the Cornhuskers came back today to outpoint Oklahoma's Sooners in what turned out to be a two-team race for the title. The Oklahomans collected 47 2-5 points.

Kansas State finished third with 32 and Kansas and Missouri tied for fourth with 31 1-2. Iowa State was last with 26.

McGuire Club Prepares For Twin City Tourney

Largest Number Of Entries In Annals Of Big Golf Event Expected

McGuire Park Golf club is preparing for the biggest golfing event ever to be held in this area when the annual Twin City amateur tournament gets under way over the McGuire course on June 3.

The committee in charge of arrangements is making preparations to receive approximately 200 entries, according to Frank Johnson, chairman, and other features of the tourney program are to be emphasized more than ever this year.

Last year the club played host to 165 players and approximately 75 guests, but the mark this year should reach 200 players and approximately 150 guests. The club membership of 125 golfers will otherwise swell the attendance.

In addition to Frank Johnson, other members of the tournament committee are Kenneth E. Holt and Vance Rhodes.

Golfers participating again this year will find accommodations at the McGuire club house more comfortable than ever. Increased locker space now provides enough lockers for all that are expected to attend and other additions to the clubhouse are nearing completion.

An annual feature of the tournament day is the big free barbecue to entries, their families and guests on the opening night. Ford Hines will have complete charge of the barbecue preparations and more than enough will be available to all.

Although the McGuire course appears to be in its finest condition, Jim McKenzie, the club pro, is busy checking every hazard, green and fairway on the course to have it in tip-top shape for the club's feature event of the season.

Henry Castillo, of Louisiana State university, the defending champion, will be back to defend his title, according to information received from Major Cole, L. S. U. golfing coach, who states that he also plans to bring the entire L. S. U. golfing team here to compete in the event. Bobby Cole, son of the major and one of the top-ranking younger linksmen of the state, will also be here.

Qualifying rounds begin next Sunday and continue through the following Friday. First and second round matches will be played Saturday, June 3, and semi-finals and finals will take place Sunday, June 4.

GRID COACHES PICK TENNESSEE

Vols Seen By Mentors As Best 1939 Eleven In Southeastern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—Major Bob Neyland wouldn't have any part in it, but Southeastern conference football coaches put Tennessee on the spot today.

Eleven grid coaches here during the conference's annual track and field meet picked next season's football winner at the request of Zipp Newman, Birmingham news sports editor.

Seven named the Vols to retain their football title, with the majority also agreeing on Tulane for the second spot, Alabama third and Louisiana State fourth.

Major Neyland, Tennessee's astute skipper, did not vote for his own team in ranking the squads. Football coaches being the reticent creatures they are, that's a pretty good indication of where the major thinks the Vols stand.

Tulane and Alabama received two votes apiece for first place, with the Tide also ranked second by two coaches, but the majority picked the Greenies to finish second and the Crimsons third.

Here is the ranking of the teams:

1. Tennessee; 2. Tulane; 3. Alabama; 4. Louisiana State; 5. Auburn; 6. Vanderbilt; 7. Ole Miss; 8. Georgia Tech; 9. Georgia; 10. Florida; 11. Mississippi State; 12. Kentucky; 13. Sewanee.

Coaches participating in the ballot were Neyland; Frank Thomas, Alabama; Elmer Lampe, Georgia; Hek Clarke, Sewanee; Jack Meager, Auburn; Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech; Red Dawson, Tulane; Josh Cody, Florida; Harry Mehre, Ole Miss; Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt, and Bernie Moore, Louisiana State.

AMERICANS DRAW MOST WINNERS IN SWEEPSTAKES

Fifty-One And Eight-Tenths Per Cent Of Lucky Tickets Held In U. S.

DUBLIN, May 20.—(AP)—The two-day drawing of the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes on the Derby next Wednesday at Epsom Downs, England, ended today with 51.8 per cent of the winning tickets owned in the United States.

The outcome of the race Wednesday will decide who will share in the big prizes of £30,000 (about $140,400) for each of the nine tickets held on the horse finishing first, £15,000 (about $70,200) for each on the second horse and £10,000 (about $46,800) for each on the third.

In today's drawing, 34 of the 50 residual prizes worth £1,122 (about $5,250) and 483 of the 900 consolation prizes of £100 (about $468) went to United States ticket-holders, a total of approximately $404,500.

Yesterday, 401 American-owned tickets on horses, 133 of them on racers still entered in the Derby, were drawn.

Each of these, except the ones held on the horses which finish first, second or third on Wednesday, will be worth slightly more than £397 (about $1,957).

United States ticket-holders who won $5,250 residual prizes were: Good Friday Twins, Towanda, N. Y.; Going to Ireland, New Richmond hotel, 117 West and Eighth avenue, Norfolk, Va.; I Hope I Hope, 1013 East Rittenhouse street, Germantown, Pa.; Edward Kozlowski, 233 Weimar street, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dopey, 4747 South Hoyne avenue, Chicago; Dorothy and Grandpa, 158 South Second avenue, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Kate Bruce, Langeloth, Pa.

Cheer Up You May Win Next Time, 2317 Cambridge avenue, Chicago; Angelus, 1806 South Orange drive, Los Angeles; Watchman Number 32, 567 92nd street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rose Trapani and Company, 12 State street,

HOFFMAN BLANKS SEAPORTERS, 4-0; GIVES UP 5 HITS

Arkansas Club Threatens To Score But Twice, In Fifth And Eighth Innings

HELENA, Ark., May 20.—(Special)—Ray Hoffman, a right-hander obtained by Monroe from Cedar Rapids, Ia., blanked the Helena Seaporters, 4 to 0, here today as the Monroe White Sox made a clean sweep of the three-game series with the locals.

Hoffman, allowing only five hits, limited the locals to two hits until the eighth inning, when the Seaporters bunched three safeties but were unable to score.

Only 33 batters faced Hoffman during the nine innings, the Helena batters going out "three up and three down" in five innings. Four batters faced him in three innings and six men faced him in the eighth, when the locals threatened but were unable to score.

Forest Austin, local hurler, pitched almost equally effective ball, allowing the Sox only five hits, but Monroe bunched two doubles, a single and a base on balls in the sixth inning to score three times, and made good use

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

Monroe's White Sox return to Casino park here this afternoon to engage the El Dorado Lions in a double header, the first game to get under way promptly at 2:15 o'clock.

The Lions have faced the Sox four times this season, losing each game, but Manager Frank O'Rourke has had some replacements since those early season engagements and can be expected to face the Sox with a better ball club today.

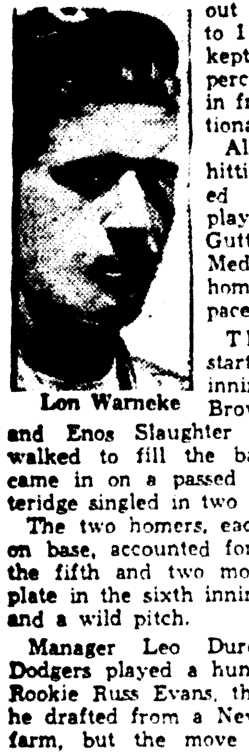
WARNEKE HURLS ST. LOUIS CLUB TO 9-1 VICTORY

Gutteridge And Medwick Set Slugging Pace Against Brooklyn



Lon Warneke

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—(AP)—While Lon Warneke subdued the Brooklyn Dodgers on six hits today, his St. Louis Cardinal teammates clubbed out 13 hits for a 9 to 1 victory which kept them a few percentage points in front of the National league.

All the Cardinal hitting was divided among five players with Don Gutteridge and Joe Medwick getting homers to set the pace.

The scoring started in the first inning when Jim Brown doubled and Enos Slaughter and Medwick walked to fill the bases. One run came in on a passed ball and Gutteridge singled in two more.

The two homers, each with a man on base, accounted for four runs in the fifth and two more crossed the plate in the sixth inning on four hits and a wild pitch.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers played a hunch by starting Rookie Russ Evans, the right-hander he drafted from a New York Giants farm, but the move backfired and Evans was charged with his fourth loss.

One of his previous setbacks was a 1-0 affair to the Cardinals which Pepper Martin won by stealing home. Evans' first effort at retaliation ended when he was relieved in the third. Ira Hutchinson and Hugh Casey finished.

CUBS WALLOP GIANTS

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP)—A game which started out as a hot hurling match between southpaws Larry French and Cliff Melton today degenerated into a hitting brawl in which the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Giants, 8 to 4, to split their two-game series.

French fanned eight and kept a dozen hits spaced sufficiently to last the route for his second victory against an equal number of defeats, but Melton wilted after striking out six and blanking the Cubs for four innings. He was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh and the Cubs then fattened their averages with seven hits in two innings off Dick Coffman.

PIRATES HAMMER BEES

PITTSBURGH, May 20.—(AP)—Every player in the Pittsburgh lineup except Relief Hurler Mace Brown hit safely today as the Pirates hammered four Boston hurlers to win over the Bees, 12 to 6.

Second Baseman Bill Brubaker led the 18-hit Pirate attack, getting four safeties out of five times at bat.

L. S. U. Wins Sixth Southeastern Track Championship

TRIO OF MARKS CRACKED, AUBURN PLACES SECOND

Millard White Of Tulane Sets Discuss Record Of 154 Feet, 1 3-4 Inches

By Kenneth Gregory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—Three records were cracked today in the seventh annual Southeastern conference track and field championships, won for the sixth time by the golden-shirted athletes of Louisiana State university.

Louisiana State, overwhelmingly favored from the start but somewhat handicapped by crippled runners, amassed 57 points to take the team championship and for the second straight year Auburn was second. The Plainsmen collected 31 points. Florida's 28 points gave the 'Gators third place.

Although the University of Alabama finished fourth with 27 points two Crimson Tide athletes hung up new records. Sophomore Kelly Horn established a new mark in the high jump and Senior Wayne Downey broke his own pole vault record. Tulane's big football player, Millard White, set up a new discus throw record.

White, who repeated his 1938 victories in the discus and shot put on a field with none-too-firm footing, flung the discus 154 feet, 1¾ inches to top the record of 149 feet, 9¾ inches by Maurice Greene of Georgia in 1937.

The oldest record to go by the boards was in the high jump. Lloyd Richey of Auburn set a mark of 6 feet, 5 3-8 inches in 1934 and this afternoon Alabama's Horn cleared the bar at 6 feet 5½ inches. Downey, who established the pole vault figure of 13 feet, 6¼ inches last year, got over comfortably at 13 feet, 6¾. Downey tried once for 14 feet but failed.

Vassa Cate of Georgia, who won the low hurdles, was second in the high hurdles and third in the 100-yard dash, was high point man of the meet with 12. Louisiana State's sophomore sensation, Billy Brown, who was prevented from displaying what might have been record-breaking form because of a badly-pulled leg muscle, was second with 11 points.

Two athletes won two victories each for 10 points—White of Tulane and Francis Kearney, the smooth-striding speedster from Florida who took firsts in the 100 yard dash in 9.9 seconds and in the 220-yard dash in 21.9 seconds.

Georgia Tech's Charlie Belcher walked away easily with the 440-yard dash to defend laurels he won in that event a year ago. The Yellow Jacket athlete won by 10 yards over Bill Thompson of Florida in 47.1 seconds, just one tenth of a second slower than his 1938 time. Louisiana State's middle distance star, Frank Church, finished a poor third in the 440 but came back later to breeze home in the 880 in 1 minute, 56.2 seconds.

Louisiana State scored points in every event except the 2-mile run, the shot put and the discus. The triumphant Tigers, who once won the conference crown without getting a single first place, got only three winners today, but rolled up points back of the winners.

Other points scored back of fourth-place Alabama were Georgia Tech 23, Georgia 20, Mississippi State 15, Tulane 11, Mississippi 7, Kentucky 3, Tennessee 2 and Vanderbilt 1. Sewanee had entered athletes to give the meet full representation of the 13 schools for the first time, but their entries were scratched.

Hal Standley of Alabama, who won the javelin throw in 1937 and was ineligible last year, came back to win the event by tossing the spar 201 feet, 3 3-16 inches, about two feet short

ARCADIA GRIDIRON WILL BE LIGHTED

ARCADIA, La., May 19.—(Special)—Arcadia High school expects to have one of the best high school football plants in the state with the completion of the field lighting system on the local gridiron about August 1, according to an announcement by E. R. Hester, principal.

The lights, costing about $2,200 plus installation charges, are of the latest design, and will be placed on ten poles, five on each side of the field. The arrangement is expected to give 20 per cent better lighting facilities than the ordinary football field flood lights.

The local gridiron was "turtle-backed" last year and with the addition of its new concrete stadium, capable of seating 3,000 persons, and completion of the lighting system will give Arcadia just about the best prep school field in the state.

The field lighting was made possible through efforts of J. A. Shelby, superintendent of schools of Bienville parish, and school board members, Mrs. J. L. Wade and M. E. Woodard.

Arcadia also boasts the best tennis courts for a town of its size in the state, having five concrete courts throughout the town and all lighted, with one exception, for night playing.

HOFFMAN BLANKS SEAPORTERS, 4-0

of a walk, an outfield fly, a hit and a sacrifice to score once in the fifth.

They went down in order with only three batters facing Austin in the first, second and third innings. Four faced him in the fourth, but the Sox got loose in the fifth to score once.

Frank Hackney drew a base on balls. "Red" Pruitt flied out to center field, but Hank Taylor singled to right field, sending Hackney to third. Jones flied to left field, Hackney scoring after the catch and Taylor going to second. Hoffman made the third out on an outfield fly.

The Seaporters threatened in their half of the fifth, when, with one out, McCollum was safe on Murrell Jones' error and went to second on a passed ball. But Thomas grounded out, Hoffman to Jones, without advancing McCollum, and then Austin grounded to Pruitt, who trapped McCollum off second.

The Louisianians went to work in a big way in the sixth, considering the closeness of other innings. With one out, Johnny Conway doubled down the third-base line. Frank Hargrove singled, sending Conway to third, and Manager Doug Taitt walked, filling the bases. Hackney grounded out to Freddy Weisler at first, but Conway scored and other runners advanced a base. Pruitt then doubled into left field, scoring Hargrove and Taitt. Taylor walked, but Pruitt was out in an attempt to steal third.

Helena threatened seriously in the eighth, but was unable to score. McCollum beat out a hit to first base. Goldie Thomas hit into a double play, Conway to Hackney to Jones, but Austin singled into right and John Rowe singled into the same place to send Austin to third. Sutherlin, batting for Manager Buster Blakeney, drew a base on balls, loading the bases, but Noel Casbier fanned to end the rally.

Freddie Weisler, the local first baseman, who was chased out of Casino park at Monroe last Sunday for disputing an umpire's decisions on strikes, was chased again today. Weisler, after words with Umpire Newman as the result of a called strike, was chased from the local park in the ninth inning.

Downing And Harper Meet Today For City Golf Title

Defending Champ And Former Title Holder To Tangle On Muny Course

Ben Downing, Jr., state high school golf champion, will defend his city championship against Jimmy Harper, former Municipal club champion, this morning over the Municipal course in a match that gets under way at 9 o'clock.

Finals in all other flights of the city championship tournament will also take place today at the Muny club.

Downing, who is rated one of the best amateurs in the state, reached the finals in the city tournament with a default over H. K. Touchstone and a victory over Snap Gerault, 3 and 1. Harper, a former two-time holder of the Muny club title, went to the finals by beating Dr. N. G. Gaston, 7 and 6, and defeating McVea Oliver, 1 up.

Final matches in other flights today will be as follows:

First flight, Jesse James vs. Jordan Barton; third flight, Frank Surguine vs. F. F. Willis; second flight, W. O. Webb vs. Frank Strohm; fifth flight, L. C. Latham vs. G. L. Mahoney.

The second flight final was played this week with George Miller defeating Dickie Touchstone, 4 and 3.

Consolation finals — Championship flight, John Myers, Jr., vs. H. K. Touchstone; first flight, B. M. Murphy vs. B. Rickerson; third flight, W. C. DeMoss vs. James Brown; fourth flight, Eddie Fitzpatrick vs. W. A. Guy, Jr.; and fifth flight, A. J. McGinn vs. T. John.

The second flight consolation was also completed this week with Dr. R. B. Henry defeating Hiller Hesdorffer in the final, 1 up in 19 holes.

Dr. N. G. Gaston will be the referee of the title match between Downing and Harper, according to Jean Shirah, club pro, and Miss Elizabeth Kennedy will be official scorer.

KALLIO ARRANGES STELLAR PROGRAM FOR LOCAL ARENA

Double Main Event To Launch Tourney To Determine 'Shadow's' Opponent

The black-masked, scarlet-clad "Shadow," who has defeated all comers at the Monroe wrestling arena, won't be back at the arena this week or for some days to come. He has "cleaned the plow" of the best of them, the most scientific and the roughest of the villains, although admittedly on one or two occasions it was only a lucky break or the irony of fate that gave him a winning hold over an opponent who had mastered him with scientific wrestling. But, biding his return, Promoter Gus Kallio announced yesterday afternoon that he was starting an elimination tournament to determine which wrestler, regardless of his type of wrestling, will be the next opponent of the "Shadow" in Monroe.

Launching the elimination tournament under full blast, Promoter Kallio has arranged a double main event for the weekly program next Thursday night, both bouts to be waged under a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

In the final bout, Cyclone Mackey, the El Paso, Tex., veteran, will oppose Indian Bill Carzell, of New Mexico. In the opening bout, Dutch Schultz, the renowned Milwaukee, Wis., grappler, will tackle Bob (Buck) Davidson.

Cyclone Mackey appeared at the local arena for the first time last Thursday night, defeating Ned Taylor, of Seattle, Wash., a formidable opponent for any of the grapplers who have been appearing at the stadium, in two straight falls. Mackey won both falls by severely punishing Taylor's left arm and shoulder with hammer locks, arm pulls and arm bars and braces.

Handing out the arm punishment early in the first round, Mackey soon won the advantage of weakening his opponent and was never hard pressed or extended to win. Promoter Kallio, wise in the ways of the wrestling wars and consistently presenting fairly matched opponents in each bout, has matched Mackey against a heavier opponent in the person of Carzell. It is expected that the veteran Mackey, who knows all the tricks and all the answers, will have to muster all of his resources to overcome Carzell's advantage of weight.

Carzell has been thoroughly seasoned in the mat wars and has developed the Indian death lock as his most dangerous hold. He is unique here in that he is the only wrestler ever to appear here who uses a weird, odd tangle of legs and arms to work his opponent into the lock with which his forebears fastened tribal outcasts to trees, where they became food for wild fowl and beasts.

Dutch Schultz, who will tackle Bob Davidson in the other bout, has defeated several score of Swedes, Germans, Poles, [illegible] and grapplers of other extractions in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and in that section of the country, as in Monroe in the case of the "Shadow," he has just about eliminated himself from competition for the present.

Schultz performs somewhat in the style of Carl Von Bromberg, of Germany, who reigned as the No. 1 villain of the mat wars in Monroe until his defeat by the "Shadow." The Milwaukee grappler wears a heavy beard and advance reports say that he is as ferocious as the "Shadow" is cunning and colorful.

Buck Davidson has appeared in several bouts here and is highly popular with the fans. He has perfected a variety of arm holds and the most torturing of the lot is a sitting bar and brace with which he s almost to tear his opponents' from their shoulders.

All told, Promoter Kallio ha ranged a highly interesting d main event to launch the elim tournament. Fans and all others have had any contacts with have learned that his word is as as gold. He has never run in a stitute wrestler, he has taken o than several untoward develop arising in his efforts to build u sport here and has never compla he is in dead earnest about fu developing the sport, and whe says he has arranged a double event, he means that without reservations.

To flavor the program with tional interest, ten merchandise will be awarded.

YATES TERRIBLE IN TUNE-UP FOR BRITISH AMATEU

Defending Champion C Game; Chances Of Retaining Crown Look Slim

By Scotty Reston

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 20.—(A America's chances of retaining British amateur golf championsl took a sharp drop today as Defer ing Champion Charley Yates of lanta, Ga., went completely off game.

He completed his practice rou for the tournament that opens M day by scrambling around the Ro Liverpool course in 78—five over p

Critics found Yates guilty of pu ing his drives, cutting his irons even temporarily losing his marvel putting touch.

But of all those concerned over slipshod round he turned in, Y was the least perturbed. He wor for awhile on his woods from practice tee this afternoon—and t went off to a picture show!

"I'll get it (his game) back by M day," he confidently told reporter

Meanwhile the swaggering 19-y old Irish champion, Jim Bruen, wo up his practice and stood as a seri challenge to the blond Yates.

Bruen turned in a sensational four under par—on his last lap aro the course today, to contrast w with Yates' final tune-up.

In five rounds over this co which is the longest in Engl Bruen stands 17 under par. He pla today with Jimmy Adams, a pro, who finished second in the B ish Open on two occasions, and consistently longer with his woods stuck his second shots closer to pin than the pro.

Said Adams: "Honestly, I've ne been so consistently outdriven as this boy. It just never occurs to boy that this is a difficult game."

Bruen, incidentally, started out a bad seven, yet managed to f the first nine in 37, one under pa

Most players in the last warm were still complaining that the co is too long.

"What you need in your ba nine woods and three irons," was say Trainer Bill Holt of Syrac N. Y., put it.

Ellsworth Vines, former te champion, who is entered for the time, is another who is attrac much attention. However, he decl to try the course today, preferrin wait until Wednesday when he his first match.

Two former champions who had tered the meet were scratched t They are Bob Sweeney, the Am can born 1937 winner and Eric M Smith, the 1931 winner.

Yates and Dick Chapman of Gr wich, Conn., are the only two A cans scheduled to play Mon Charlie goes out at 1:16 p.m. Chapman at 1:32 and it looks these two may meet in the round!

WARNEKE HURLS ST. LOUIS CLUB TO 9-1 VICTORY

Gutteridge And Medwick Set Slugging Pace Against Brooklyn

Lon Warneke

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—(AP)—While Lon Warneke subdued the Brooklyn Dodgers on six hits today, his St. Louis Cardinal teammates clubbed out 13 hits for a 9 to 1 victory which kept them a few percentage points in front of the National league.

All the Cardinal hitting was divided among five players with Don Gutteridge and Joe Medwick getting homers to set the pace.

The scoring started in the first inning when Jim Brown doubled and Enos Slaughter and Medwick walked to fill the bases. One run came in on a passed ball and Gutteridge singled in two more.

The two homers, each with a man on base, accounted for four runs in the fifth and two more crossed the plate in the sixth inning on four hits and a wild pitch.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers played a hunch by starting Rookie Russ Evans, the right-hander he drafted from a New York Giants farm, but the move backfired and Evans was charged with his fourth loss.

One of his previous setbacks was a 1-0 affair to the Cardinals which Pepper Martin won by stealing home. Evans' first effort at retaliation ended when he was relieved in the third. Ira Hutchinson and Hugh Casey finished.

CUBS WALLOP GIANTS

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP)—A game which started out as a hot hurling match between southpaws Larry French and Cliff Melton today degenerated into a hitting brawl in which the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Giants, 8 to 4, to split their two-game series.

French fanned eight and kept a dozen hits spaced sufficiently to last the route for his second victory against an equal number of defeats, but Melton wilted after striking out six and blanking the Cubs for four innings. He was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh and the Cubs then fattened their averages with seven hits in two innings off Dick Coffman.

REDS TROUNCE PHILLIES

CINCINNATI, May 20.—(AP)—The galloping Reds kept right on going for their fifth straight victory today, defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 7 to 2. Whitey Moore pitched shutout ball for eight innings, allowing only four scratch hits. In the ninth, Young hit a homer to score behind Whitney, who had walked.

L. S. U. Wins Sixth Southeastern Track Championship

By Kenneth Gregory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 20.—(AP)—Three records were cracked today in the seventh annual Southeastern conference track and field championships, won for the sixth time by the golden-shirted athletes of Louisiana State university.

Louisiana State, overwhelmingly favored from the start but somewhat handicapped by crippled runners, amassed 57 points to take the team championship and for the second straight year Auburn was second, the Plainsmen collected 31 points. Florida's 28 points gave the 'Gators third place.

Although the University of Alabama finished fourth with 27 points two Crimson Tide athletes hung up new records. Sophomore Kelly Horn established a new mark in the high jump and Senior Wayne Downey broke his own pole vault record. Tulane's big football player, Millard White, set up a new discus throw record.

White, who repeated his 1938 victories in the discus and shot put on a field with none-too-firm footing, flung the discus 154 feet, 1¾ inches to top the record of 149 feet, 9¾ inches by Maurice Greene of Georgia in 1937.

The oldest record to go by the boards was in the high jump. Lloyd Richey of Auburn set a mark of 6 feet, 5 3/8 inches in 1934 and this afternoon Alabama's Horn cleared the bar at 6 feet 5½ inches. Downey, who established the pole vault figure of 13 feet, 6¼ inches last year, got over comfortably at 13 feet, 6¾. Downey tried once for 14 feet but failed.

Vassa Cate of Georgia, who won the low hurdles, was second in the high hurdles and third in the 100-yard dash, was high point man of the meet with 12. Louisiana State's sophomore sensation, Billy Brown, who was prevented from displaying what might have been record-breaking form because of a badly-pulled leg muscle, was second with 11 points.

Two athletes won two victories each for 10 points—White of Tulane and Francis Kearney, the smooth-striding speedster from Florida who took firsts in the 100 yard dash in 9.9 seconds and in the 220-yard dash in 21.9 seconds.

Georgia Tech's Charlie Belcher walked away easily with the 440-yard dash to defend laurels he won in that event a year ago. The Yellow Jacket athlete won by 10 yards over Bill Thompson of Florida in 47.1 seconds, just one tenth of a second slower than his 1938 time. Louisiana State's middle distance star, Frank Church, finished a poor third in the 440 but came back later to breeze home in the 880 in 1 minute, 56.2 seconds.

Louisiana State scored points in every event except the 2-mile run, the shot put and the discus. The triumphant Tigers, who once won the conference crown without getting a single first place, got only three winners today, but rolled up points back of the winners.

Other points scored back of fourth-place Alabama were Georgia Tech 23, Georgia 20, Mississippi State 15, Tulane 11, Mississippi 7, Kentucky 3, Tennessee 2 and Vanderbilt 1. Sewanee had entered athletes to give the meet full representation of the 13 schools for the first time, but their entries were scratched.

Hal Standley of Alabama, who won the javelin throw in 1937 and was ineligible last year, came back to win the event by tossing the spar 201 feet, 3 3-16 inches, about two feet short

ARCADIA GRIDIRON WILL BE LIGHTED

ARCADIA, La., May 19.—(Special)—Arcadia High school expects to have one of the best high school football plants in the state with the completion of the field lighting system on the local gridiron about August 1, according to an announcement by E. R. Hester, principal.

The lights, costing about $2,200 plus installation charges, are of the latest design, and will be placed on ten poles, five on each side of the field. The arrangement is expected to give 20 per cent better lighting facilities than the ordinary football field flood lights.

The local gridiron was "turtle-backed" last year and with the addition of its new concrete stadium, capable of seating 3,000 persons, and completion of the lighting system will give Arcadia just about the best prep school field in the state.

The field lighting was made possible through efforts of J. A. Shelby, superintendent of schools of Bienville parish, and school board members, Mrs. J. L. Wade and M. E. Woodard.

Arcadia also boasts the best tennis courts for a town of its size in the state, having five concrete courts throughout the town and all lighted, with one exception, for night playing.

of a walk, an outfield fly, a hit and a sacrifice to score once in the fifth.

They went down in order with only three batters facing Austin in the first, second and third innings. Four faced him in the fourth, but the Sox got loose in the fifth to score once.

Frank Hackney drew a base on balls. "Red" Pruitt flied out to center field, but Hank Taylor singled to right field, sending Hackney to third. Jones flied to left field, Hackney scoring after the catch and Taylor going to second. Hoffman made the third out on an outfield fly.

The Seaporters threatened in their half of the fifth, when, with one out, McCollum was safe on Murrell Jones' error and went to second on a passed ball. But Thomas grounded out, Hoffman to Jones, without advancing McCollum, and then Austin grounded to Pruitt, who trapped McCollum off second.

The Louisianians went to work in a big way in the sixth, considering the closeness of other innings. With one out, Johnny Conway doubled down the third-base line. Frank Hargrove singled, sending Conway to third, and Manager Doug Taitt walked, filling the bases. Hackney grounded out to Freddy Weisler at first, but Conway scored and other runners advanced a base. Pruitt then doubled into left field, scoring Hargrove and Taitt. Taylor walked, but Pruitt was out in an attempt to steal third.

Helena threatened seriously in the eighth, but was unable to score. McCollum beat out a hit to first base. Goldie Thomas hit into a double play, Conway to Hackney to Jones, but Austin singled into right and John Rowe singled into the same place to send Austin to third. Sutherlin, batting for Manager Buster Blakeney, drew a base on balls, loading the bases, but Noel Casbier fanned to end the rally.

Freddie Weisler, the local first baseman, who was chased out of Casino park at Monroe last Sunday for disputing an umpire's decisions on strikes, was chased again today. Weisler, after words with Umpire Newman as the result of a called strike, was chased from the local park in the ninth inning.

Downing And Harper Meet Today For City Golf Title

Defending Champ And Former Title Holder To Tangle On Muny Course

Ben Downing, Jr., state high school golf champion, will defend his city championship against Jimmy Harper, former Municipal club champion, this morning over the Municipal course in a match that gets under way at 9 o'clock.

Finals in all other flights of the city championship tournament will also take place today at the Muny club.

Downing, who is rated one of the best amateurs in the state, reached the finals in the city tournament with a default over H. K. Touchstone and a victory over Shep Girault, 3 and 1. Harper, a former two-time holder of the Muny club title, went to the finals by beating Dr. N. G. Gaston, 7 and 6, and defeating McVea Oliver, 1 up.

Final matches in other flights today will be as follows:

First flight, Jesse James vs. Jordan Barton; third flight, Frank Surguine vs. F. F. Willis; second flight, W. O. Webb vs. Frank Strohm; fifth flight, L. C. Latham vs. G. L. Mahoney.

The second flight final was played this week with George Miller defeating Dickie Touchstone, 4 and 3.

Consolation finals — Championship flight, John Myers, Jr., vs. H. K. Touchstone; first flight, B. M. Murphy vs. B. Rickerson; third flight, W. C. DeMoss vs. James Brown; fourth flight, Eddie Fitzpatrick vs. W. A. Guy, Jr.; and fifth flight, A. J. McGinn vs. T. John.

The second flight consolation was also completed this week with Dr. R. B. Henry defeating Hiller Hesdorffer in the final, 1 up in 19 holes.

Dr. N. G. Gaston will be the referee of the title match between Downing and Harper, according to Jean Shirah, club pro, and Miss Elizabeth Kennedy will be official scorer.

Deaths from heart diseases were 8 per cent higher in the first quarter of 1939 than in the corresponding 1938 period.

2 GAMES SLATED IN BIG SIX LOOP

RUSTON, La., May 20.—(Special)—Today's games in the Big Six league will find Bernice at Chatham and Huttig, Ark., at Farmerville, according to an announcement by L. J. Fox, league president. The Ansley Trojans will remain idle, pending the entry of a sixth club in the loop.

Farmerville and Chatham already have won one game while Bernice and Ansley have been beaten once.

President Fox stated he expected Sterlington to come into the loop as the sixth team, but that Choudrant, Dubach and Marion were also being sought.

KALLIO ARRANGES STELLAR PROGRAM FOR LOCAL ARENA

Double Main Event To Launch Tourney To Determine 'Shadow's' Opponent

The black-masked, scarlet-clad "Shadow," who has defeated all comers at the Monroe wrestling arena, won't be back at the arena this week or for some days to come. He has "cleaned the plow" of the best of them, the most scientific and the roughest of the villains, although admittedly on one or two occasions it was only a lucky break or the irony of fate that gave him a winning hold over an opponent who had mastered him with scientific wrestling. But, biding his return, Promoter Gus Kallio announced yesterday afternoon that he was starting an elimination tournament to determine which wrestler, regardless of his type of wrestling, will be the next opponent of the "Shadow" in Monroe.

Launching the elimination tournament under full blast, Promoter Kallio has arranged a double main event for the weekly program next Thursday night, both bouts to be waged under a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

In the final bout, Cyclone Mackey, the El Paso, Tex., veteran, will oppose Indian Bill Cazzell, of New Mexico. In the opening bout, Dutch Schultz, the renowned Milwaukee, Wis., grappler, will tackle Bob (Buck) Davidson.

Cyclone Mackey appeared at the local arena for the first time last Thursday night, defeating Ned Taylor, of Seattle, Wash., a formidable opponent for any of the grapplers who have been appearing at the stadium, in two straight falls. Mackey won both falls by severely punishing Taylor's left arm and shoulder with hammer locks, arm pulls and arm bars and braces.

Handing out the arm punishment early in the first round, Mackey soon won the advantage of weakening his opponent and was never hard pressed or extended to win. Promoter Kallio, wise in the ways of the wrestling wars and consistently presenting fairly matched opponents in each bout, has matched Mackey against a heavier opponent in the person of Cazzell. It is expected that the veteran Mackey, who knows all the tricks and all the answers, will have to muster all of his resources to overcome Cazzell's advantage of weight.

Cazzell has been thoroughly seasoned in the mat wars and has developed the Indian death lock as his most dangerous hold. He is unique here in that he is the only wrestler ever to appear here who uses a dozen-odd tangle of legs and arms, to work his opponent into the lock with which his forebears fastened tribal outcasts to trees, where they became food for wild fowl and beasts.

Dutch Schultz, who will tackle Bob Davidson in the other bout, has defeated several score of Swedes, Germans, Poles, Italians and grapplers of other extractions in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and in that section of the country, as in Monroe in the case of the "Shadow," he has just about eliminated himself from competition for the present.

Schultz performs somewhat in the style of Carl Von Bromberg, of Germany, who reigned as the No. 1 villain of the mat wars in Monroe until his defeat by the "Shadow." The Milwaukee grappler wears a heavy beard and advance reports say that he is as ferocious as the "Shadow" is cunning and colorful.

Buck Davidson has appeared in several bouts here and is highly popular with the fans. He has perfected a variety of arm holds and the most torturing of the lot is a sitting arm bar and brace with which he seems almost to tear his opponents' arms from their shoulders.

All told, Promoter Kallio has arranged a highly interesting double main event to launch the elimination tournament. Fans and all others who have had any contacts with Kallio have learned that his word is as good as gold. He has never run in a substitute wrestler; he has taken on the chin several untoward developments arising in his efforts to build up the sport here and has never complained; he is in dead earnest about further developing the sport; and when he says he has arranged a double main event, he means that without any reservations.

To flavor the program with additional interest, ten merchandise prizes will be awarded.

YATES TERRIBLE IN TUNE-UP FOR BRITISH AMATEUR

Defending Champion Off Game; Chances Of Retaining Crown Look Slim

By Scotty Reston

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 20.—(AP)—America's chances of retaining the British amateur golf championship took a sharp drop today as Defending Champion Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga., went completely off his game.

He completed his practice rounds for the tournament that opens Monday by scrambling around the Royal Liverpool course in 78—five over par.

Critics found Yates guilty of pushing his drives, cutting his irons and even temporarily losing his marvelous putting touch.

But of all those concerned over the slipshod round he turned in, Yates was the least perturbed. He worked for awhile on his woods from the practice tee this afternoon—and then went off to a picture show!

"I'll get it (his game) back by Monday," he confidently told reporters.

Meanwhile the swaggering 19-year-old Irish champion, Jim Bruen, wound up his practice and stood as a serious challenge to the blond Yates.

Bruen turned in a sensational 69—four under par—on his last lap around the course today, to contrast vividly with Yates' final tune-up.

In five rounds over this course, which is the longest in England, Bruen stands 17 under par. He played today with Jimmy Adams, a local pro, who finished second in the British Open on two occasions, and was consistently longer with his woods and stuck his second shots closer to the pin than the pro.

Said Adams: "Honestly, I've never been so consistently outdriven as by this boy. It just never occurs to the boy that this is a difficult game."

Bruen, incidentally, started out with a bad seven, yet managed to finish the first nine in 35, one under par.

Most players in the last warm-up were still complaining that the course is too long.

"What you need in your bag is nine woods and three irons," was the way "Trailer Bill" Holt of Syracuse, N. Y., put it.

Ellsworth Vines, former tennis champion, who is entered for the first time, is another who is attracting much attention. However, he declined to try the course today, preferring to wait until Wednesday when he plays his first match.

Two former champions who had entered the meet were scratched today. They are Bob Sweeney, the American-born 1937 winner and Eric Martin Smith, the 1931 winner.

Yates and Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., are the only two Americans scheduled to play Monday. Charlie goes out at 1:16 p.m. and Chapman at 1:32, and it looks as if these two may meet in the third round.

RUFFING'S BAT WINS ANOTHER FOR YANKS, 5-2

Burly Pitcher's Hit Spurs New York To Victory Over Chicago

Red Ruffing

Pinch-hitting in the seventh inning with two out, the bases loaded and the champions trailing the Chicago White Sox by one run, he singled two scores across and spurred the Yankees to their tenth consecutive victory, 5 to 2.

The contest was a hurling duel between Oral Hildebrand for New York and Thornton Lee, but neither finished. After Ruffing batted for Hildebrand, Johnny Murphy went to the mound for the Yankees, who tallied two more in the eighth to rout Lee for the second time this season.

It was Hildebrand's first start since April 30 and his first victory against two defeats. He gave six hits in seven innings and Murphy none in two.

Al Bejma, first batter of the game, pumped a homer into the lower left field stands and as a result the White Sox never were behind until the seventh.

After the Yanks knotted the count in the third on a walk, two infield outs and Frank Crosetti's single, the [illegible]

A'S SHADE TIGERS

PHILADELPHIA, May 20—(AP)—With President Somoza of Nicaragua an interested spectator, the Athletics came from behind today to beat Detroit, 6 to 5, for their third straight victory.

"Schoolboy" Rowe held a 5-3 edge going into the eighth.

However, Sam Chapman, who earlier had driven in all three Athletic runs with a homer and a triple, led off in the eighth with a double. Bob Johnson and Nick Etten followed with triples off the right field wall to tie the score. Etten then scored the winning run on Bill Nagel's long sacrifice fly to Dixie Walker.

SENATORS DEFEAT INDIANS

WASHINGTON, May 20—(AP)—Washington defeated Cleveland today, 6-3, behind the knuckle-ball pitching of Dutch Leonard. Bob Feller, starting for Cleveland but replaced by Joe Dobson at the start of the seventh, was charged with his second loss of the season.

Taft Wright, chunky outfielder, was the batting star for the Nats. His triple in the first inning, scoring Jimmy Wasdell, gave the Nats a 1-0 lead. He singled in the sixth to score Bobby Estalella with the tying run after the Indians had taken a 2-1 lead and tripled again in the seventh to score George Case.

BROWNS WHIP RED SOX

BOSTON, May 20—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns snapped out of a six-game losing streak today to comb four Boston Red Sox pitchers for 14 hits while gaining a 9-5 victory.

The win was rookie John Kramer's fourth of the season and even the brief return of ailing Jimmie Foxx, as a pinch-hitter for Pitcher Emerson Dickman in the eighth, failed to aid the Sox' lost cause. Foxx, back in uniform after a spell of hospitalization for sinus trouble, fanned.

Michigan Walks Away With Western Conference Meet

WOLVERINES WIN 7 FIRST PLACES; 3 RECORDS SET

Negro Athlete Ends Career With 3rd Straight 3-Event Slam

By Earl Hilligan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, the "Yankees" of the Western conference track, powered their way to a third straight outdoor championship today as big Bill Watson closed his collegiate career with his third straight three-event slam.

In winning its 17th outdoor title, Michigan scored 64 3-4 points, a performance second only to the 74 points scored by Illinois in 1924. Wisconsin was second with 45 5-12 points and Indiana third with 28 2-3 points in a program which saw new meet records established in the discus, mile relay and pole vault.

To the crowd of 9,000 spectators, routed briefly by a short but heavy rain storm which swept the field after the first event, Watson was the big gun to watch in Michigan's powerhouse array of talent. In both his sophomore and junior years the finely proportioned negro won the broad jump, shot put and discus. He won the titles in this meet, with his discus toss of 160 feet 10 5-8 inches, made in yesterday's trials, cracking the 23-year-old record of 155 feet 2 inches made by Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin.

Another new meet record was contributed by Michigan, which captured seven first places. The Wolverine mile relay team of Jack Leutritz, Douglas Hunt, Phil Balyeat and Warren Breidenbach raced to the relay championship in 3 minutes 14.7 seconds, a half-second under the former mark set by Michigan in 1935.

The third new mark was contributed by Robert Cassels of Chicago who pole vaulted 14 feet 2 3-4 inches to win that crown. The old meet mark was 13 feet 10 3-8 inches made by Verne McDermont of Illinois in 1930. Milt Padway of Wisconsin, co-owner of the 1938 vault title, was second.

[illegible] Charles Hoyt, who goes to Yale next year as track coach, saw his greatest Michigan team score in every event except the javelin, and win its sixth outdoor title for him in a [illegible] period. In addition to Watson's winning performances in the broad jump and shot put and discus, [illegible] Wolverines came home first. Elmer Gedeon repeated as 120-yard high hurdles champion, Warren Breidenbach, who won the 440-yard run, and Ralph Schwarzkopf, two-mile run winner.

The 100-yard dash crown went to Northwestern's Myron Piker, with Chicago's defending champion, John Davenport, finishing fifth.

Harley Howells of Ohio State lost his 440-yard title to Breidenbach while Walter Mehl of Wisconsin, the [illegible] took a 100-yard [illegible] from Schwarzkopf, Mehl barely edging for second place. The 220-yard low hurdle title was won by Roy Cochran of Indiana, while Roger Poorman, also of Indiana, took honors in the javelin toss. Mehl carried on for Wisconsin by winning the mile, an event won last year by the former Badger star, Chuck Fenske.

A surprise winner was Edward Buxton of Wisconsin, who took the half-mile title as Purdue's Art Bosteau, the favorite, finished fourth. Robert Lewis of Ohio State successfully defended his 220-yard dash title, while the high jump championship went to Illinois' Bob Diefenthaler with a leap of 6 feet 6 inches.

The one-two finish of today's meet duplicated the finish of the 1938 event, when Michigan was first with 61 1-2 points and Wisconsin second with 37. Behind Indiana today were Ohio State, 28; Purdue, 13; Minnesota, 12; Illinois, 10; Chicago, 9; Northwestern, 8 1-12, and Iowa, 6 1-12.

TRIO OF TRACK MARKS CRACKED

of the record. L. S. U.'s Brown won the broad jump despite his ailing leg with a leap of 23 feet 8 1-4 inches. He had done better than 25 feet during the season.

In finishing second, Auburn won only one first place. Chuck Morgan raced to victory by four yards over Cate in the 20 yard high hurdles. Morgan came near stumbling after striking the last hurdle, but kept his balance and withstood Cate's challenge in 14.8 seconds.

Georgians took the two distance races and Louisiana State won the mile relay by 60 yards but failed to crack the record it hung up last year. Henry Frederiksen of Georgia knocked off the mile run in 4 minutes, 26.4 seconds, and Tom Manley of Georgia Tech annexed the two-mile in 9 minutes, 54.6 seconds.

Louisiana State's relay team of Dick Burge, Dan Rachal, Fred Workman and Church, running in that order, won the relay in 3 minutes 19.7 seconds. The Tiger team set a mark of 3:16.5 and had done better than that this season but the track today was a bit slow because of yesterday's rain.

L. S. U. NINE WILL INVADE MIDWEST

BATON ROUGE, May 20.—(AP)—After winning the Southeastern conference championship, the Louisiana State university baseball team will seek to extend its string of victories over the middle west later this month.

L. S. U. will play return engagements at Northwestern, Minnesota and Luther colleges whose teams met the Tigers this spring at Baton Rouge.

The campaign starts with a two-game series with Northwestern at Evanston May 29, features a three-game contest with Minnesota May 31-June 1-2 and ends with Luther college at Decorah, Iowa, June 3.

L. S. U. won 10 of 12 conference games to win its first baseball championship.

FORMER GOVERNOR PARKER SUCCUMBS

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., May 20.—(AP)—John M. Parker, Sr., governor of Louisiana from 1920 to 1924 and vice-presidential running mate with Theodore Roosevelt on a Progressive ticket in 1916, died tonight.

The former governor had been ill at his summer home here for several months, and had been receiving forced nourishment for weeks.

Survivors are his widow, the former Miss Cecile Airey; two sons, John M. Parker, Jr., and Thomas Airey Parker, and a daughter, Mrs. Walker Saussy, all residents of New Orleans.

JOE CARR, SPORTS LEADER, EXPIRES

Head Of National Professional Football League Dies Of Heart Disease

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—(AP)—Joe Carr, president of the National Professional Football league and a leader in national sports circles, died today.

Carr, 58, was taken to a hospital several hours earlier, suffering from a heart ailment.

He founded the National Football league in 1921, and served continuously as its president. He once was president of the Columbus baseball club of the American association.

Carr also was promotional director of minor league baseball, and was widely credited with lifting the minors into a prominent place. There were 11 minor leagues when Carr began his promotional work in 1933; today there are 38.

He founded the old American Basketball league and was international president of the Agonis club, an organization of men associated with sports.

GREAT ORGANIZER

NEW YORK, May 20—(AP)—Joe F. Carr, one of the great organizers of the sport world, was looking forward to even more successful baseball and professional football seasons shortly before his death today.

In a recent letter, summing up the success of the 1938 campaigns, he wrote: "We are looking forward to greater improvements in days to come." He had engineered the revival of minor league baseball from the time when only a dozen leagues were operating, and most of them in danger of folding up, to last year's successful season for 37 leagues. And he said he expected 40 minor leagues to operate through the 1939 campaign.

Carr played a leading role in the organization of the National Professional Football league at Canton, O., in 1921. He was elected president then, [illegible] when I was out [illegible] and the league never has had another president. Last February he was re-elected for a ten-year term.

He had been a baseball official since he was made secretary of the Ohio State league at the age of 18. Two years later he was made president of that circuit and he served as president of various minor leagues for more than 20 years. He also organized and served as president of the American Professional Basketball league for three years when it was the only nation-wide circuit but retired because of the press of work in baseball and football.

Since 1932, his baseball activities have been centered on promoting minor leagues. "I had intended to retire from baseball in 1932," he wrote, "when the national association honored me with membership in its executive committee to develop a program to rehabilitate minor league baseball."

DARLING IS VICTIM OF 2 DOLLAR JINX

RUSTON, La., May 20—(Special)—Here's a $2 story about a young man who got no returns from his savings.

Though you're entitled to your own opinion about the jinx of $2 bills, that type of off-brand greenback does have its drawbacks, especially for a quarterback who holds 'em back.

Consider the case of Don Darling, former Louisiana Tech signal-caller, who came to Ruston from Fordyce, Ark.

Undaunted by the alleged unlucky reputation of $2 bills, Darling started saving them. He hung on to two of them for three years and recently had collected a total of eight of them. He thought a great deal of the bills and carried them with him in his purse.

Darling had saved up the $16 in $2 bills to buy his senior class ring and pay for other commencement incidentals in connection with his graduation from Tech this month.

He went to the picture show here the other night and lost his pocketbook containing the eight $2 bills. The purse, incidentally, was a gift to Darling from his wife. It bore Darling's name in gold leaf, but neither the pocket-book nor the money has been returned. Gypped by the jinx, Darling says he believes the ill-fated bills are back in circulation by this time.

PLATAK WINS HANDBALL TITLE FOR FIFTH TIME

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—(AP)—Joe Platak, 28-year-old auditor in a Chicago hotel, became the national handball singles champion for the fifth consecutive year today by defeating Jack Clements, San Francisco, 21-13, 16-21, 21-12.

They battled for two hours on the Olympic club center court before the rugged Lithuanian wore down his rival in the final match. Clements, hitting erratically, contributed to his own downfall.

ANOTHER DI MAG BELTING BALL

Dominic, Youngest Of Tribe, Seen As Major League Timber By Collins

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20—(AP)—James "Ripper" Collins, ex-Chicago first baseman, watched Dominic, the youngest of the DiMaggios, speeding around the San Francisco Seals outfield in a few games.

"He's a major leaguer right now if I ever saw one," pronounced the Ripper.

Inasmuch as he spent eight years in the National league before his surprise demotion to Los Angeles this spring, the assumption is Collins knows a player when he sees one.

"That DiMaggio boy can go back for a ball as far as anyone I ever saw," he said. "He leans on the ball with plenty of power, too. I'm surprised some big league outfit hasn't grabbed him off already.

"His brother Joe is the big show back there, but from what I've seen of this kid he doesn't need any help.

"The Yankees are a great drawing club but they could boost their attendance plenty by putting Dominic on one side of Joe and the older brother, Vince, on the other side. Vince is poling the ball over American association fences for Kansas City. They'd have the Italians in New York breaking down the gates trying to get in to see the three DiMaggios playing together in the outfield. Why I'd pay to see them myself."

Dominic appears to have arrived in his third season with the Seals of the Pacific Coast league. He's whopping the ball at around a .350 clip and straightens out curve balls, a pitching phase which puzzled him in 1937-38 when he hit .304 and .306 respectively.

DISTINCTIVE DERBY SEEN

EPSOM, England, May 20—(AP)—After a year of "alarums and excursions" Great Britain turns to Wednesday's 156th running of the Derby for a chance to let its hair down.

From a sporting point of view it will be a distinctive Derby. The field is fast and able, although Lord Rosebery's Blue Peter, winner of the 2,000 guineas, is the favorite at 7 to 2.

William Woodward's Hypnotist is the only American-owned horse in the race, but he is the second choice at 9 to 1. Hypnotist, although Irish-bred, had an American-bred mother, Flying Gal.

Closely aligned with Hypnotist in the betting is Sir John Jarvis's Admiral's Walk at 12 to 1. Others of lesser note are Heliopolis, owned by Lord Derby, and Fairstone, from the stables of legless and immensely popular Sir Abe Bailey, South African diamond tycoon; both are currently valued at 100 to 8. Then there are William Barnett's Triguero at 100 to 7 and Edward Desmond's Fox Cub at 100 to 6.

'L' CLUB NAMES ADY PRESIDENT

Officers For Next School Year Chosen By Athletic Organization

The "L" club, athletic organization at Northeast Junior College of L. S. U., has elected Joe Ady, football quarterback, as president of the organization for the next school year, it was announced yesterday.

Ady, whose home is in McAlister, Okla., is expected to rate highly as a member of the Indian athletic teams next season.

Other officers elected were:

Gordon Stout, of Esterline, Tex., basketball forward, vice-president; George Perry, of Grove, Okla., center on both football and basketball teams, secretary-treasurer; Max Hutchins, of Blytheville, Ark., football halfback, reporter. Sam Dunlap, of Monroe, end on the 1935 team, was elected graduate alumni secretary of the club.

After installation of the officers, Ady appointed Bill Singleton and Don Short as a committee to invite a prominent Monroe business man or civic leader to be a guest speaker at the "training table" supper Tuesday night.

CHAMPS BEAT CHISOX ON HURLER'S PINCH HIT

Burly Pitcher's Hit Spurs New York To Victory Over Chicago

Red Ruffing

Pinch-hitting in the seventh inning with two out, the bases loaded and the champions trailing the Chicago White Sox by one run, he singled two scores across and spurred the Yankees to their tenth consecutive victory, 5 to 2.

The contest was a hurling duel between Oral Hildebrand for New York and Thornton but neither finished. After Ruffing but neither finishred. After Ruffing batted for Hildebrand, Johnny Murphy went to the mound for the Yankees, who tallied two more in the eighth to rout Lee for the second time this season.

It was Hildebrand's first start since April 30 and his first victory against two defeats. He gave six hits in seven innings and Murphy none in two.

Al Bejma, first batter of the game, punched a homer into the lower left field stands and as a result the White Sox never were behind until the seventh.

After the Yanks knotted the count in the third on a walk, two infield outs and Frank Crosetti's single, the Sox pushed over another run in the fifth on Lee's single, Bejma's sacrifice and Gerald Walker's single.

But once in front the Yanks made their margin decisive by piling on the two runs in the eighth with three singles and Joe Gordon's double.

A'S SHADE TIGERS

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP)—With President Somoza of Nicaragua an interested spectator, the Athletics came from behind today to beat Detroit, 6 to 5, for their third straight victory.

"Schoolboy" Rowe held a 5-3 edge going into the eighth.

However, Sam Chapman, who earlier had driven in all three Athletic runs with a homer and a triple, led off in the eighth with a double. Bob Johnson and Nick Etten followed with triples off the right field wall to tie the score. Etten then scored the winning run on Bill Nagel's long sacrifice fly to Dixie Walker.

SENATORS DEFEAT INDIANS

WASHINGTON, May 20. — (AP) — Washington defeated Cleveland today, 6-3, behind the knuckle-ball pitching of Dutch Leonard. Bob Feller, starting for Cleveland but replaced by Joe Dobson at the start of the seventh, was charged with his second loss of the season.

Taft Wright, chunky outfielder, was the batting star for the Nats. His triple in the first inning, scoring Jimmy Wasdell, gave the Nats a 1-0 lead. He singled in the sixth to score Buddy Lewis with the tying run after the Indians had taken a 2-1 lead and tripled again in the seventh to score George Case.

BROWNS WHIP RED SOX

BOSTON, May 20.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns snapped out of a six-game losing streak today to comb four Boston Red Sox pitchers for 14 hits while gaining a 9-5 victory.

The win was rookie John Kramer's fourth of the season and even the brief return of ailing Jimmie Foxx, as a pinch-hitter for Pitcher Emerson Dickman in the eighth, failed to aid the Sox' lost cause. Foxx, back in uniform after a spell of hospitalization for sinus trouble, fanned.

Michigan Walks Away With Western Conference Meet

WOLVERINES WIN 7 FIRST PLACES; 3 RECORDS SET

Negro Athlete Ends Career With 3rd Straight 3-Event Slam

By Earl Hilligan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, the "Yankees" of the Western conference track, powered their way to a third straight outdoor championship today as big Bill Watson closed his collegiate career with his third straight three-event slam.

In winning its 17th outdoor title, Michigan scored 64 3-4 points, a performance second only to the 74 points scored by Illinois in 1924. Wisconsin was second with 45 5-12 points and Indiana third with 28 2-3 points in a program which saw new meet records established in the discus, mile relay and pole vault.

To the crowd of 9,000 spectators, routed briefly by a short but heavy rain storm which swept the field after the first event, Watson was the big gun to watch in Michigan's powerhouse array of talent. In both his sophomore and junior years the finely proportioned negro won the broad jump, shot put and discus. He won those titles in this meet, with his discus toss of 160 feet 10 5-8 inches, made in yesterday's trials, cracking the 23-year-old record of 155 feet 2 inches made by Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin.

Another new meet record was contributed by Michigan, which captured seven first places. The Wolverine mile relay team of Jack Leutritz, Douglas Hayes, Phil Balyeat and Warren Breidenbach raced to the relay championship in 3 minutes 14.7 seconds, a half-second under the former mark set by Michigan in 1935.

The third new mark was contributed by Robert Cassels of Chicago, who pole vaulted 14 feet 2 3-4 inches to win that crown. The old meet mark was 13 feet 10 3-8 inches, made by Vern McDermott of Illinois in 1930. Milt Padway of Wisconsin, co-winner of the 1938 vault title, was second.

Coach Charles Hoyt, who goes to Yale next year as track coach, saw his greatest Michigan team score in every event except the javelin to win its sixth outdoor title for him in a nine-year period. In addition to Watson's winning performances in the discus, broad jump and shot put and the Michigan relay team victory, these Wolverines came home first: Elmer Gedeon, who repeated as 120-yard high hurdles champion; Warren Breidenbach, who won the 440-yard run, and Ralph Schwarzkopf, two-mile run winner.

Harley Howells of Ohio State lost his 440-yard dash title to Breidenbach, while Walter Mehl of Wisconsin, the 1938 two-mile titlist, took a 100-yard beating from Schwarzkopf, Mehl barely lasting for second place. The 220-yard low hurdle title was won by Roy Cochran of Indiana, while Roger Poorman, also of Indiana, took honors in the javelin toss. Mehl carried on for Wisconsin by winning the mile, an event won last year by the former Badger star, Chuck Fenske.

A surprise winner was Edward Buxton of Wisconsin, who took the half-mile title as Purdue's Art Bodeau, the favorite, finished fourth. Robert Lewis of Ohio State successfully defended his 220-yard dash title, while the high jump championship went to Illinois' Bob Diefenthaler with a leap of 6 feet 6 inches.

The one-two finish of today's meet duplicated the finish of the 1938 event, when Michigan was first with 61 1-2 points and Wisconsin second with 37. Behind Indiana today were Ohio State, 28; Purdue, 13; Minnesota, 12; Illinois, 10; Chicago, 9; Northwestern, 8 1-12, and Iowa, 6 1-12.

TRIO OF TRACK MARKS CRACKED

of the record. L. S. U.'s Brown won the broad jump despite his ailing leg with a leap of 23 feet 8 1-4 inches. He had done better than 25 feet during the season.

In finishing second, Auburn won only one first place. Chuck Morgan raced to victory by four yards over Cate in the 20 yard high hurdles. Morgan came near stumbling after striking the last hurdle, but kept his balance and withstood Cate's challenge in 14.8 seconds.

Georgians took the two distance races and Louisiana State won the mile relay by 60 yards but failed to crack the record it hung up last year. Henry Frederiksen of Georgia knocked off the mile run in 4 minutes, 26.4 seconds, and Tom Manley of Georgia Tech annexed the two-mile in 9 minutes, 54.6 seconds.

Louisiana State's relay team of Dick Burge, Dan Rachal, Fred Workman and Church, running in that order, won the relay in 3 minutes 19.7 seconds. The Tiger team set a mark of 3:16.5 and had done better than that this season but the track today was a bit slow because of yesterday's rain.

L. S. U. NINE WILL INVADE MIDWEST

BATON ROUGE, May 20.—(AP)—After winning the Southeastern conference championship, the Louisiana State university baseball team will seek to extend its string of victories over the middle west later this month.

L. S. U. will play return engagements at Northwestern, Minnesota and Luther colleges whose teams met the Tigers this spring at Baton Rouge.

The campaign starts with a two-game series with Northwestern at Evanston May 29, features a three-game contest with Minnesota May 31-June 1-2 and ends with Luther college at Decorah, Iowa, June 3.

L. S. U. won 10 of 12 conference games to win its first baseball championship.

FORMER GOVERNOR PARKER SUCCUMBS

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., May 20.—(AP)—John M. Parker, Sr., governor of Louisiana from 1920 to 1924 and vice-presidential running mate with Theodore Roosevelt on a Progressive ticket in 1916, died tonight.

The former governor had been ill at his summer home here for several months, and had been receiving forced nourishment for weeks.

Survivors are his widow, the former Miss Cecile Airey; two sons, John M. Parker, Jr., and Thomas Airey Parker, and a daughter, Mrs. Walker Saussy, all residents of New Orleans.

JOE CARR, SPORTS LEADER, EXPIRES

Head Of National Professional Football League Dies Of Heart Disease

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—(AP)—Joe Carr, president of the National Professional Football league and a leader in national sports circles, died today.

Carr, 58, was taken to a hospital several hours earlier, suffering from a heart ailment.

He founded the National Football league in 1921, and served continuously as its president. He once was president of the Columbus baseball club of the American association.

Carr also was promotional director of minor league baseball, and was widely credited with lifting the minors into a prominent place. There were 11 minor leagues when Carr began his promotional work in 1933; today there are 38.

He founded the old American Basketball league and was international president of the Agonis club, an organization of men associated with sports.

GREAT ORGANIZER

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Joe F. Carr, one of the great organizers of the sport world, was looking forward to even more successful baseball and professional football seasons shortly before his death today.

In a recent letter, summing up the success of the 1938 campaigns, he wrote: "We are looking forward to greater improvements in days to come." He had engineered the revival of minor league baseball from the time when only a dozen leagues were operating, and most of them in danger of folding up, to last year's successful seasons for 37 leagues. And he said he expected 40 minor leagues to operate through the 1939 campaign.

Carr played a leading role in the organization of the National Professional Football league at Canton, O., in 1921. He was elected president then, "much against my will when I was out of the room," and the league never has had another president. Last February he was reelected for a ten-year term.

He had been a baseball official since he was made secretary of the Ohio State league at the age of 18. Two years later he was made president of that circuit and he served as president of various minor leagues for more than 20 years. He also organized and served as president of the American Professional Basketball league for three years when it was the only nation-wide circuit but retired because of the press of work in baseball and football.

Since 1932, his baseball activities have been centered on promoting minor leagues. "I had intended to retire from baseball in 1932," he wrote, "when the national association honored me with membership in its executive committee to develop a program to rehabilitate minor league baseball."

DARLING IS VICTIM OF 2 DOLLAR JINX

RUSTON, La., May 20.—(Special)—Here's a $2 story about a young man who got no returns from his savings.

Though you're entitled to your own opinion about the jinx of $2 bills, that type of off-brand greenback does have its drawbacks, especially for a quarterback who holds 'em back.

Consider the case of Don Darling, former Louisiana Tech signal-caller, who came to Ruston from Fordyce, Ark.

Undaunted by the alleged unlucky reputation of $2 bills, Darling started saving them. He hung on to two of them for three years and recently had collected a total of eight of them. He thought a great deal of the bills and carried them with him in his purse.

Darling had saved up the $16 in $2 bills to buy his senior class ring and pay for other commencement incidentals in connection with his graduation from Tech this month.

He went to the picture show here the other night and lost his pocketbook containing the eight $2 bills. The purse, incidentally, was a gift to Darling from his wife. It bore Darling's name in gold leaf, but neither the pocket-book nor the money has been returned. Gypped by the jinx, Darling says he believes the ill-fated bills are back in circulation by this time.

They battled for two hours on the Olympic club center court before the rugged Lithuanian wore down his rival in the final match. Clements, hitting erratically, contributed to his own downfall.

ANOTHER DI MAG BELTING BALL

Dominic, Youngest Of Tribe, Seen As Major League Timber By Collins

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—(AP)—James "Ripper" Collins, ex-Chicago first baseman, watched Dominic, the youngest of the DiMaggios, speeding around the San Francisco Seals outfield in a few games.

"He's a major leaguer right now if I ever saw one," pronounced the Ripper.

Inasmuch as he spent eight years in the National league before his surprise demotion to Los Angeles this spring, the assumption is Collins knows a player when he sees one.

"That DiMaggio boy can go back for a ball as far as anyone I ever saw," he said. "He leans on the ball with plenty of power, too. I'm surprised some big league outfit hasn't grabbed him off already.

"His brother Joe is the big show back there, but from what I've seen of this kid he doesn't need any help.

"The Yankees are a great drawing club but they could boost their attendance plenty by putting Dominic on one side of Joe and the older brother, Vince, on the other side. (Vince is poling the ball over American association fences for Kansas City.) They'd have the Italians in New York breaking down the gates trying to get in to see the three DiMaggios playing together in the outfield. Why I'd pay to see them myself."

Dominic appears to have arrived in his third season with the Seals of the Pacific Coast league. He's whopping the ball at around a .380 clip and straightens out curve balls, a pitching phase which puzzled him in 1937-38 when he hit .304 and .306 respectively.

DISTINCTIVE DERBY SEEN

EPSOM, England, May 20.—(AP)—After a year of "alarums and excursions" Great Britain turns to Wednesday's 156th running of the Derby for a chance to let its hair down.

From a sporting point of view it will be a distinctive Derby. The field is fast and able, although Lord Rosebery's Blue Peter, winner of the 2,000 guineas, is the favorite at 7 to 2.

William Woodward's Hypnotist is the only American-owned horse in the race, but he is the second choice at 9 to 1. Hypnotist, although Irish-bred, had an American-bred mother, Flying Gal.

Closely aligned with Hypnotist in the betting is Sir John Jarvis's Admiral's Walk at 12 to 1. Others of lesser note are Helipolis, owned by Lord Derby, and Fairstone, from the stables of legless and immensely popular Sir Abe Bailey, South African diamond tycoon; both are currently valued at 100 to 8. Then there are William Barnett's Triguero at 100 to 7 and Edward Desmond's Fox Cub at 100 to 6.

'L' CLUB NAMES ADY PRESIDENT

Officers For Next School Year Chosen By Athletic Organization

The "L" club, athletic organization at Northeast Junior College of L. S. U., has elected Joe Ady, football quarterback, as president of the organization for the next school year, it was announced yesterday.

Ady, whose home is in McAlister, Okla., is expected to rate highly as a member of the Indian athletic teams next season.

Other officers elected were: Gordon Stout, of Esterline, Tex., basketball forward, vice-president; George Perry, of Grove, Okla., center on both football and basketball teams, secretary-treasurer; Max Hutchins, of Blytheville, Ark., football halfback, reporter. Sam Dunlap, of Monroe, end on the 1935 team, was elected graduate alumni secretary of the club.

After installation of the officers, Ady appointed Bill Singleton and Don Short as a committee to invite a prominent Monroe business man or civic leader to be a guest speaker at the "training table" supper Tuesday night.

Parochial school participated, was made possible by the publishing company in cooperation with 29 local advertisers. Ouachita furnished six young men and six young women; Neville, six young men and five young women; and St. Matthew's, three young men and three young women. The Ouachita contestants were chosen from among student leaders of the senior class. They included the four class officers and eight other students chosen by lot from among the home room officers. The Neville and St. Matthew's contestants were selected on the basis of scholastic standing.

Miss Gattis, who prepared the advertisement of Firestone Auto Supply and Service store, is valedictorian at Neville High. Sixteen years old and a daughter of Mrs. Annie Mae Gattis, she is a member of the executive committee of her class and played on the tennis squad of the school. She is not certain, but she thinks she will matriculate at Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge this fall and major in sociology in preparation for a life's career as a social worker.

Miss Keller, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keller, wrote the advertisement of Bella Scherck Davidson. She captained the girls' basketball team at St. Matthew's the past season and won the honor, by scholastic attainments, of being the historian of the senior class. She plans to enter Northeast Junior college here this fall and devote herself to business administration and music courses. She hopes, some day, to be a private secretary.

Miss Inabnet, 17 years old, is president of the senior class at Ouachita and was its girl tennis star this season. A daughter of State Representative and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, she intends continuing her education at Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va., this fall. There she will specialize in library science, with the intention of entering library work after her graduation. She prepared the advertisement of Ferd Levi Stationery company.

Miss Gremillion, the other winner from St. Matthew's, like Miss Keller, her classmate, plans to continue her studies at Northeast Junior college. Writer of the advertisement of The Palace, she is 16, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Gremillion and vice-president of her class. Moreover, she was a member of St. Matthew's basketball team and has been designated to read the class will at graduation exercises. She has mapped a business career for herself and will specialize in college courses toward that end.

The principals of all three schools joined in praising the purpose of the ad-writing contest, principally, that of honoring outstanding seniors and of providing four with additional graduation money.

Said Sister Cornelia, principal of St. Matthew's:

"The advertising contest sponsored by the News-Star—World Publishing corporation is a very excellent idea which we hope will be used often as graduation dates roll around.

"Some of its advantages are: contacts between the student and the company whose ad he was assigned to write; worth-while publicity for outstanding students in the senior classes of each school represented; an opportunity for loyalty to school and friends in the matter of voting; the chance to become acquainted with the staff of the local paper. Each of these advantages might be discussed in greater detail but every News-Star and World reader can realize for himself just what good may come from such a contest over and above the monetary rewards won by the writers of the best ads.

"We are very glad that our students were invited to participate in this contest."

Paul Neal, Neville principal, took this view:

"The annual ad-writing contest sponsored by the News-Star—World gives the honor students of each school an opportunity to obtain experience in advertisements, and possibly to win graduation money.

"This induces the student to work harder throughout the scholastic year so as to be eligible to compete for the awards offered. These students represent the best in all three high schools of the city and will probably be outstanding in later careers in college and elsewhere.

"It is only proper that they be given this opportunity each year and the high schools are very fortunate that the News-Star—World and merchants of the city make this contest possible each year."

Jack Hayes, Ouachita principal, expressed himself in this manner:

"I wish to express my appreciation to the Monroe Morning World and News-Star and to the business firms of Monroe who have made it possible for members of our graduating class to participate in their advertising contest.

"Since most of these boys and girls will become future citizens of our city it is of mutual interest that they and the business firms become better acquainted.

"I am sure that each of our students will place this among the interesting experiences connected with their graduation and I trust that each firm has been well pleased."

CHAMBERLAIN TO SEEK ARMS PACT

which might force them to permit passage of Russian troops across their soil. Both Rumania and Poland have received British-French guarantees of their independence.

If their replies to the new inquiries are favorable, as most informed observers believed they would be, one of Chamberlain's chief objections to the pact would be removed.

An official spokesman said further conclusive steps in negotiations probably would await the cabinet decision. A regular meeting is scheduled for Wednesday and Halifax is expected to return by then from Geneva, where he will attend a League of Nations' council session Monday.

Conversations yesterday between Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British government, also were said officially to have clarified some points. Halifax will have an opportunity to see Maisky again in Geneva.

The unanimity shown in yesterday's house of commons debate in favor of a pact with the Soviet Union was said by informed political sources to have convinced the prime minister an early agreement was necessary, both to what he calls his "peace front" opposed to the Rome-Berlin axis and political unity at home.

Chamberlain summoned the cabinet's foreign affairs sub-committee which was said to have decided on new consultations with Poland and Rumania.

The Paris talks between Halifax and the French ministers were understood to cover both the terms of the Russian pact and the question of British-French guarantees to Russia's Baltic neighbors—Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia and Finland.

Such guarantees would be in return for Soviet pledges to Poland and Rumania similar to those already given by France and Britain.

Soviet Russia has insisted on a definite mutual aid pact involving specific military commitments by Britain, France and Russia and providing for military staff talks.

Chamberlain has hesitated to enter such an alliance in fear that it might drive Japan, Spain, and perhaps other countries farther into the Rome-Berlin camp.

FRESH PROPOSALS TO BE MADE TO MOSCOW

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Hopes that Soviet Russia soon would be drawn into the British-French front brightened tonight when the two western powers agreed upon fresh proposals to Moscow.

The new approach to the stalemated negotiations between Britain and Russia was decided upon in conferences at which French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet canvassed the entire European situation with British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris.

Official statements were lacking but an authoritative source said the new plans would be presented Soviet representatives during the League of Nations council meeting opening Monday at Geneva.

"There has been an evolution of the British attitude towards the Russian thesis," this source said.

The exact nature of the proposals remained secret but a French compromise plan was understood to have been worked out to provide for a limited mutual assistance pact to satisfy Russian demands without involving Britain too far in eastern Europe.

During tonight's talks at the war ministry the conflicting British-Russian views were examined anew and the French-British positions "clarified" in preparation for further conversations.

The conferences were described as "extremely cordial" and are to be renewed among Lord Halifax, Bonnet and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, tomorrow night or Monday.

French diplomatic sources acknowledged, however, that rapid progress must be made at Geneva. Lord Halifax planned to leave there Tuesday night to reach London in time for Wednesday's weekly cabinet meeting. Bonnet intended to return to Paris from Geneva Wednesday night.

The hope was expressed that at least a stop-gap accord would be reached with Moscow before the French cabinet meeting Thursday.

Daladier, anxious to bring France's two big allies into a solid front, assumed an arbitrator's role tonight.

Both by his personal intervention and his government's conciliatory proposals, Daladier sought to eliminate points of dispute between Moscow and London which have delayed Russia's entry into the British-French front.

knives were found in the truck transporting the men.

The all-inclusive charge of "banding and confederating" was placed against the group. The charge is similar to disorderly conduct in police court.

John Padgett, arrested after the shooting of a miner yesterday, was released on $1,000 bond on a charge of "malicious shooting and wounding," after an arraignment hearing.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the national guardsmen, issued the military order giving the United Mine Workers permission to hold the mass meeting. On reading the order earlier Turnblazer asked:

"Who issued this, Hitler or Mussolini?"

The general's order said the time and place must be approved by him, parades would be prohibited, traffic on certain roads from sections where there have been disturbances would be "controlled," and:

"Union leaders must pledge themselves and their members to refrain from speech and action calculated or tending to create disorders or which tend to provoke violent passion or action against those desiring to return to work, or the military.

"They must also prevent the assemblage of noisy groups, cursing, calling 'scabs' on the streets or highways, jeering at soldiers, intentional interference with traffic, or invasion of private property."

Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. LeBlanc, of West Monroe, last night announced the birth of a seven-and-a-half-pound daughter at St. Francis sanitarium. The baby has been named Mary Lucille.

PEOPLE BELIEVE HITLER TO GO IN

Hitler's newspaper by Lieutenant-Colonel von Wedel of the German staff.

He wrote in an article:

"A defense system for protection of Silesia, the Reich's capital and Pomerania has been established. . . . We have not failed to take note of the outbursts of Polish chauvinists who cry out for the conquest of East Prussia, Silesia and Pomerania.

"So in a short time the defensive works in the east will be equal to those in the west. Already large divisions of the Reich's arbeits dienst (work service) are active and soon the vast organization of the Reich's highway service will be available.

"All with an impulse to start an aggressive action against Germany should take note of these facts promptly. Not to understand will mean a useless outpouring of blood of their own soldiers."

Count Ciano arrived in Innsbruck tonight on his way to Berlin. On a special train, he was accompanied by Italian foreign office experts and several dozen Italian journalists.

Perhaps most ominous of all today's signs was Goebbels' dictum on Danzig and the corridor.

This pointed focussing of attention, during Goebbels' speech at Cologne Friday night, on Danzig and the strip of Poland that separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany seemed to indicate that the recent period of relative silence was over.

Since May 5 when Poland's foreign minister, Joseph Beck, reiterated Polish determination to defend her territory in reply to Hitler's Reichstag speech, Germany officially has maintained silence on the matter.

Neither Goebbels nor anyone else has disclosed yet what Germany's next step toward "solution" of the Danzig and corridor problem would be.

Germany's man-on-the-street expects to wake up some morning and find German troops have taken possession of Danzig.

Again and again small tradesmen, workers and housewives give a stock answer when asked what they think will happen: "Hitler simply will march in there some night when nobody is looking."

Persons closer to the government realize the matter isn't so simple.

While still believing that somehow the Poles will yield at the last moment, they nevertheless are conscious that Germany must be prepared for a struggle if necessary.

As background for this realization the visit of Italy's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, tomorrow and Hitler's just-completed six-day tour of the western fortifications acquire new meaning.

Ciano's visit to sign the German-Italian military alliance is heralded by Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff as "the crowning of the axis policy."

Nazis described the alliance—to be signed Monday—as forging "an unshakeable bloc of 150,000,000 people from the Baltic to the Mediterranean" (in almost the same words as used by Premier Mussolini in a speech at Cuneo, Italy).

Foreign observers who have followed press and radio publicity on Hitler's tour and Ciano's visit could not escape the conclusion that Germany was bending every effort to convince the world of Italian-German solidarity and of the impregnability of her western defenses.

MUSSOLINI BOASTS OF POWER OF BLOC

CUNEO, Italy, May 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini asserted tonight the Italian-German military alliance to be signed Monday would create an unbeatable bloc "of 150,000,000 men."

Speaking in Cuneo's main square barely 30 miles from the French frontier at the close of his week's tour of the Piedmont region, Il Duce said:

"This bloc, formidable in men in arms, wants peace but is ready to impose it in case the great conservative and reactionary democracies should try to halt our irresistible march."

Mussolini is fond of referring to the combined populations of the Italian and German empires as "150,000,000 men." (The actual total, including women and children, Germany's new acquisitions and Italy's overseas possessions, is somewhat short of that figure.)

"I spoke clearly at Turin and what I am saying at Cuneo may be considered a postscript."

Slovak minister to France, was said to have turned over to French and American police information reported to have come to him from secret agents in Prague.

This information, it was said, included charges that Nazi secret police in Prague fomented the plot and that for several weeks Nazi agents had been seeking a disgruntled Czech or Slovak who would carry out the assassination.

(In Prague, responsible Czechs said they had heard no suggestion that the German gestapo—secret police—had been involved in any plot against Benes.)

Sugar

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Mixed professional operations in world sugar futures today reflected general caution pending news Monday from London regarding possible sugar quota increases. The market moved quietly within a narrow range and finished unchanged to one point higher. July delivery was off 1-2 at 1.38 1-2.

Domestic futures were virtually inactive as restricted trade interest on both sides of the market limited sales. Final prices also were unchanged to one down.

Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged with Puerto Ricos selling at 3.90, offerings thereafter ranged 2.92 to 2.95 in fair volume. Cubas on a duty paid basis remained 2.90 nominal. Refined was unchanged at 4.45-4.50.

turned into a militant fighting force. That's the idea of the boss also, but must be kept on the Q. T.

"We do not need fascism or naziism, that is true—but to my mind we will have fascism, call it what you may—for there can be no solution to this except a disciplined force under central leadership, and an economic program that will put these millions back to work and keep them there."

Deatherage suggested that a conference of leaders of "large groups on our side of the fence" be called at Chicago to discuss the campaign. He suggested they call "Father Coughlin, Winrod, Lodge Curran, John Fry of the A. F. L., Homer Chaillaux of the legion, as well as other veteran leaders, Taber of the Grange, and Garrison of the Associated Farmers." The individuals were not further identified.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—(AP)—Nine new wells in Louisiana oil fields, with a total initial daily production of 3,558 barrels, were listed today in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation.

Four of the producers, in the new Shreveport field in Caddo parish, account for more than half the new production of the week. The Shreveport wells were gauged on quarter-inch and half-inch openings, whereas the south Louisiana wells were producing through the smaller opening of a three-sixteenths inch choke, indicating a greater potential output under the same conditions.

Twenty-six permits for new wells were issued during the period, 16 for drilling operations in various south Louisiana locations. Three of these were for wildcat operations.

New producers listed ranging from May 3 to May 18.

Bancroft, Beauregard parish, Republic Production company No. 6 Lutcher-Moore Lumber company, 208 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Garden Island bay, Plaquemines parish, The Texas company, No. 33 State-Garden island, 578 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Grand Lake, Cameron parish, Superior Oil company, No. 1 State-Grand lake (new field) 384 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Iberia, Iberia parish, The Texas company, No. 9 J. P. Duhe, 157 barrels, size of choke not reported.

Shreveport, Caddo parish, Hurricane Petroleum company, No. 1 DeSoto corporation, 520 barrels and No. 2 Harmon, 536 barrels, both on quarter inch chokes; W. R. NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Buying in steels, motors and rubbers kept the stock market on a rising plane today with favorites posting gains running to a point or so.

There was little pickup in the trading pace, however, and transfers for the two-hour proceedings were only around 200,000 shares.

Recently inconsequential week-end dealings, coupled with balmy weather, tended to keep many commission house customers away from the financial district. In addition, those traders who appeared inclined to keep commitments light pending President Roosevelt's speech before the American Retail Federation Monday, in which, it was expected, he might clarify the attitude of the administration toward legislation desired by industry.

A few comforting items in the business news helped speculative sentiment, although doubters of any nearby substantial recovery were still plentiful in Wall Street. Hopes congress would approve some form of tax revision continued to keep potential share sellers timid. European developments commanded small attention in boardrooms.

A smattering of short covering in the steels was observed as the suggestion was heard that these issues, despite the cloudy earnings outlook due to price cutting, may have been oversold.

Reports of expanding automobile production and sales aided the motors. President Keller of Chrysler was quoted as believing output of cars and trucks this year would reach 3,800,000 units or 40 per cent greater than in 1938. Rubber company shares again were responsive to the brighter outlook for tire replacements.

Prominent shares on the extension of the advance were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber common and preferred, Goodyear, Air Reduction, American Telephone, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Santa Fe, du Pont and J. I. Case.

Bonds and commodities were narrow either way. Securities at Amsterdam, the only important foreign market open today, pointed higher.

Parochial school participated, was made possible by the publishing company in cooperation with 29 local advertisers. Ouachita furnished six young men and six young women; Neville, six young men and five young women; and St. Matthew's, three young men and three young women. The Ouachita contestants were chosen from among student leaders of the senior class. They included the four class officers and eight other students chosen by lot from among the home room officers. The Neville and St. Matthew's contestants were selected on the basis of scholastic standing.

Miss Gattis, who prepared the advertisement of Firestone Auto Supply and Service store, is valedictorian at Neville High. Sixteen years old and a daughter of Mrs. Annie Mae Gattis, she is a member of the executive committee of her class and played on the tennis squad of the school. She is not certain, but she thinks she will matriculate at Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge this fall and major in sociology in preparation for a life's career as a social worker.

Miss Keller, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keller, wrote the advertisement of Bella Scherck Davidson. She captained the girls' basketball team at St. Matthew's the past season and won the honor, by scholastic attainments, of being the historian of the senior class. She plans to enter Northeast Junior college here this fall and devote herself to business administration and music courses. She hopes, some day, to be a private secretary.

Miss Inabnet, 17 years old, is president of the senior class at Ouachita and was its girl tennis star this season. A daughter of State Representative and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, she intends continuing her education at Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va., this fall. There she will specialize in library science, with the intention of entering library work after her graduation. She prepared the advertisement of Ferd Levi Stationery company.

Miss Gremillion, the other winner from St. Matthew's, like Miss Keller, her classmate, plans to continue her studies at Northeast Junior college. Writer of the advertisement of The Palace, she is 16, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Gremillion and vice-president of her class. Moreover, she was a member of St. Matthew's basketball team and has been designated to read the class will at graduation exercises. She has mapped a business career for herself and will specialize in college courses toward that end.

The principals of all three schools joined in praising the purpose of the ad-writing contest, principally, that of honoring outstanding seniors and of providing four with additional graduation money.

Said Sister Cornelia, principal of St. Matthew's:

"The advertising contest sponsored by the News-Star—World Publishing corporation is a very excellent idea which we hope will be used often as graduation dates roll around.

"Some of its advantages are: contacts between the student and the company whose ad he was assigned to write; worth-while publicity for outstanding students in the senior classes of each school represented; an opportunity for loyalty to school and friends in the matter of voting; the chance to become acquainted with the staff of the local paper. Each of these advantages might be discussed in greater detail but every News-Star and World reader can realize for himself just what good may come from such a contest over and above the monetary rewards won by the writers of the best ads.

"We are very glad that our students were invited to participate in this contest."

Paul Neal, Neville principal, took this view:

"The annual ad-writing contest sponsored by the News-Star—World gives the honor students of each school an opportunity to obtain experience in advertisements, and possibly to win graduation money.

"This induces the student to work harder throughout the scholastic year so as to be eligible to compete for the awards offered. These students represent the best in all three high schools of the city and will probably be outstanding in later careers in college and elsewhere.

"It is only proper that they be given this opportunity each year and the high schools are very fortunate that the News-Star—World and merchants of the city make this contest possible each year."

Jack Hayes, Ouachita principal, expressed himself in this manner:

"I wish to express my appreciation to the Monroe Morning World and News-Star and to the business firms of Monroe who have made it possible for members of our graduating class to participate in their advertising contest.

"Since most of these boys and girls will become future citizens of our city it is of mutual interest that they and the business firms become better acquainted.

"I am sure that each of our students will place this among the interesting experiences connected with their graduation and I trust that each firm has been well pleased."

SHIRT TALE

The lac kof chic inherent in the old-fashioned nightshirt, above—ugh!—has long annoyed sartorial esthetes, especially those addicted to sleep-walking. But now, as shown below, this handicap to slumbertime smartness is overcome by the trim, canary-colored "sleepcoat" displayed in a New York fashion show.

BOY CRITICALLY SHOT

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 20.—(AP)—Marvin Russell Weaver, 7, was shot and critically wounded and his sister, Lola Jane, 9, was injured slightly today when a pumpgun discharged accidentally as they were playing with a younger brother at the Weaver home near Arcola. Marvin was struck in the abdomen by the charge.

CHAMBERLAIN TO SEEK ARMS PACT

which might force them to permit passage of Russian troops across their soil. Both Rumania and Poland have received British-French guarantees of their independence.

If their replies to the new inquiries are favorable, as most informed observers believed they would be, one of Chamberlain's chief objections to the pact would be removed.

An official spokesman said further conclusive steps in negotiations probably would await the cabinet decision. A regular meeting is scheduled for Wednesday and Halifax is expected to return by then from Geneva, where he will attend a League of Nations' council session Monday.

Conversations yesterday between Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British government, also were said officially to have clarified some points. Halifax will have an opportunity to see Maisky again in Geneva.

The unanimity shown in yesterday's house of commons debate in favor of a pact with the Soviet Union was said by informed political sources to have convinced the prime minister an early agreement was necessary, both to what he calls his "peace front" opposed to the Rome-Berlin axis and political unity at home.

Chamberlain summoned the cabinet's foreign affairs sub-committee which was said to have decided on new consultations with Poland and Rumania.

The Paris talks between Halifax and the French ministers were understood to cover both the terms of the Russian pact and the question of British-French guarantees to Russia's Baltic neighbors—Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia and Finland.

Such guarantees would be in return for Soviet pledges to Poland and Rumania similar to those already given by France and Britain.

Soviet Russia has insisted on a definite mutual aid pact involving specific military commitments by Britain, France and Russia and providing for military staff talks.

Chamberlain has hesitated to enter such an alliance in fear that it might drive Japan, Spain, and perhaps other countries farther into the Rome-Berlin camp.

FRESH PROPOSALS TO BE MADE TO MOSCOW

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Hopes that Soviet Russia soon would be drawn into the British-French front brightened tonight when the two western powers agreed upon fresh proposals to Moscow.

The new approach to the stalemated negotiations between Britain and Russia was decided upon in conferences at which French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet canvassed the entire European situation with British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris.

Official statements were lacking but an authoritative source said the new plans would be presented Soviet representatives during the League of Nations council meeting opening Monday at Geneva.

"There has been an evolution of the British attitude towards the Russian thesis," this source said.

The exact nature of the proposals remained secret but a French compromise plan was understood to have been worked out to provide for a limited mutual assistance pact to satisfy Russian demands without involving Britain too far in eastern Europe.

During tonight's talks at the war ministry the conflicting British-Russian views were examined anew and the French-British positions "clarified" in preparation for further conversations.

The conferences were described as "extremely cordial" and are to be renewed among Lord Halifax, Bonnet and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, tomorrow night or Monday.

French diplomatic sources acknowledged, however, that rapid progress must be made at Geneva. Lord Halifax planned to leave there Tuesday night to reach London in time for Wednesday's weekly cabinet meeting. Bonnet intended to return to Paris from Geneva Wednesday night.

The hope was expressed that at least a stop-gap accord would be reached with Moscow before the French cabinet meeting Thursday.

Daladier, anxious to bring France's two big allies into a solid front, assumed an arbitrator's role tonight.

Both by his personal intervention and his government's conciliatory proposals, Daladier sought to eliminate points of dispute between Moscow and London which have delayed Russia's entry into the British-French front.

knives were found in the truck transporting the men.

The all-inclusive charge of "banding and confederating" was placed against the group. The charge is similar to disorderly conduct in police court.

John Padgett, arrested after the shooting of a miner yesterday, was released on $1,000 bond on a charge of "malicious shooting and wounding," after an arraignment hearing.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the national guardsmen, issued the military order giving the United Mine Workers permission to hold the mass meeting. On reading the order earlier Turnblazer asked:

"Who issued this, Hitler or Mussolini?"

The general's order said the time and place must be approved by him, parades would be prohibited, traffic on certain roads from sections where there have been disturbances would be "controlled," and:

"Union leaders must pledge themselves and their members to refrain from speech and action calculated or tending to create disorders or which tend to provoke violent passion or action against those desiring to return to work, or the military.

"They must also prevent the assemblage of noisy groups, cursing, calling 'scabs' on the streets or highways, jeering at soldiers, intentional interference with traffic, or invasion of private property."

BIRTHS

JONESBORO, La., May 20.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Cobb announce the birth of a daughter, Ettie Lywanda, on May 17. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rooks of Jonesboro and Mrs. W. H. Cobb of New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. LeBlanc, of West Monroe, last night announced the birth of a seven-and-a-half-pound daughter at St. Francis sanitarium. The baby has been named Mary Lucille.

Hitler's newspaper by Lieutenant-Colonel von Wedel of the German staff.

He wrote in an article:

"A defense system for protection of Silesia, the Reich's capital and Pomerania has been established. . . . We have not failed to take note of the outbursts of Polish chauvinists who cry out for the conquest of East Prussia, Silesia and Pomerania.

"So in a short time the defensive works in the east will be equal to those in the west. Already large divisions of the Reich's arbeits dienst (work service) are active and soon the vast organization of the Reich's highway service will be available.

"All with an impulse to start an aggressive action against Germany should take note of these facts promptly. Not to understand will mean a useless outpouring of blood of their own soldiers."

Count Ciano arrived in Innsbruck tonight on his way to Berlin. On a special train, he was accompanied by Italian foreign office experts and several dozen Italian journalists.

Perhaps most ominous of all today's signs was Goebbels' dictum on Danzig and the corridor.

This pointed focussing of attention, during Goebbels' speech at Cologne Friday night, on Danzig and the strip of Poland that separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany seemed to indicate that the recent period of relative silence was over.

Since May 5 when Poland's foreign minister, Joseph Beck, reiterated Polish determination to defend her territory in reply to Hitler's Reichstag speech, Germany officially has maintained silence on the matter.

Neither Goebbels nor anyone else has disclosed yet what Germany's next step toward "solution" of the Danzig and corridor problem would be.

Germany's man-on-the-street expects to wake up some morning and find German troops have taken possession of Danzig.

Again and again small tradesmen, workers and housewives give a stock answer when asked what they think will happen: "Hitler simply will march in there some night when nobody is looking."

Persons closer to the government realize the matter isn't so simple.

While still believing that somehow the Poles will yield at the last moment, they nevertheless are conscious that Germany must be prepared for a struggle if necessary.

As background for this realization the visit of Italy's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, tomorrow and Hitler's just-completed six-day tour of the western fortifications acquire new meaning.

Ciano's visit to sign the German-Italian military alliance is heralded by Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff as "the crowning of the axis policy."

Nazis described the alliance—to be signed Monday—as forging "an unshakeable bloc of 150,000,000 people from the Baltic to the Mediterranean" (in almost the same words as used by Premier Mussolini in a speech at Cuneo, Italy).

Foreign observers who have followed press and radio publicity on Hitler's tour and Ciano's visit could not escape the conclusion that Germany was bending every effort to convince the world of Italian-German solidarity and of the impregnability of her western defenses.

MUSSOLINI BOASTS OF POWER OF BLOC

CUNEO, Italy, May 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini asserted tonight the Italian-German military alliance to be signed Monday would create an unbeatable bloc "of 150,000,000 men."

Speaking in Cuneo's main square barely 30 miles from the French frontier at the close of his week's tour of the Piedmont region, Il Duce said:

"This bloc, formidable in men in arms, wants peace but is ready to impose it in case the great conservative and reactionary democracies should try to halt our irresistible march."

Mussolini is fond of referring to the combined populations of the Italian and German empires as "150,000,000 men." (The actual total, including women and children, Germany's new acquisitions and Italy's overseas possessions, is somewhat short of that figure.)

"I spoke clearly at Turin and what I am saying at Cuneo may be considered a postscript."

Slovak minister to France, was said to have turned over to French and American police information reported to have come to him from secret agents in Prague.

This information, it was said, included charges that Nazi secret police in Prague fomented the plot and that for several weeks Nazi agents had been seeking a disgruntled Czech or Slovak who would carry out the assassination.

(In Prague, responsible Czechs said they had heard no suggestion that the German gestapo — secret police — had been involved in any plot against Benes.)

Sugar

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Mixed professional operations in world sugar futures today reflected general caution pending news Monday from London regarding possible sugar quota increases. The market moved quietly within a narrow range and finished unchanged to one point higher. July delivery was off 1-2 at 1.38 1-2.

Domestic futures were virtually inactive as restricted trade interest on both sides of the market limited sales. Final prices also were unchanged to one down.

Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged with Puerto Ricos selling at 3.90, offerings thereafter ranged 2.92 to 2.95 in fair volume. Cubas on a duty paid basis remained 2.90 nominal. Refined was unchanged at 4.45-4.50.

turned into a militant fighting force. That's the idea of the boss also, but must be kept on the Q. T.

"We do not need fascism or naziism, that is true—but to my mind we will have fascism, call it what you may—for there can be no solution to this except a disciplined force under central leadership, and an economic program that will put these millions back to work and keep them there."

Deatherage suggested that a conference of leaders of "large groups on our side of the fence" be called at Chicago to discuss the campaign. He suggested they call "Father Coughlin, Winrod, Lodge Curran, John Fry of the A. F. L., Homer Chaillaux of the legion, as well as other veteran leaders, Taber of the Grange, and Garrison of the Associated Farmers." The individuals were not further identified.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—(AP)—Nine new wells in Louisiana oil fields, with a total initial daily production of 3,558 barrels, were listed today in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation.

Four of the producers, in the new Shreveport field in Caddo parish, account for more than half the new production of the week. The Shreveport wells were gauged on quarter-inch and half-inch openings, whereas the south Louisiana wells were producing through the smaller opening of a three-sixteenths inch choke, indicating a greater potential output under the same conditions.

Twenty-six permits for new wells were issued during the period, 16 for drilling operations in various south Louisiana locations. Three of these were for wildcat operations.

New producers listed ranging from May 3 to May 18:

Bancroft, Beauregard parish, Republic Production company No. 6 Lutcher-Moore Lumber company, 298 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Garden Island bay, Plaquemines parish, The Texas company, No. 33 State-Garden island, 578 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Grand Lake, Cameron parish, Superior Oil company, No. 1 State-Grand lake (new field) 384 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Iberia, Iberia parish, The Texas company, No. 9 J. P. Duhe, 157 barrels, size of choke not reported.

Shreveport, Caddo parish, Hurricane Petroleum company, No. 1 DeSoto corporation, 520 barrels and No. 2 Harmon, 536 barrels, both on quarter inch chokes; W. R. Nicholson Oil company, No. 1 Exchange National bank, 360 barrels, half inch choke; Lisbon-Iberia Oil corporation, No. 1 James Morgan 420 barrels, half inch choke.

Ville Platte, Evangeline parish, Continental Oil company, No. 3 Mrs. Ed Tate, 305 barrels, three-sixteenths inch choke.

Permits were issued for three south Louisiana operations:

Acadia parish, Peter Cioban, No. 1 J. S. Henderson, 82.5 feet north of south line, and 50 feet west of E. line of Henderson tract in lot 6, section 45-9S-2E.

Avoyelles parish, S. W. Richardson, three permits; No. 1 S. S. Pearce, 2,161.8 feet north and 4,506.3 feet west of southeast corner of section 6-2S-3E; No. 5 Haas, 1,196 feet south and 464.3 feet west of northeast corner of section 7-2S-3E; and No. 2 State-Bayou Boeuf, 217.5 feet and 1,337.9 feet west of the northeast corner of section 7-2S-3E.

Beauregard parish, Republic Production company, two permits; No. 7 Lutcher-Moore Lumber company, 330 feet south of north line and 330 feet west of east line NW¼ of section 14-6S-13W; and No. 1 G. F. Hennigan, 331.2 feet south of north line 334.4 feet west of east line of SE¼ NE¼ of section 15-6S-13W.

Cameron parish, Humble Oil and Refining company, No. 4 Katherine Bel Hanszen, 2,290 feet west of the east line and 440 feet north of the south line of section 9-12S-6W.

East Baton Rouge parish, George J. Helis, No. 1 Haase community, 365 feet northerly along the westernly line from the southwesterly corner, thence 309 feet easterly at right angles in section 31-7S-1E.

LaFourche parish, The Texas company, two permits; No. 2 State-Catfish lake, 660 feet south and 7,190 feet west of the southeast corner of section 77, in section 3-20S-21E; and No. 3 State-Catfish lake, 660 feet north and 7,190 feet west of the southeast corner of section 77, in section 76-19S-21E.

St. Bernard parish, Carter, Molero and Brian, No. 1 Delacroix corporation, 500 feet south, 81.5 degrees west along the section line from the northeast corner, thence 260 feet south, in section 129-14S-14E.

St. Landry parish, Adams Oil and Gas company, No. 1 B Babineaux, 500 feet south and 1,688 feet east of the northwest corner of section 39-8S-4E; Pan-American Production company, No. 3 Haas and Hirsch, 1,875 feet northwest and 200 feet southwest at right angles from the northeast corner of 150 acre tract in section 4-6S-5E; Smith and McDannald, No. 1 S. W. Fritial, 5,263 feet north and 125 feet east from southwest corner of section 20-6S-5E.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Buying in steels, motors and rubbers kept the stock market on a rising plane today with favorites posting gains running to a point or so.

There was little pickup in the trading pace, however, and transfers for the two-hour proceedings were only around 200,000 shares.

Recently inconsequential week-end dealings, coupled with balmy weather, tended to keep many commission house customers away from the financial district. In addition, those traders who appeared inclined to keep commitments light pending President Roosevelt's speech before the American Retail Federation Monday, in which, it was expected, he might clarify the attitude of the administration toward legislation desired by industry.

A few comforting items in the business news helped speculative sentiment, although doubters of any nearby substantial recovery were still plentiful in Wall Street. Hopes congress would approve some form of tax revision continued to keep potential share sellers timid. European developments commanded small attention in boardrooms.

A smattering of short covering in the steels was observed as the suggestion was heard that these issues, despite the cloudy earnings outlook due to price cutting, may have been oversold.

Reports of expanding automobile production and sales aided the motors. President Keller of Chrysler was quoted as believing output of cars and trucks this year would reach 3,800,000 units, or 40 per cent greater than in 1938. Rubber company shares again were responsive to the brighter outlook for tire replacements.

Prominent shares on the extension of the advance were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber common and preferred, Goodyear, Air Reduction, American Telephone, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Santa Fe, du Pont and J. I. Case.

Bonds and commodities were narrow either way. Securities at Amsterdam, the only important foreign market open today, pointed higher.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ALAN WARREN—Ambitious young country doctor.
EMILY WARREN—Alan's wife.
ERIC KANE—Construction engineer.
DR. FARRELL—Alan's elderly associate.

CHAPTER I

"Dr. Warren left the office more than an hour ago, Mrs. Warren. He was going to stop at Barrett's and at the hospital before coming home. He said something about Mrs. Carroll, too. I hope he doesn't have to go to the country with this storm blowing up. He'll be home soon, I'm sure, Mrs. Warren."

"Thanks, Marjorie."

Emily Warren replaced the phone in its cradle, sighed.

"The joy of being a doctor's wife," she said, half aloud. "Even the office girl knows more about my husband than I do. The nurses share his secrets, he pays more attention to a deadbeat patient than he does to me. I hardly get to see him. Oh, why—why . . . ?"

She fought to hold back tears that kept welling up into her soft brown eyes. Even white teeth bit her lower lip and a firm chin lost all its firmness in quivering.

She heard a car stop in the driveway, its chained wheels biting sharply into the crisp, hard snow. That would be Alan. Perhaps Mrs. Carroll was all right. Perhaps—

She dabbed a handkerchief at her eyes, smoothed her dark brown curls, as she passed a mirror. She could hear Alan stamping the snow from his shoes in the entry. The hall door swung wide.

"Alan, Alan! Close the door, before you freeze me!"

His arms were around her, pressing the snowy wetness of his coat through her dress. He kissed her, again and again.

Emily burrowed through the folds of his overcoat, pressed closer to him.

"It's so good to have you home, darling," she whispered. "I've been so cold and so lonesome. I'm afraid when it gets dark at [illegible]."

Alan kissed her once more before releasing her.

"There's nothing in the world for my sweet little wife to be afraid of," he said as he slipped out of his coat, shook the snow from his hat. "We're in for a blizzard, the weatherman says, but it will probably be the last of the winter. Tell Herminia to keep a good fire in the fireplace.

"By the way, have her fix me a bite to eat. I'm too early for dinner, I know, but I'll have to have something. Got to make a trip into the country. Mrs. Carroll. She would pick a night like this to have a baby. Snow a foot deep on all the roads already, and most of them will be drifted shut before morning. I don't see why people can't have their lambs in the spring." He led Emily to the fireplace, stood before it, absorbing the warmth from the blazing logs.

"Perhaps I should have been a veterinarian instead of a physician—no worry, and you take the patient if he can't pay." Alan's ringing laugh echoed throughout the house.

But Emily did not laugh. Instead, she stared at her tall, handsome husband. She hardly knew this man of medicine, even after a year of marriage. She knew and loved each tiny wrinkle on his forehead, the way his mouth, even after long, sleepless hours, turned up at the corners.

Lights were dancing in Alan's dark blue eyes like sparks from cold steel, as he laughed. She had seen those eyes soften and hurt, reflect the pain of an agonized patient, and she had seen them grow black and hard when unthinking men stirred his anger.

How different was this man from the boyish interne she had met and loved five years ago. Earnest even then, but not the serious, prematurely old man of 30 who faced her. Alan had changed so much in the four years they had been apart, long, patient years of waiting while he built his practice in Sumner until he had earned enough to return to St. Louis for her, to bring her to her new home as his wife.

Those gay laughing days of young love, dancing and cocktails, of laughing friends and happy parties were remote now. Alan never drank anything now, a patient might object. And parties—when had that last party been?

But Alan's love for her had not changed. He still adored her with the same devotion, still called her his goddess. Her slightest wish for anything in her home was promptly fulfilled, but it wasn't chairs, and drapes and pictures that Emily longed for. She wanted Alan, and his tweeds, smelling of ether and antiseptic and tobacco, beside her in the evenings. She wanted the assurance that if she awoke at night, he would be near.

"Must you go to Carroll's tonight, darling?" she asked.

"Of course, I've got to go. Farrell can't go out in this storm. He's getting too old for this sort of thing. But don't worry your head about me. I'll stay at Carroll's until dawn, if the blizzard holds. Oh Herminia," he added, as the maid paused in the doorway, "fix me a couple of sandwiches and some strong coffee. I'll eat here in front of the fire."

"But Alan," Emily went on, "it's important that you be here tonight. A wire came this afternoon from Dr. Peterson. He's stopping off here for a few hours on his return from Florida. Said he wanted particularly to see you."

"Nice of Peterson to stop; I'm sorry I'll miss him. But he'll understand. After all, he's a physician first and dean of a medical school second. He wouldn't expect me to stay here just to visit with him." He paused to light a pipe, settled comfortably in a big chair, smoking contentedly.

"Maybe he wants to talk to you about a job, Alan," Emily said after a long silence. "You know how much he admired your work in St. Louis. He told dad that there was no one he'd rather have on the faculty than you, if there was ever an opening."

"But Emily, I don't want to be a professor. I'm a doctor—a country doctor. Besides, I'm not good enough to rate a job from Peterson. He's just being nice, stopping in to say hello. You give him a good dinner, and get all the gossip. You might invite Farrell up, too, in case Peterson wants to talk shop. Thanks, Herminia, put it right here on the coffee table."

"Can't you send an ambulance to bring Mrs. Carroll in to the hospital?" Emily refused to admit defeat.

"And have them stuck out on a highway, have a baby born out in this blizzard? Emily, you're not thinking."

He bit into a sandwich, gulped his coffee.

"I am thinking. I don't see why you should miss seeing Dr. Peterson, one of the outstanding men of your profession, one of your best friends, and a man who can do you lots of good, just to take care of a farmer's wife!"

Shadows crept into Alan's eyes. His lips narrowed. Disregarding danger signals Emily went on.

"You go out into this storm, when every sensible man is staying at home. You're asking for pneumonia. You practically insult the dean of your own medical school. You place me in an embarrassing position; how can I explain it? Why? Why?"

"Because I'm a doctor."

"There are other doctors, Alan. But they're not fools. You don't see young Dr. White driving all over the country in all sorts of weather. No, he has an office, keeps hours. He's a heart specialist. He's—"

"Yeah, White's a specialist and he's all right in his line, if he likes it—I like mine."

"But you're killing yourself, Alan. And now, you throw away what may be an offer to go back to St. Louis, to be a professor, to amount to something. It isn't fair to me!"

If Alan heard her, he did not let on. He put on his coat and galoshes, pulled his muffler higher around his neck, before he spoke.

"You take care of Peterson, honey, let me worry about the work." He kissed her lightly, striving to keep his temper.

Emily did not return his kiss. Angry tears flooded her eyes, her voice rose.

"You can't, Alan, you can't. You'll miss Peterson. Kill every chance you ever had with him by practically insulting him. You're throwing away the chance of a lifetime!"

"And if I don't go to this woman when she needs me"—his voice was low, vibrant—"it may mean a life!"

The door slammed behind him.

20 TO GRADUATE AT CLARKS SCHOOL

CLARKS, La., May 20—(Special)—Twenty graduates of the Clarks High school will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises on Wednesday at 8 p.m., at the Clarks Baptist church.

Miss Elizabeth Eason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Eason, has been awarded the honor of class valedictorian. She is also vice-president of the class.

Miss Marjorie Loflin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Loflin, is salutatorian.

Others to receive their diplomas are F. P. Chapman, Jr., Hazetta Cobb, Margie Bass, Mary Ferree Robicheaux, Doe Howard, Maxine Jordan, Myrtis Kennison, Elton Kirk, Oreille Lindsey, Lenora May, Bobbie McBroom, Herman O'Banion, Frank Reeves, Dorothea Richman, Hazel Rogers, secretary-treasurer, and William Rogers, president of the class.

Clarence Martin, who completed his work in January, will receive his diploma with the spring class.

Rev. Paul Jones, Baptist pastor, will deliver the baccalaureate address on Sunday, May 21, at 11 a.m., at the Baptist church. Rev. Jones has selected "Citizenship" as the subject of his address. Special music will be rendered by the girls' glee club of the high school, under the direction of Mrs. Clinton Miller.

118 RUSTON SENIORS WILL HEAR SERMON

RUSTON, La., May 20—(Special)—Baccalaureate services Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock will mark the beginning of graduation exercises for Ruston High school's largest class, which totals 118 seniors. The record-breaking number of graduates this year exceeds by 22 the list finishing here in 1937-38 and is four above the previous record set in 1932.

The senior sermon will be preached at the Ruston High school auditorium by A. S. Newman, pastor of the Temple Baptist church here.

Dr. W. R. Cline of the Louisiana Tech school of education will deliver the commencement address on Friday evening, May 26.

Graduates of Ruston's two elementary schools, Eastland and Hillcrest, will receive their diplomas on Thursday evening, May 25.

'MRS. DOC'

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

(The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.)

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ALAN WARREN—Ambitious young country doctor.

EMILY WARREN—Alan's wife.

ERIC KANE—Construction engineer.

DR. FARRELL—Alan's elderly associate.

CHAPTER I

"Dr. Warren left the office more than an hour ago, Mrs. Warren. He was going to stop at Barrett's and at the hospital before coming home. He said something about Mrs. Carroll, too. I hope he doesn't have to go to the country with this storm blowing up. He'll be home soon, I'm sure, Mrs. Warren."

"Thanks, Marjorie."

Emily Warren replaced the phone in its cradle, sighed.

"The joy of being a doctor's wife," she said, half aloud. "Even the office girl knows more about my husband than I do. The nurses share his secrets, he pays more attention to a deadbeat patient than he does to me. I hardly get to see him. Oh, why—why . . .?"

She fought to hold back tears that kept welling up into her soft brown eyes. Even white teeth bit her lower lip and a firm chin lost all its firmness in quivering.

She heard a car stop in the driveway, its chained wheels biting sharply into the crisp, hard snow. That would be Alan. Perhaps Mrs. Carroll was all right. Perhaps—

She dabbed a handkerchief at her eyes, smoothed her dark brown curls, as she passed a mirror. She could hear Alan stamping the snow from his shoes in the entry. The hall door swung wide.

"Alan, Alan! Close the door, before you freeze me!"

His arms were around her, pressing the snowy wetness of his coat through her dress. He kissed her, again and again.

Emily burrowed through the folds of his overcoat, pressed closer to him.

"It's so good to have you home, darling," she whispered. "I've been so cold and so lonesome. I'm afraid when it gets dark and stormy."

Alan kissed her once more before releasing her.

"There's nothing in the world for my sweet little wife to be afraid of," he said, as he slipped out of his coat, shook the snow from his hat. "We're in for a blizzard, the weatherman says, but it will probably be the last of the winter. Tell Herminia to keep a good fire in the fireplace.

"By the way, have her fix me a bite to eat. I'm too early for dinner, I know, but I'll have to have something. Got to make a trip into the country. Mrs. Carroll. She would pick a night like this to have a baby. Snow a foot deep on all the roads already, and most of them will be drifted shut before morning. I don't see why people can't have their lambs in the spring." He led Emily to the fireplace, stood before it, absorbing the warmth from the blazing logs.

"Perhaps I should have been a veterinary instead of a physician—no worries, and you take the patient if they don't pay." Alan's ringing laugh echoed throughout the house.

But Emily did not laugh. Instead, she stared at her tall handsome husband. She hardly knew this man of medicine; even after a year of marriage. She knew and loved each tiny wrinkle in his forehead, the way his mouth, even after long, sleepless hours turned up at the corners.

Lights were dancing in Alan's dark blue eyes, like sparks from cold steel, as he laughed. She had seen those eyes, soft and hurt, reflect the pain of an anguished patient; and she had seen them grow black and hard when unthinking men stirred his anger.

How different was this man from the boyish interne she had met and loved five years ago. Earnest even then, but not the serious, prematurely old man of 30 who faced her. Alan had changed so much in the four years they had been apart—long, patient years of waiting while he built his practice in Sumner, until he had earned enough to return to St. Louis for her, to bring her to her new home as his wife.

Those gay laughing days of young love, dancing and cocktails, of laughing friends and happy parties were remote now. Alan never drank anything now, a patient might object. And parties—when had that last party been?

But Alan's love for her had not changed. He still adored her with the same devotion, still called her his goddess. Her slightest wish for anything in her home was promptly fulfilled, but it wasn't chairs, and drapes and pictures that Emily longed for. She wanted Alan, and his tweeds, smelling of ether and antiseptic and tobacco, beside her in the evenings. She wanted the assurance that if she awoke at night, he would be near.

"Must you go to Carroll's tonight, darling?" she asked.

"Of course, I've got to go. Farrell can't go out in this storm. He's getting too old for this sort of thing. But don't worry your head about me. I'll stay at Carroll's until dawn, if the blizzard holds. Oh Herminia," he added, as the maid paused in the doorway, "fix me a couple of sandwiches and some strong coffee. I'll eat here in front of the fire."

"But Alan," Emily went on, "it's important that you be here tonight. A wire came this afternoon from Dr. Peterson. He's stopping off here for a few hours on his return from Florida. Said he wanted particularly to see you."

"Nice of Peterson to stop; I'm sorry I'll miss him. But he'll understand. After all, he's a physician first and dean of a medical school second. He wouldn't expect me to stay here just to visit with him." He paused to light a pipe, settled comfortably in a big chair, smoking contentedly.

"Maybe he wants to talk to you about a job, Alan," Emily said after a long silence. "You know how much he admired your work in St. Louis. He told dad that there was no one he'd rather have on the faculty than you, if there was ever an opening."

"But Emily, I don't want to be a professor. I'm a doctor—a country doctor. Besides, I'm not good enough to rate a job from Peterson. He's just being nice, stopping in to say hello. You give him a good dinner, and get all the gossip. You might invite Farrell up, too, in case Peterson wants to talk shop. Thanks, Herminia, put it right here on the coffee table."

"Can't you send an ambulance to bring Mrs. Carroll in to the hospital?" Emily refused to admit defeat.

"And have them stuck out on a highway, have a baby born out in this blizzard? Emily, you're not thinking."

He bit into a sandwich, gulped his coffee.

"I am thinking. I don't see why you should miss seeing Dr. Peterson, one of the outstanding men of your profession, one of your best friends, and a man who can do you lots of good, just to take care of a farmer's wife!"

Shadows crept into Alan's eyes. His lips narrowed. Disregarding danger signals Emily went on.

"You go out into this storm, when every sensible man is staying at home. You're asking for pneumonia. You practically insult the dean of your own medical school. You place me in an embarrassing position; how can I explain it? Why? Why?"

"Because I'm a doctor."

"There are other doctors, Alan. But they're not fools. You don't see young Dr. White driving all over the country in all sorts of weather. No, he has an office, keeps hours. He's a heart specialist. He's—"

"Yeah, White's a specialist and he's all right in his line, if he likes it—I like mine."

"But you're killing yourself, Alan. And now, you throw away what may be an offer to go back to St. Louis, to be a professor, to amount to something. It isn't fair to me!"

If Alan heard her, he did not let on. He put on his coat and galoshes, pulled his muffler higher around his neck, before he spoke.

"You take care of Peterson, honey; let me worry about the work." He kissed her, lightly, striving to keep his temper.

Emily did not return his kiss. Angry tears flooded her eyes, her voice rose.

"You can't, Alan, you can't. You'll miss Peterson. Kill every chance you ever had with him by practically insulting him. You're throwing away the chance of a lifetime!"

"And if I don't go to this woman, when she needs me"—his voice was low, vibrant—"it may mean a life!"

The door slammed behind him.

20 TO GRADUATE AT CLARKS SCHOOL

CLARKS, La., May 20.—(Special)—Twenty graduates of the Clarks High school will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises on Wednesday at 8 p.m., at the Clarks Baptist church.

Miss Elizabeth Eason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Eason, has been awarded the honor of class valedictorian. She is also vice-president of the class.

Miss Marjorie Loflin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Loflin, is salutatorian.

Others to receive their diplomas are E. P. Chapman, Jr., Harietta Cobb, Margie Bass, Mary Ferree, Ray Greene, Doc Howard, Maxine Jordan, Myrtis Kennison, Eldon Kirk, Ozelle Lindsey, Lenora May, Bobbie McBroom, Herman O'Banion, Frank Reeves, Dorothea Richman, Hazel Rogers, secretary-treasurer, and William Rogers, president of the class.

Clarence Martin, who completed his work in January, will receive his diploma with the spring class.

Rev. Paul Jones, Baptist pastor, will deliver the baccalaureate address on Sunday, May 21, at 11 a.m., at the Baptst church. Rev. Jones has selected "Ctizenship" as the subject of his address. Special music will be rendered by the girls' glee club of the high school, under the direction of Mrs. Clinton Miller.

118 RUSTON SENIORS WILL HEAR SERMON

RUSTON, La., May 20.—(Special)—Baccalaureate services Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock will mark the beginning of graduation exercises for Ruston High school's largest class, which totals 118 seniors. The record-breaking number of graduates this year exceeds by 22 the list finishing here in 1937-38 and is four above the previous record set in 1932.

The senior sermon will be preached at the Ruston High school auditorium by A. S. Newman, pastor of the Temple Baptist church here.

Dr. W. R. Cline of the Louisiana Tech school of education will deliver the commencement address on Friday evening, May 26.

Graduates of Ruston's two elementary schools, Eastland and Hillcrest, will receive their diplomas on Thursday evening, May 25.

WPA GIVES MOST HELP TO NEEDY

Overshadows All Other Sources Of Income For Persons Receiving Public Aid

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—The payroll of the Works Progress administration overshadows all other sources of income for persons receiving public aid.

Its relative importance varies sharply in the different states, but in all except Nevada, Virginia, Wyoming and the District of Columbia, WPA is the largest dispenser of public assistance. In these four it is outranked by other federal work and construction projects.

Figures collected by the social security board disclosed WPA accounted for $155,827,000, or 49.3 per cent of the $316,010,000 disbursed in a single month, January, 1939—as direct relief, special public assistance and wages on work projects in federal programs.

In Louisiana, where the January total of public aid was $4,060,000, the wages of 51,941 WPA employes amounted to $2,077,000.

Special public assistance—the social security board's aid to the aged, to dependent children, and to the needy blind—accounted for the second largest share, 14.5 per cent, of the national total in January. In Louisiana, this type of aid accounted for $518,000, shared by 28,793 aged, 10,078 families with 29,248 dependent children, and 965 needy blind.

Although general, or direct, relief accounted for less than five per cent of January public aid costs in 22 states, and less than 10 per cent in 31, it was the third largest item in the national total, amounting to $43,504,000, or 13.8 per cent. Such payments, said the board, are concentrated in the more populous states, and while general relief accounted for only 0.2 per cent of Mississippi's January public aid bill, it comprised 29.8 per cent of New York's. In Louisiana there were 8,270 general relief cases which received $109,000 and in Mississippi 1,223 cases which received $4,000.

Other figures reported for Louisiana:

Subsistence payments certified by the Farm Security administration: 1,350 cases and $17,000.

Civilian Conservation corps: 6,363 enrollees and $435,000.

Projects financed by WPA but operated by other federal agencies: 583 employes and $18,000.

National Youth administration, student aid: 5,661 persons and $37,000.

National Youth administration, work projects: 5,515 persons and $98,000.

Other federal work and construction projects: 8,489 employes and $751,000.

In Mississippi, where the January total of public aid was $2,716,000, the wages of 46,871 WPA employes amounted to $1,506,000.

Special public assistance in Mississippi accounted for $137,000, shared by 19,144 aged and 435 needy blind.

Other figures reported for Mississippi were:

Subsistence payments certified by the Farm Security administration: 208 cases and $4,000.

Civilian Conservation corps: 6,680 enrollees and $457,000.

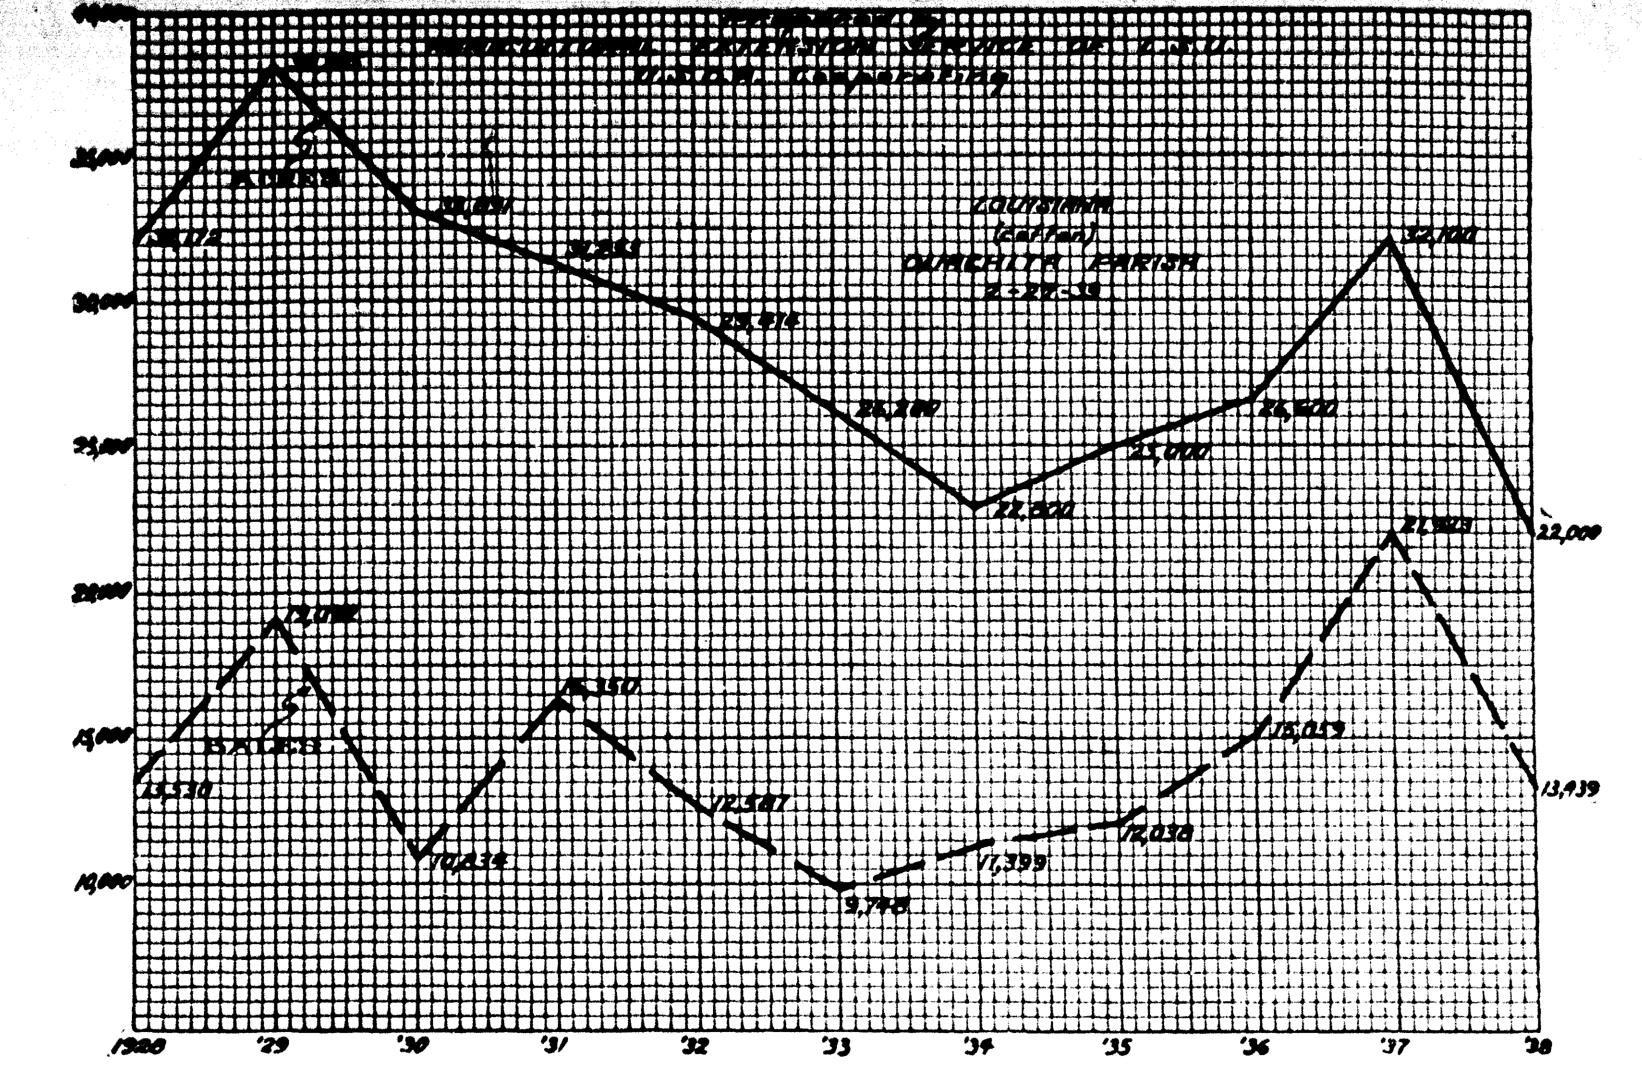
Projects financed by WPA but operated by other federal agencies: 899 employes and $31,000.

National Youth administration, student aid: 5,874 persons and $30,000.

National Youth administration, work projects: 4,863 persons and $73,000.

Other federal work and construction projects: 7,507 employes and $474,000.

OUACHITA COTTON PRODUCTION MAINTAINED DESPITE ACREAGE DECLINE



Cotton production in Ouachita parish has shifted only slightly from 13,530 to 13,439 bales during the 10-year period, 1928 to 1938, in spite of the fact that acreage declined 10,171 acres. The top line in the accompanying graph indicates the trend in cotton acreage in the parish during the period. The lower line shows the bales of cotton produced during the same period. Some of the factors which have brought about more bales on fewer acres, according to D. L. Bornman, parish agricultural agent, are: the use of summer and winter legumes for soil building; more intensive cultivation of the smaller acreage; a shift to early, prolific varieties; planting cotton on the better lands; poisoning for boll-weevil control; and more favorable weather conditions for cotton production. The yield of lint per acre has increased from 200 pounds in 1928 to 295 pounds in 1938.

2 ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGES

Accused Of Stealing Three Magnetos From State Highway Department

Sheriff Milton Coverdale last night announced the arrest of two young West Monroe men, Earl Brister, 24, and Warren Parker, 26, both of whom are being held on charges of larceny of three magnetos from the state highway department.

The young men were arrested yesterday by West Monroe police at the request of Sheriff Coverdale and surrendered to parish authorities soon after.

Sheriff Coverdale said both men, who had allegedly confessed the crime, went fishing in Cheniere creek last Thursday and came back by the state highway department's gravel pits near the creek.

They were said to have taken one magneto that was unattached, another that was fixed to a caterpillar tractor and another from a truck carrying a steam shovel. The men they drove to Little Rock, Ark., where they sold the magnetos to an automobile concern for $15 and returned here.

The magnetos were located and are being returned here.

GOVERNOR LECHE LEAVES WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche of Louisiana left here last night for Asheville, N. C., to visit Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, who is ill there.

He expected to leave for Louisiana today or tomorrow. During his three-day Washington visit he conferred with Senator Allen D. Ellender on appointment of a federal judge for the eastern district of Louisiana but made no announcement.

NATIONAL DEBT WEEK ANNOUNCED

Republicans Intend To Call Country's Attention To New Deal Spending

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Asserting they intended to concentrate the country's attention on New Deal spending, Republicans in congress proclaimed today a "national debt week."

Discussions in congress, in the press and on the radio during next week, an announcement through the Republican national committee said, will be designed to "arouse the American people to the dangers involved in the mounting national debt." New Deal spending, the committee said, has averaged almost $15,000 a minute since 1933 to run up a present total debt in excess of $40,000,000,000.

The Republican announcement came almost coincidently with the inception of a movement in congress to launch a new spending-lending program—with or without the blessing of President Roosevelt.

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, said that a group of congress members which usually supports the administration would sponsor a spending program even though President Roosevelt offered no proposals himself.

That they would encounter some Democratic opposition was indicated immediately.

Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, said that federal spending has been unsuccessful as an aid to recovery. A reduction in government expenditures would tend to encourage business, he predicted.

Tax talk came during the day from both congressional and business sources.

One report was that Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee and Mr. Roosevelt might agree on a compromise tax program which would cut the present 2 1-2 per cent undistributed profits tax to 1 1-2 per cent.

As outlined by informed persons, the compromise program would call for corporation taxes ranging from 17 1-2 to 19 per cent, depending upon the amount of dividends distributed to stockholders. The present rates are 16 1-2 to 19 per cent. Under the projected compromise, the increase in the base rate to 17 1-2 per cent would be offset by modification of other taxes on business.

Downtown, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced it intended to submit to congressional committees tax revision proposals made at the recent annual meeting of the business organization.

"There should be immediate revision of those taxes which, because of excessive rates or because of their hampering effects, are now acting as deterrents to business expansion," the chamber said in a periodical business review.

Certain tax adjustments, the chamber said, could be achieved "without any ultimate sacrifice of government revenues."

The chamber said it would urge that a tax law be developed "for the primary purpose of producing revenue, and that punitive and reformed provisions should be avoided."

It also will recommend that congress simplify corporate taxation and ease the "devastating effects" of the estate tax "to avoid the breaking up of going business concerns in case of death."

TANNEHILL TAKEN TO ANGOLA PRISON

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—Sidney P. Tannehill, 46, former state employe and a local political leader, sentenced to serve 30 years in the state penitentiary on three charges of crimes against nature, was transferred from the Caddo parish jail today to the Angola prison farm.

Tannehill pleaded guilty to the three indictments returned against him by the Caddo parish grand jury, and was sentenced to serve 10 years on each charge by Judge Robert J. O'Neal in Caddo parish district criminal court. The sentences were made to run consecutively. In addition he was given a two-year sentence to the parish farm on juvenile court charges.

DEATHS

MRS. ALICE M'DONALD LEWIS

JONESBORO, La., May 20.—(Special)—Mrs. Alice McDonald Lewis, 56, died Friday at her home in Jonesboro after a short illness. Funeral services were held in the Jonesboro Methodist church at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, with Rev. A. D. George, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment was made in the McDonald cemetery. The funeral was under the direction of the Southern Funeral home of Jonesboro.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. H. M. Scroggins of Saline, and three brothers, Foster McDonald of Shreveport, Willis B. and R. J. McDonald of Jonesboro.

Mrs. Lewis was a descendant of one of the oldest families of Jackson parish.

ROBERT HOOD BARRY

Robert Hood Barry, 74, died yesterday morning at 1:50 o'clock at his home on the old Natchitoches road west of here.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Cheniere church with Rev. J. A. Sandifer officiating. Interment will follow in the Cheniere cemetery under the direction of the Dixie Funeral home.

Mr. Barry is survived by a daughter, Mrs. D. A. Bishop of Rockmart, Ga.; two brothers, C. J. Barry of Cedar Town, Ga., and D. W. Barry of Talapoosa, Ga., and a niece, Mrs. Mitchell Barry of West Monroe.

Sheriff Milton Coverdale last night announced the arrest of two young West Monroe men, Earl Brister, 24, and Warren Parker, 26, both of whom are being held on charges of larceny of three magnetos from the state highway department.

The young men were arrested yesterday by West Monroe police at the request of Sheriff Coverdale and surrendered to parish authorities soon after.

Sheriff Coverdale said both men, who had allegedly confessed the crime, went fishing in Cheniere creek last Thursday and came back by the state highway department's gravel pits near the creek.

They were said to have taken one magneto that was unattached, another that was fixed to a caterpillar tractor and another from a truck carrying a steam shovel. The men they drove to Little Rock, Ark., where they sold the magnetos to an automobile concern for $15 and returned here.

The magnetos were located and are being returned here.

GOVERNOR LECHE LEAVES WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche of Louisiana left here last night for Asheville, N. C., to visit Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, who is ill there.

He expected to leave for Louisiana today or tomorrow. During his three-day Washington visit he conferred with Senator Allen D. Ellender on appointment of a federal judge for the eastern district of Louisiana but made no announcement.

NATIONAL DEBT WEEK ANNOUNCED

Republicans Intend To Call Country's Attention To New Deal Spending

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Asserting they intended to concentrate the country's attention on New Deal spending, Republicans in congress proclaimed today a "national debt week."

Discussions in congress, in the press and on the radio during next week, an announcement through the Republican national committee said, will be designed to "arouse the American people to the dangers involved in the mounting national debt." New Deal spending, the committee said, has averaged almost $15,000 a minute since 1933 to run up a present total debt in excess of $40,000,000,000.

The Republican announcement came almost coincidently with the inception of a movement in congress to launch a new spending-lending program—with or without the blessing of President Roosevelt.

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, said that a group of congress members which usually supports the administration would sponsor a spending program even though President Roosevelt offered no proposals himself.

That they would encounter some Democratic opposition was indicated immediately.

Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, said that federal spending has been unsuccessful as an aid to recovery. A reduction in government expenditures would tend to encourage business, he predicted.

Tax talk came during the day from both congressional and business sources.

One report was that Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee and Mr. Roosevelt might agree on a compromise tax program which would cut the present 2 1-2 per cent undistributed profits tax to 1 1-2 per cent.

As outlined by informed persons, the compromise program would call for corporation taxes ranging from 17 1-2 to 19 per cent, depending upon the amount of dividends distributed to stockholders. The present rates are 16 1-2 to 19 per cent. Under the projected compromise, the increase in the base rate to 17 1-2 per cent would be offset by modification of other taxes on business.

Downtown, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced it intended to submit to congressional committees tax revision proposals made at the recent annual meeting of the business organization.

"There should be immediate revision of those taxes which, because of excessive rates or because of their hampering effects, are now acting as deterrents to business expansion," the chamber said in a periodical business review.

Certain tax adjustments, the chamber said, could be achieved "without any ultimate sacrifice of government revenues."

The chamber said it would urge that a tax law be developed "for the primary purpose of producing revenue, and that punitive and reformed provisions should be avoided."

It also will recommend that congress simplify corporate taxation and ease the "devastating effects" of the estate tax "to avoid the breaking up of going business concerns in case of death."

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man—(AP)—"To be king of an island" was the boyish longing of Robert Mitchell, 38-year-old Irishman. His dream will be fulfilled when he takes his post as farm warden on lonely Calf of Man island.

TANNEHILL TAKEN TO ANGOLA PRISON

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20.—(AP)—Sidney P. Tannehill, 46, former state employe and a local political leader, sentenced to serve 30 years in the state penitentiary on three charges of crimes against nature, was transferred from the Caddo parish jail today to the Angola prison farm.

Tannehill pleaded guilty to the three indictments returned against him by the Caddo parish grand jury, and was sentenced to serve 10 years on each charge by Judge Robert J. O'Neal in Caddo parish district criminal court. The sentences were made to run consecutively. In addition he was given a two-year sentence to the parish farm on juvenile court charges.

DEATHS

MRS. ALICE M'DONALD LEWIS

JONESBORO, La., May 20.—(Special)—Mrs. Alice McDonald Lewis, 56, died Friday at her home in Jonesboro after a short illness. Funeral services were held in the Jonesboro Methodist church at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, with Rev. A. D. George, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment was made in the McDonald cemetery. The funeral was under the direction of the Southern Funeral home of Jonesboro.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. H. M. Scroggins of Saline, and three brothers, Foster McDonald of Shreveport, Willis B. and R. J. McDonald of Jonesboro.

Mrs. Lewis was a descendant of one of the oldest families of Jackson parish.

ROBERT HOOD BARRY

Robert Hood Barry, 74, died yesterday morning at 1:50 o'clock at his home on the old Natchitoches road west of here.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Cheniere church with Rev. J. A. Sandifer officiating. Interment will follow in the Cheniere cemetery under the direction of the Dixie Funeral home.

Mr. Barry is survived by a daughter, Mrs. D. A. Bishop of Rockmart, Ga.; two brothers, C. J. Barry of Cedar Town, Ga., and D. W. Barry of Tallapoosa, Ga., and a niece, Mrs. Mitchell Barry of West Monroe.

Local Residents Plan Vacations As Summer Days Arrive

Many Children Will Enjoy Life At Camp

Winnie Graham Breard Writes Interestingly Of Events Which She Has Witnessed In Europe

AND suddenly it will be summer. There will be a hot, burning caress in the wind and sun, vibrant voices of salutatorians will rise to oratorical heights, school bells will be silenced, faculty members will fold their tents and steal away to restful vacation spots. Conclusively it's summer when youngsters look ahead to happy days at camp and parents are anticipating the rest and freedom from keeping constant vigil over their children's activities.

Monroe children will be scattered throughout the country in camps where whispering woods, peaceful meadows, mountain climbing, hiking, horseback riding and group sports will send them home physically improved and mentally alert. Psychologists point out that children's lives today are a vastly different matter than they were a generation back. A modern youngster's life reflects the high-tension era in which he lives. It is keyed to a faster tempo which, in turn, places a greater strain on sensitive nervous systems. Family vacations no longer provide the answer. Parents feel the need to keep close watch on their offspring and their well-intended supervising irritates the child, hampers his play and nullifies whatever benefits the vacation might engender. The net result, then is ultimately evidenced in frayed nerves and taxed tempers for all concerned.

Many parents are still scanning summer camp literature endeavoring to decide upon a definite location, but Polly Shotwell has already made her plans for the summer. She will rusticate at Hendersonville, N. C., while daughter Betty glories in the freedom of Camp Carlyle nearby. With her will be Katie Mae Thornhill, who will be near her niece, Martha Jane Hill, who will serve as a junior counsellor at Camp Carlyle. Martha Kilpatrick has partially made up her mind to send daughter Jane to Carlyle and, if so, will join her later in the summer in Hendersonville.

Camp Edgewater on the coast near Gulfport will be the mecca for several Monroe girls, including Adelaide Parker. Camp Windywood, just a stone's throw from home, is a popular rendezvous for a group of Monroe's boys and girls. It is of only two weeks' duration—just long enough for youngsters who might otherwise become homesick. Marguerite Lamkin is the most ardent advocate for Camp Windywood and is counting the days until camp opens.

Edith Meyer and daughter, Violet, are getting their vacation togs together for a three months' cruise. It sounds almost too good to be true and will take them from the ice-capped shores of Alaska to the sun-drenched beach of Honolulu. They will visit the fair in New York and San Francisco and will sail through the Panama canal. Their itinerary is so very exciting we will take pleasure in giving it in detail later.

Clifford and Laura Johnson promised their son Owen a trip to the world's fair in New York if he maintained a specific average in his school work during the year. He went them one better and handed in straight A's in every subject for the entire year. He deserves a trip to both fairs, to our way of thinking.

We might have had a beautiful picture of Coy Theus and her little cousin Mary Cook of Atlanta, for your delectation today if Coy hadn't encountered an army of big black ants while exploring a flower bed. She sat down on these unfriendly creatures just before the camera man appeared. Even her best friends would have been unable to recognize lovely little Coy after the smoke of battle had cleared away. Louise Cook promises to bring her small daughter back to Monroe at an early date and then these two beautiful little girls will pose together for their picture.

Letters from Winnie Graham Breard, who is attending school at Villa des Fougeres, Switzerland, were read with so much interest we have requested her uncle, Bob Breard, to let us have more of them for publication. One of her most recent letters tells of the European situation. She says: "Things are still rather precarious. We have air raid drills at regular intervals. Sirens shriek, planes drone and everyone makes himself as inconspicuous as possible. However, everyone has a more cheerful outlook on life. The newspapers here aren't nearly as alarming as those in the States. We heard Hitler's reply to Roosevelt. He was certainly clever, especially in evading the real issue.

"We certainly had some exciting experiences in Italy on the day Mussolini spoke. Soldiers were everywhere and people were in a frenzy over the impending crisis. Two of our girls were immediately called home and two others left for Switzerland. Those of us who remained had our bags all packed, as safe conduct was assured for only 12 hours. Even so we kept right on with our sightseeing. In Milan the street car lights were covered with blue paper—all lights in the hotels and all public places were dimmed. The whole city, in fact, took on an eerie aspect. For two hours no one was allowed on the streets. Expecting an air raid while in Florence, we were hurried into an enclosure for protection. All very exciting and thrilling.

"Before I return home I am going to take excursions to Castle of Chillon, Interlocken, Lucerne and Montreux. The flowers are gorgeous at this time. In Berne we will attend grand opera, Carmen. We will all dress formally and make the trip in a bus chartered for the occasion."

The open season for annual awards is again upon us and laurels are being placed on brows most fitted for the honor. At L. S. U. Maud S. Gill, who has been honored time and time again during the past year, was again honored when she was presented with a handsome loving cup for being the most understanding senior in the field of education. In making the presentation speech Dean Ives said she was selected for this honor by the entire faculty in the teachers' college.

Voice Recital Is Unusual Success

Estelle Sanders' Students Give Outstanding Program At Parish School Auditorium

A season of many happy musical memories will soon come to an official close. As a last grand gesture and tribute to Monroe's musical world was Estelle Sanders' presentation of her voice pupils in recital at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Tuesday night.

The program, an ambitious one, featuring considerable artistry in scenic effects, embraced some of the most beautiful and divine arias of love and romance since music began. From the opening number, a duet, "Will You Remember Me?" featuring Eloise Temple and Charles Bigger, seated beneath a full blown apple tree suggestive of early spring gardens, the program unfolded flawlessly and melodiously.

The setting for each number reflected the theme of the song, unusually realistic being "My Lover Is a Fisherman," with Barbara Sackett in picturesque costume seated on a white sand beach mending her net with light-house and deep blue sea in the distance.

"The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," sung by Mrs. L. J. Hayes, inspired a midnight scene with myriad stars twinkling overhead. She wore a costume of silver cloth with shining stars in her hair.

"If You Pass Through My Garden," was a delightful number sung by Mrs. J. Norman Coon, standing in a garden with roses tumbling over a low garden wall.

Mrs. David Carter's rendition of "Songs My Mother Taught Me," was poignantly sweet and appealing. She wore a gown reminiscent of a bygone era, with poke bonnet and drooping plume. An organ, associated with childhood days, formed the background.

An Indian maiden, Anne Goodwin, sang in lovely voice, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," against a background of dripping water and distant hills.

"From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," sung by Frank Strohm, and "Song of Ships," sung by J. C. Wallace, were two charming numbers with backgrounds of rolling sea and ships.

"On a Hill," featuring Miss Thelma Hargus, who possesses a beautiful voice, was a dramatic number and most brilliantly executed.

Prologue from Pagliacci by Jack May, "Italian Street Song," by Georgia Bell Goza, "Viennese Waltz," by Mary Kathryn Penuel, "Song of India," by Mary Jeannette Ziegler, and "Work," by Garland Shell, were all exceptionally high class numbers and enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience.

"The Trumpter," by Charles Chapman, was one of the highlights of the evening. In full uniform with high plumed hat against a background of stars and stripes, he sang this stirring song with forceful intonations, dramatizing the trumpet call.

"Prayer of a Norwegian Child," by Frances Baldwin, "Il Bacio," by Polly Cole, "Mattinata," by Charles Bigger and "Water Boy," by Edward Johnson, were charming numbers that rounded out the evening's program and were heartily applauded.

One of the most ambitious numbers, perhaps, was Eloise Temple's singing of Les Filles de Cadix. Wearing a Spanish costume of crimson satin and black lace, she sang divinely to the staccato notes of castanets and piano. Miss Temple's performance bordered on the professional with considerable poise and self-assurance valuable assets. Her voice was highly praised by a celebrated critic, Isaac Van Grove, who has coached noted members of the Metropolitan Opera company, including Grace Moore. Mrs. Sanders arranged an audition for her pupil, Miss Temple, during Mr. Van Grove's brief visit in Shreveport early this spring when he was en route from California to New York. He predicted a brilliant future for this young singer who has already soared to enviable heights under Mrs. Sanders' splendid instruction.

The appearance of Mrs. Sanders in "The Blue Danube" number was the high moment of the evening. Gowned in blue chiffon robe de style, with ruffled skirt and tight-fitting basque of blue satin, she sang divinely and with all the ease and assurance of the true artist. Mrs. Sanders is a finished musician in every sense of the word with years of study to her credit. Especially suited to her flute-like soprano voice was "The Blue Danube," the rendition of which created thunderous applause from an audience that packed the spacious auditorium. She returned to the stage for an encore, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," with the entire class humming the refrain in the most delightful manner.

Mr. W. D. Wamsley was responsible for creating the scenic effects. Before he commenced work he listened to the songs and then designed the proper setting. Deftly he worked out a starry night setting, a lighthouse on a rocky shore, a garden with roses climbing over a low wall, ships at sea and so on through the entire scheme of things. The result was something different than anything heretofore attempted in amateur recitals.

Miro Book Club Closes Year

Members of the Miro Book club closed their year books and bade each other adieu, fraternally, until next September when they met with Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, last week.

Mrs. M. M. Munholland reviewed Anne Lindbergh's, "Listen! The Wind." Mrs. J. B Collins gave current events, and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, guest speaker, talked on "What Club Women Are Doing Today." Mrs. Munholland said in part:

"'Listen! The Wind' has made a valuable contribution to aviation and has also succeeded in giving the reader an inspiring story of flying, its thrills, its perils, and its rewards. Mrs. Lindbergh's story is concerned with one of the earlier periods in the history of aviation. A period which lies a few years in the back-ground but which is already far past, so rapidly has aviation progressed.

"Delightfully, the author takes us into her confidence and introduces us to her 'little room' on the plane, she takes the reader with her in a remarkable degree all through the book.

"Outstanding is her description of the langourous island town Porto Praia where 'time has stopped.' It stops for the reader also as he considers with concern every anxious 'if' involved in getting away from Porto Praia before the timeless nature of the place catches the travelers and the wind imprisons them forever."

After the program Mrs. Whitfield invited her guests out to the beautiful spacious lawn, where barbecue chicken, hot from the pit, was served with all the delectable accompaniments.

Members and guests present were: Mesdames F. C. Bennett, J. D. Calhoun, J. B. Collins, S. M. Collins, C. O. Lindley, M. M. Munholland, W. G. Murphy, W. A. Whitfield, Louis Peters, A. D. Tisdale, John Pracher, A. L. Peters, J. T. Pugh, James M. Russell, A. S. Tidwell, H. M. Venable, J. E. Whitfield, C. R. Tidwell, W. A. Whitfield.

Hobbs Auxiliary To Meet Thursday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet in regular session Thursday night. Plans will be completed for the annual sale of Buddy Poppies on next Saturday.

Committees are busily engaged with plans and arrangements for the approaching encampment and reports will be submitted at this meeting. President Blackwell has received word that the national representative, Mrs. Mabel C. Tanner, national junior vice-president of Jefferson City, Mo., and Mrs. Rosalie W. Schill, president of the department of Louisiana, of New Orleans, will arrive the day before the opening of the encampment and will be present for the meeting to be held by the auxiliary on Thursday night, June 8. Invitations will be extended auxiliaries at Bastrop and Rayville and members from both auxiliaries are expected to be in attendance, as this will be the official visit of the department president. This will be Mrs. Schill's first visit to the Hobbs' auxiliary and members are anticipating much pleasure in having her as their guest also the honor of having the national junior vice-president as a visitor at a regular meeting.

The benefit bingo party sponsored by the auxiliary Monday night was well attended and a nice sum realized which will be used in the auxiliary's hospital work. The benefit party for the hospital fund will be at the home of Mrs. Aline B. Hunt on DeSiard road, Tuesday night, May 23.

Members are urged to attend as the reports for the year's work will be made at this time.

At Griffin's Studio

LOTS and lots of changing in the DeSiard street building lately. . . . New fronts . . . new buildings . . . new arrangements, etc. The very latest and newest news on this subject is . . . GRIFFIN'S STUDIO. . . . This firm is moving into its new building directly opposite the Paramount theater on or about the 27th of May. . . . They tell me there will be nothing to compare with this modern studio in this part of the country. . . . Many new facilities . . . new equipment and some new faces added. . . . Here is a tip . . . Griffin's is offering 15% off on photographs to graduates and one-half price on a 11x14 frame, and gee! I don't know what all. . . . Now is the time to save money and have those prized pictures framed that you have been thinking about for so long. . . . Hurry now because this offer is only good until they move.

At Sears

WELL, folks, all you need for play now is a little time . . . and a trip to Sears has taken all the work out of your games. . . . The sporting goods department is without a doubt a joy to shop in. Items such as croquet, tennis, golf and badminton, baseballs, soft balls, etc. The famous Trunk Flex Camera display will interest everyone. . . . This department manager took his valuable time to explain many things to me that I did not know about this marvelous camera . . . but he didn't seem to mind . . . even though I didn't buy one. . . . There were camping equipment, guns, bicycles, outboard motors, jugs, stoves, gas lanterns, etc. . . . Oh! goodness, don't fail to see the fishing tackle. . . . Positively everything. . . . The baseball equipment includes uniforms designed to your order and made to measure with any emblem or letter you want. Also the soft ball is the official one accepted by the Twilight league. Don't forget Sears is headquarters for bathing suits and beach equipment for every member of the family. . . . Space won't permit me to tell you of the many lovely ones I found but take a tip from me and see these suits.

At D. Masur & Sons

COME ON, fellows. . . . Time to dress up . . . Soon you'll be going to the fair . . . on a vacation . . . and you'll need new clothes. D. Masur is featuring a new suit called AIR-MORE which is wrinkle-proof —and are they popular! . . . About every person you see is shopping for the boy graduates on their list and D. Masur & Sons has the gift at the price you want to pay. Those new shirts by Manhattan called "Cool Manhattans" are honeys. Other suggestions are: pajamas, sport belts, socks, ties, fancy colored sport shirts, Swank sets, beach robes, swim suits, slack ensembles, monk sandals, inner and outer shirts, etc. I could rave on and on . . . but D. Masur wants you to drop by and see for yourself. Did you know this firm was now in its 50th year in Monroe?

At Orchid Shop

THANKS . . . to the Orchid Shop for the selection of cool, crisp cottons. . . . Monroe girls have looked a long time for just such styles . . . materials and prices. I found batiste, voiles, chiffons, laces, linens, etc., and in sizes 9 to 52. Really smart styles and fine wanted quality that you see in the most exclusive wardrobes. Price range is $5.95 to $7.95, and a simply adorable selection for $1.95 and $3.95. The salesladies at the Orchid Shop really know their business, too. . . . You should outfit yourself for the vacation and fair wearables . . . and I can't think of a better place to do this than the Orchid Shop . . . "Cotton Headquarters."

At R & A Jewelry Co.

R & A Jewelry Co., located in the Paramount Building, is about the most popular shop in town these days. . . . At almost any hour of the day . . . you can see graduates browsing in and out and many, many shoppers. You'll get all enthused and excited over the smart graduation and bride's gifts that the R & A Jewelry Co. is showing. . . . Many pieces of jewelry and other gift novelties are from foreign countries and are sure to delight the person who receives them. R & A makes gift buying so easy on their budget plan. You pay absolutely nothing down . . . and take 12 months to pay for your purchase. Don't disappoint the graduates on your list. . . . Give gifts from R & A if you want to make someone happy!

At Jitney Jungle Bakery

FOR SPECIAL parties such as graduation, bridal, etc. . . . The Jitney Jungle Bakery on North Fourth street and Stubbs is making "entertainment history" with its special catering service. The delicious cakes specially decorated for the occasion will make your party a success. Just name your party idea and your color scheme and Jitney Jungle can take care of it. For those dainties to serve that are really different you can find them all at Jitney Jungle on North Fourth and Stubbs. Try their buttered breakfast rolls, they're delicious.

At Style Shop

I WONDERED . . . and so would you of so many women with fur coats on their arm going into the Style Shop, 141 DeSiard, this week. I soon found out the reason. . . . Listen! Your fur coat can be safely stored for the summer months for only $1.50 against moths, fire, theft and other hazardous happenings that a pretty fur coat may come upon during its out of season months. This includes insurance for $100.00 valuation until 1940. Absolutely no payment until you take your fur coat out next season. Get busy girls, get the fur coat in storage at the Style Shop first thing Monday morning. Call 499 and a bonded messenger will pick it up for you . . . and remember, it's insured from the time it leaves your hands . . . $3.50 cleans and glazes your furs by the furrier's method.

At Ferd Levi's

DID YOU attend the opening of the Swayze natatorium last Sunday? . . . I noticed so many of the "merry swimmers" wearing Gantner swim suits. I found out the Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107 DeSiard street, are the dealers. I never saw such a beautiful colorful display of swim suits. For boys, girls, and grown-ups. Another nice feature of buying your swim suit at Ferd Levi's is the fact that you can get accessories to match, such as shoes, bags, beach balls, ear stoppers, and caps . . . and that reminds me, the caps are those famous United States Howland's that really keep your hair dry. If you need a new suit . . . you'll like the new Gantner.

At Sig Haas & Sons

THE mail man has been working overtime these days getting attractive graduation invitations to us. Surely you have boy graduates on your list and will be glad to know of the many new gift items I found at Sig Haas & Sons. Gifts that boys will be delighted to get. After all, wearable gifts are the wanted items and to know they come from the same store that "dad's gift" came from is another feature he will like. A few of the suggestions are: Imported linen handkerchiefs, Resilio neckwear, beautiful slack ensembles, sandals, gloves, swank sets, etc. This store is a clever one. . . . Listen to this: Every boy graduate in northeast Louisiana received a congratulation card from this firm with a beautiful 1939 gold belt buckle . . . which by the way has been an exclusive feature with Sig Haas & Sons for a number of years.

At White System

MONROE is celebrating in a big way these days because her schools are turning out more than 546 boy and girl graduates! . . . Families in every walk of life have a happy graduate in their home. Some of these families will no doubt feel that extra expense on the regular budget and naturally are confronted with that ever popular problem of "making both ends meet." The White System loaning service is the answer! . . . Convenient, dignified and easy. . . . When the fuss and fumes of "their day" are over . . . daughter and son will gladly seek employment and thereby help the family budget out to the extent of monthly payment on this helpful loan. See the White System first thing tomorrow. They are more than glad to relieve you of this financial strain.

At Dan Cohen's

GRADUATION time is dancing time and it is a hard-hearted girl who can resist the subtle flattery of the dancing charmers I saw in Dan Cohen's yesterday. . . . Allow me to tell you about a number or two! . . . There was a white silver, Oh! so smart . . . pure white slipper satins which are tinted free any shade you desire . . . and another that is simply breath taking. . . . A gold draped metallic called "Dancing Girl." Really, graduates, these shoes were designed and made for your graduation, baccalaureate and commencement use. Here is the fact that I have been trying to get around to all the time. . . . These gorgeous slippers will cost you only $1.99 and you should afford a pair to match every dress. Drop by Dan Cohen's . . . you'll agree this store is the store to buy shoes.

Local Residents Plan Vacations As Summer Days Arrive

Winnie Graham Breard Writes Interestingly Of Events Which She Has Witnessed In Europe

AND suddenly it will be summer. There will be a hot, burning caress in the wind and sun, vibrant voices of salutatorians will rise to oratorical heights, school bells will be silenced, faculty members will fold their tents and steal away to restful vacation spots. Conclusively it's summer when youngsters look ahead to happy days at camp and parents are anticipating the rest and freedom from keeping constant vigil over their children's activities.

Monroe children will be scattered throughout the country in camps where whispering woods, peaceful meadows, mountain climbing, hiking, horseback riding and group sports will send them home physically improved and mentally alert. Psychologists point out that children's lives today are a vastly different matter than they were a generation back. A modern youngster's life reflects the high-tension era in which he lives. It is keyed to a faster tempo which, in turn, places a greater strain on sensitive nervous systems. Family vacations no longer provide the answer. Parents feel the need to keep close watch on their offspring and their well-intended supervising irritates the child, hampers his play and nullifies whatever benefits the vacation might engender. The net result, then is ultimately evidenced in frayed nerves and taxed tempers for all concerned.

Many parents are still scanning summer camp literature endeavoring to decide upon a definite location, but Polly Shotwell has already made her plans for the summer. She will rusticate at Hendersonville, N. C., while daughter Betty glories in the freedom of Camp Carlyle nearby. With her will be Katie Mae Thornhill, who will be near her niece, Martha Jane Hill, who will serve as a junior counsellor at Camp Carlyle. Martha Kilpatrick has partially made up her mind to send daughter Jane to Carlyle and, if so, will join her later in the summer in Hendersonville.

Camp Edgewater on the coast near Gulfport will be the mecca for several Monroe girls, including Adelaide Parker. Camp Windywood, just a stone's throw from home, is a popular rendezvous for a group of Monroe's boys and girls. It is of only two weeks' duration—just long enough for youngsters who might otherwise become homesick. Marguerite Lamkin is the most ardent advocate for Camp Windywood and is counting the days until camp opens.

Edith Meyer and daughter, Violet, are getting their vacation togs together for a three months' cruise. It sounds almost too good to be true and will take them from the ice-capped shores of Alaska to the sun-drenched beach of Honolulu. They will visit the fair in New York and San Francisco and will sail through the Panama canal. Their itinerary is so very exciting we will take pleasure in giving it in detail later.

Clifford and Laura Johnson promised their son Owen a trip to the world's fair in New York if he maintained a specific average in his school work during the year. He went them one better and handed in straight A's in every subject for the entire year. He deserves a trip to both fairs, to our way of thinking.

We might have had a beautiful picture of Coy Theus and her little cousin Mary Cook of Atlanta, for your delectation today if Coy hadn't encountered an army of big black ants while exploring a flower bed. She sat down on these unfriendly creatures just before the camera man appeared. Even her best friends would have been unable to recognize lovely little Coy after the smoke of battle had cleared away. Louise Cook promises to bring her small daughter back to Monroe at an early date and then these two beautiful little girls will pose together for their picture.

Letters from Winnie Graham Breard, who is attending school at Villa des Fougeres, Switzerland, were read with so much interest we have requested her uncle, Bob Breard, to let us have more of them for publication. One of her most recent letters tells of the European situation. She says: "Things are still rather precarious. We have air raid drills at regular intervals. Sirens shriek, planes drone and everyone makes himself as inconspicuous as possible. However, everyone has a more cheerful outlook on life. The newspapers here aren't nearly as alarming as those in the States. We heard Hitler's reply to Roosevelt. He was certainly clever, especially in evading the real issue.

"We certainly had some exciting experiences in Italy on the day Mussolini spoke. Soldiers were everywhere and people were in a frenzy over the impending crisis. Two of our girls were immediately called home and two others left for Switzerland. Those of us who remained had our bags all packed, as safe conduct was assured for only 12 hours. Even so we kept right on with our sightseeing. In Milan the street car lights were covered with blue paper—all lights in the hotels and all public places were dimmed. The whole city, in fact, took on an eerie aspect. For two hours no one was allowed on the streets. Expecting an air raid while in Florence, we were hurried into an enclosure for protection. All very exciting and thrilling.

"Before I return home I am going to take excursions to Castle of Chillon, Interlocken, Lucerne and Montreux. The flowers are gorgeous at this time. In Berne we will attend grand opera, Carmen. We will all dress formally and make the trip in a bus chartered for the occasion."

The open season for annual awards is again upon us and laurels are being placed on brows most fitted for the honor. At L. S. U. Maud S. Gill, who has been honored time and time again during the past year, was again honored when she was presented with a handsome loving cup for being the most understanding senior in the field of education. In making the presentation speech Dean Ives said she was selected for this honor by the entire faculty in the teachers' college.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gorn left Saturday night for New York City to visit Mr. Gorn's parents and to attend the world's fair.

Estelle Sanders' Students Give Outstanding Program At Parish School Auditorium

A season of many happy musical memories will soon come to an official close. As a last grand gesture and tribute to Monroe's musical world was Estelle Sanders' presentation of her voice pupils in recital at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Tuesday night.

The program, an ambitious one, featuring considerable artistry in scenic effects, embraced some of the most beautiful and divine arias of love and romance since music began. From the opening number, a duet, "Will You Remember Me?" featurng Eloise Temple and Charles Bigger, seated beneath a full blown apple tree suggestive of early spring gardens, the program unfolded flawlessly and melodiously.

The setting for each number reflected the theme of the song, unusually realistic being "My Lover Is a Fisherman," with Barbara Sackett in picturesque costume seated on a white sand beach mending her net with light-house and deep blue sea in the distance.

"The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," sung by Mrs. L. J. Hayes, inspired a midnight scene with myriad stars twinkling overhead. She wore a costume of silver cloth with shining stars in her hair.

"If You Pass Through My Garden," was a delightful number sung by Mrs. J. Norman Coon, standing in a garden with roses tumbling over a low garden wall.

Mrs. David Carter's rendition of "Songs My Mother Taught Me," was poignantly sweet and appealing. She wore a gown reminiscent of a bygone era, with poke bonnet and drooping plume. An organ, associated with childhood days, formed the background.

An Indian maiden, Anne Goodwin, sang in lovely voice, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," against a background of dripping water and distant hills.

"From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," sung by Frank Strohm, and "Song of Ships," sung by J. C. Wallace, were two charming numbers with backgrounds of rolling sea and ships.

"On a Hill," featuring Miss Thelma Hargus, who possesses a beautiful voice, was a dramatic number and most brilliantly executed.

Prologue from Pagliacci by Jack May, "Italian Street Song," by Georgia Bell Goza, "Viennese Waltz," by Mary Kathryn Penuel, "Song of India," by Mary Jeannette Ziegler, and "Work," by Garland Shell, were all exceptionally high class numbers and enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience.

"The Trumpter," by Charles Chapman, was one of the highlights of the evening. In full uniform with high plumed hat against a background of stars and stripes, he sang this stirring song with forceful intonations, dramatizing the trumpet call.

"Prayer of a Norwegian Child," by Frances Baldwin, "Il Bacio," by Polly Cole, "Mattinata," by Charles Bigger and "Water Boy," by Edward Johnson, were charming numbers that rounded out the evening's program and were heartily applauded.

One of the most ambitious numbers, perhaps, was Eloise Temple's singing of Les Filles de Cadix. Wearing a Spanish costume of crimson satin and black lace, she sang divinely to the staccato notes of castanets and piano. Miss Temple's performance bordered on the professional with considerable poise and self-assurance valuable assets. Her voice was highly praised by a celebrated critic, Isaac Van Grove, who has coached noted members of the Metropolitan Opera company, including Grace Moore. Mrs. Sanders arranged an audition for her pupil, Miss Temple, during Mr. Van Grove's brief visit in Shreveport early this spring when he was en route from California to New York. He predicted a brilliant future for this young singer who has already soared to enviable heights under Mrs. Sanders' splendid instruction.

The appearance of Mrs. Sanders in "The Blue Danube" number was the high moment of the evening. Gowned in blue chiffon robe de style, with ruffled skirt and tight-fitting basque of blue satin, she sang divinely and with all the ease and assurance of the true artist. Mrs. Sanders is a finished musician in every sense of the word with years of study to her credit. Especially suited to her flute-like soprano voice was "The Blue Danube," the rendition of which created thunderous applause from an audience that packed the spacious auditorium. She returned to the stage for an encore, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," with the entire class humming the refrain in the most delightful manner.

Mr. W. D. Wamsley was responsible for creating the scenic effects. Before he commenced work he listened to the songs and then designed the proper setting. Deftly he worked out a starry night setting, a lighthouse on a rocky shore, a garden with roses climbing over a low wall, ships at sea and so on through the entire scheme of things. The result was something different than anything heretofore attempted in amateur recitals.

Miro Book Club Closes Year

Members of the Miro Book club closed their year books and bade each other adieu, fraternally, until next September when they met with Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, last week.

Mrs. M. M. Munholland reviewed Anne Lindbergh's, "Listen! The Wind," Mrs. J. B. Collins gave current events, and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, guest speaker, talked on "What Club Women Are Doing Today." Mrs. Munholland said in part:

"'Listen! The Wind' has made a valuable contribution to aviation and has also succeeded in giving the reader an inspiring story of flying, its thrills, its perils, and its rewards. Mrs. Lindbergh's story is concerned with one of the earlier periods in the history of aviation. A period which lies a few years in the back-ground but which is already far past, so rapidly has aviation progressed.

"Delightfully, the author takes us into her confidence and introduces us to her 'little room' on the plane, she takes the reader with her in a remarkable degree all through the book.

"Outstanding is her description of the langourous island town Porto Praia where 'time has stopped.' It stops for the reader also as he considers with concern every anxious "if" involved in getting away from Porto Praia before the timeless nature of the place catches the travelers and the wind imprisons them forever."

After the program Mrs. Whitfield invited her guests out to the beautiful spacious lawn, where barbecue chicken, hot from the pit, was served with all the delectable accompaniments.

Members and guests present were: Mesdames F. C. Bennett, J. D. Calhoun, J. B. Collins, S. M. Collins, C. O. Lindley, M. M. Munholland, W. G. Murphy, W. A. Whitfield, Louis Peters, A. D. Tisdale, John Pracher, A. L. Peters, J. T. Pugh, James M. Russell, A. S. Tidwell, H. M. Venable, J. E. Whitfield, C. R. Tidwell, W. A. Whitfield.

Hobbs Auxiliary To Meet Thursday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet in regular session Thursday night. Plans will be completed for the annual sale of Buddy Poppies on next Saturday.

Committees are busily engaged with plans and arrangements for the approaching encampment and reports will be submitted at this meeting. President Blackwell has received word that the national representative, Mrs. Mabel C. Tanner, national junior vice-president of Jefferson City, Mo., and Mrs. Rosalie W. Schill, president of the department of Louisiana, of New Orleans, will arrive the day before the opening of the encampment and will be present for the meeting to be held by the auxiliary on Thursday night, June 8. Invitations will be extended auxiliaries at Bastrop and Rayville and members from both auxiliaries are expected to be in attendance, as this will be the official visit of the department president. This will be Mrs. Schill's first visit to the Hobbs' auxiliary and members are anticipating much pleasure in having her as their guest also the honor of having the national junior vice-president as a visitor at a regular meeting.

The benefit bingo party sponsored by the auxiliary Monday night was well attended and a nice sum realized which will be used in the auxiliary's hospital work. The benefit party for the hospital fund will be at the home of Mrs. Aline B. Hunt on DeSiard road, Tuesday night, May 23.

Members are urged to attend as the reports for the year's work will be made at this time.

At Orchid Shop

THANKS . . . to the Orchid Shop for the selection of cool, crisp cottons. . . . Monroe girls have looked a long time for just such styles . . . materials and prices. I found batiste, voiles, chiffons, laces, linens, etc., and in sizes 9 to 52. Really smart styles and fine wanted quality that you see in the most exclusive wardrobes. Price range is $5.95 to $7.95, and a simply adorable selection for $1.95 and $3.95. The salesladies at the Orchid Shop really know their business, too. . . . You should outfit yourself for the vacation and fair wearables . . . and I can't think of a better place to do this than the Orchid Shop . . . "Cotton Headquarters."

At R & A Jewelry Co.

R & A Jewelry Co., located in the Paramount Building, is about the most popular shop in town these days. . . . At almost any hour of the day . . . you can see graduates browsing in and out and many, many shoppers. You'll get all enthused and excited over the smart graduation and bride's gifts that the R & A Jewelry Co. is showing. . . . Many pieces of jewelry and other gift novelties are from foreign countries and are sure to delight the person who receives them. R & A makes gift buying so easy on their budget plan. You pay absolutely nothing down . . . and take 12 months to pay for your purchase. Don't disappoint the graduates on your list. . . . Give gifts from R & A if you want to make someone happy!

At Jitney Jungle Bakery

FOR SPECIAL parties such as graduation, bridal, etc. . . . The Jitney Jungle Bakery on North Fourth street and Stubbs is making "entertainment history" with its special catering service. The delicious cakes specially decorated for the occasion will make your party a success. Just name your party idea and your color scheme and Jitney Jungle can take care of it. For those dainties to serve that are really different you can find them all at Jitney Jungle on North Fourth and Stubbs. Try their buttered breakfast rolls, they're delicious.

At Style Shop

I WONDERED . . . and so would you of so many women with fur coats on their arm going into the Style Shop, 141 DeSiard, this week. I soon found out the reason. . . . Listen! Your fur coat can be safely stored for the summer months for only $1.50 against moths, fire, theft and other hazardous happenings that a pretty fur coat may come upon during its out of season months. This includes insurance for $100.00 valuation until 1940. Absolutely no payment until you take your fur coat out next season. Get busy girls, get the fur coat in storage at the Style Shop first thing Monday morning. Call 499 and a bonded messenger will pick it up for you . . . and remember, it's insured from the time it leaves your hands . . . $3.50 cleans and glazes your furs by the furrier's method.

At Ferd Levi's

DID YOU attend the opening of the Swayze natatorium last Sunday? . . . I noticed so many of the "merry swimmers" wearing Gantner swim suits. I found out the Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107 DeSiard street, are the dealers. I never saw such a beautiful colorful display of swim suits. For boys, girls, and grown-ups. Another nice feature of buying your swim suit at Ferd Levi's is the fact that you can get accessories to match, such as shoes, bags, beach balls, ear stoppers, and caps . . . and that reminds me, the caps are those famous United States Howland's that really keep your hair dry. If you need a new suit . . . you'll like the new Gantner.

At Sig Haas & Sons

THE mail man has been working overtime these days getting attractive graduation invitations to us. Surely you have boy graduates on your list and will be glad to know of the many new gift items I found at Sig Haas & Sons. Gifts that boys will be delighted to get. After all, wearable gifts are the wanted items and to know they come from the same store that "dad's gift" came from is another feature he will like. A few of the suggestions are: Imported linen handkerchiefs, Resillo neckwear, beautiful slack ensembles, sandals, gloves, swank sets, etc. This store is a clever one. . . . Listen to this: Every boy graduate in northeast Louisiana received a congratulation card from this firm with a beautiful 1939 gold belt buckle . . . which by the way has been an exclusive feature with Sig Haas & Sons for a number of years.

At White System

MONROE is celebrating in a big way these days because her schools are turning out more than 546 boy and girl graduates! . . . Families in every walk of life have a happy graduate in their home. Some of these families will no doubt feel that extra "expense" on the regular budget and naturally are confronted with that ever popular problem of "making both ends meet." The White System loaning service is the answer! . . . Convenient, dignified and easy. . . . When the fuss and fumes of "their day" are over . . . daughter and son will gladly seek employment and thereby help the family budget out to the extent of monthly payment on this helpful loan. See the White System first thing tomorrow. They are more than glad to relieve you of this financial strain.

At Dan Cohen's

GRADUATION time is dancing time and it is a hard-hearted girl who can resist the subtle flattery of the dancing charmers I saw in Dan Cohen's yesterday. . . . Allow me to tell you about a number or two! . . . There was a white silver. Oh! so smart . . . pure white slipper satins which are tinted free any shade you desire . . . and another that is simply breath taking. . . . A gold draped metallic called "Dancing Girl." Really, graduates, these shoes were designed and made for your graduation, baccalaureate and commencement use. Here is the fact that I have been trying to get around to all the time. . . . These gorgeous slippers will cost you only $1.99 and you should afford a pair to match every dress. Drop by Dan Cohen's . . . you'll agree this store is the store to buy shoes.

Miss Virginia Orr Becomes Bride Of Chester Tucker Ferguson At Bastrop

Wedding Solemnized At Baptist Church

Rev. H. M. Bennett Performs Ceremony In Presence Of Large Concourse Of Friends

A marriage characterized by exceeding beauty of detail was that of Miss Virginia Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Orr of Bastrop and Mr. Chester Tucker Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ferguson, solemnized Saturday evening, May 13, at seven-thirty o'clock at the Bastrop Baptist church, with the pastor, Rev. H. M. Bennett, performing the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Myriad cathedral tapers and picturesque Easter lilies were grouped against a background of southern smilax and woodwardia fern. Seven-branched candelabra flanked with immense baskets overflowing with Easter lilies formed the central background.

While the guests were being seated a pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. J. B. Spear, pianist. She also accompanied Miss [illegible] Temple of Monroe who sang in beautiful voice, "Oh Promise Me" and "Because." Miss Justine Dorman played Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional. Mendelssohn's march was used for the recessional. During the service the strains of MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose" softly echoed through the church.

The wedding party approached the chancel from either aisle. The ushers were followed by the four bridesmaids, the maid of honor and the matron of honor. The ring bearer and the flower girls [illegible] preceded the bride who walked down the aisle with her father and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man.

The bride was a beautiful figure in a distinctive bridal gown of ivory satin fashioned along princess lines. The bodice was designed with long tight sleeves and [illegible] a heart-shaped neckline outlined with a cluster of pearls with a Marie Antoinette collar of [illegible] lace. The skirt, which was very full, fell into a long court train. Her veil of illusion was worn off the face and held in place with a band of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried an exquisite shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley tied with white satin ribbon falling in long streamers.

She observed the old tradition of "something old, something new, something borrowed" by wearing an antique [illegible] belonging to one of her friends and carrying a beautiful Mexican handmade handkerchief.

The attendants of the bride included her sister, Miss Nancy Orr, as maid of honor; Mrs. Stanley Maxwell of Cane Brake, La., as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids, Mrs. Pete [illegible], sister of the groom; Miss Margaret May of Monroe; Miss Jean Page and Miss [illegible]. Flower girls were Misses Brooks Ellen Oliver and Harriet Loftin. The attendants all wore [illegible] frocks of [illegible] net over matching taffeta [illegible] and [illegible]. The [illegible] skirts of the bridesmaids [illegible] of blue velvet ribbon and the skirts of the maid [illegible] of honor were [illegible] backs. The bridesmaids carried full [illegible] bouquets of [illegible] roses and [illegible]. The maid of honor and the matron of honor carried similar bouquets [illegible]. They also wore [illegible]. The flower girls were dressed similar to the bridesmaids with [illegible] roses in their hair. They carried French baskets with blue tulle bows. The small ring-bearer, J. B. Rawlinson III, clad in a white suit, bore the rings on a satin pillow.

Mr. Ferguson had as his best man Mr. Frank Dawson of Springhill. The ushers were Messrs. George Orr, brother of the bride, Evans Turpin, James Weber, Billy Loftin and O. L. Bowman.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents where the bridal party and the bride's mother, Mrs. M. V. Orr, stood to receive the guests.

Mrs. Orr wore a model frock of black lace with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Ferguson, mother of the groom, was gowned in a lovely blue chiffon with a corsage of pink carnations.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with pink lilies and sweet peas. The handsome wedding gifts were on display and viewed by the guests.

The bride's table was covered with an imported linen cloth and adorned with a four-tier wedding cake embossed in white roses and lilies of the valley and surmounted with a wedding ring from which was suspended a wedding bell and a miniature bride and bridegroom. At either end of the table flower containers were filled with white sweet peas and phlox. Crystal candelabra supported lighted white tapers.

Individual ices and cakes embossed with lilies of the valley were served by a group of young girls: Betty Dunaree, Betty Volk, Lillian Quinn, Phyllis Rose Seligman, Kathryn Mullis and Elizabeth Allen.

Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson, Sr., Mrs. Ed Shaw, Mrs. Brooks Oliver and Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson, Jr., assisted in the serving. Mrs. Nancy Loftin presided at the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left for a wedding trip to Hot Springs and upon their return will make their home in Bastrop, where a new home on Pratt street awaits them.

The bride's traveling costume was of navy blue with a short coat. Accessories were in fuchsia. She wore a corsage of orchids.

The bride, a member of a prominent north Louisiana family, is a great favorite in the younger social circles of Bastrop. She received her early education at Bastrop High school, later attending Northeast Junior college at Monroe and Ouachita college at Arkadelphia, Ark. She is at present employed in the office of the Louisiana Light and Power company.

Mr. Ferguson is a graduate of Bastrop High school and completed a business course at the Chillicothe Business college. He is associated with the United Gas company of Bastrop.

Out-of-town guests attending the nuptials were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ferguson of Beekman, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ferguson of Gallion, Fletcher Harrison of El Dorado, Ark., Mrs. Gathright of Natchitoches, H. H. Horning of Mobile, Ala., Stanley Maxwell of Cane Brake, Jack May, Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. George Temple and Mr. Frank May of Monroe.

Neville Senior Play Scheduled

The Neville senior class will present "The Family Upstairs," a three-act comedy, under the direction of Dorothea L. Flake at the Neville auditorium Thursday at 8 p.m. It is the story of a typical average American family.

Joe Heller is a street-car inspector on [illegible] a week. Louise is his eldest daughter, an office worker who hasn't managed to find a husband yet. Her mother's one anxiety is to get her married. [illegible] father's ambition is to get [illegible] Willie to work. Sister Annabelle has one passion, and that is getting out of doing her piano lessons. [illegible] at dinner that a [illegible] the parlor for [illegible] family doesn't mind [illegible]. Louise has never had a [illegible] before. Charles Grant comes, a fine upstanding fellow, [illegible] after embarrassed introductions is left alone with Louise. They are in love with each other, and before the evening is out they are engaged. But mother puts her finger in the domestic pie. She drops hints and tells Grant that $100 a week is too little for Louise to live on. She tells the neighbors what a wonderful fellow Louise has won and that he is a big banker (in reality he gets $40 a week). And the game of bluff goes on. Having heard all this "propaganda," Grant begins to wonder what sort of family he is getting into. There is an unhappy interlude when the engagement seems to be off, and then Grant's mother appears on the scene. Mrs. Grant is just the bluffer that Mrs. Heller is, and both see through all the bluff and [illegible] them.

The cast includes: C. E. Wiggins, Joe Heller, the father; Claris Creighton, Emma Heller, the mother; Joy Pettit, Louise Heller, the elder sister; Zach Daugherty, Willie Heller, the brother; Mary Lena Bell [illegible], Annabelle, the [illegible] sister; Donald Stewart, Charles Grant; Mary Ann Marshall, Mrs. Grant; [illegible], Billy Canterbury, Herbert [illegible]; Ann Cartwright, Miss Calahan. Publicity, Sidney Loeb, Raleigh Poulos; properties, Leslie Abrams; Jean Carter, stage manager; Dallas Wales, Arthur Auerbach, scenery; Raleigh Poulos, Dallas Wales, Ed McGee, lighting; Zack Daughtry, Jack Lanahan, business manager; Nancy Scoggins, assistant to the director, Raleigh Poulos.

Miss Jackson Weds William Holloman

A large number of friends are interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Joyce Jackson of Clarks and Mr. William Holloman of Olla. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends at Rayville on May 10.

Mrs. Holloman, who is the daughter of Mr. J. W. Jackson of Clarks, was crowned queen of the May day festival held by the Clarks school on the evening preceding her marriage, and a few days later was graduated from the Clarks school. She is a popular member of the younger set of Clarks.

Mr. Holloman is the son of Mrs. Daisy D. Holloman and the late Dr. H. S. Holloman of Olla. After his graduation from the Olla-Standard High school, he was graduated from a business college in Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloman are now at home to their friends in Olla, where Mr. Holloman is engaged in the mercantile business.

The attendants of the bride included her sister, Miss Nancy Orr as maid of honor, Mrs. Stanley Maxwell of Cane Brake, La., as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids Mrs. Billy Loftin, sister of the groom, Miss Stella Margaret May of Monroe, Miss Jean Page and Miss Elizabeth Orr. Flower girls were Misses Brooks Ellen Oliver and Harriet Loftin. The attendants all wore colonial frocks of ivory net over matching taffeta, with tight bodices and hoop skirts. The floor-length skirts of the bridesmaids bore bands of blue velvet ribbon while the skirts of the maid of honor and matron of honor were encircled in pink velvet bands. The bridesmaids carried old-fashioned bouquets of pink roses fluted with pink maline. The maid of honor and the matron of honor carried similar bouquets with blue maline. They all wore chaplets of pink roses. The flower girls wore dresses similar to the bridesmaids with sweetheart roses in their hair. They carried French baskets with blue tulle bows. The small ring-bearer, J. B. Rawlinson III, clad in a white suit, bore the rings on a satin pillow.

Mr. Ferguson had as his best man Mr. Frank Dorman of Springhill. The ushers were Messrs. George Orr, brother of the bride, Evans Turpin, James Weber, Billy Loftin and O. L. Bowman.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents where the bridal party and the bride's mother, Mrs. M. V. Orr, stood to receive the guests.

Mrs. Orr wore a model frock of black lace with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Ferguson, mother of the groom, was gowned in a lovely blue chiffon with a corsage of pink carnations.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with pink lilies and sweet peas. The handsome wedding gifts were on display and viewed by the guests.

The bride's table was covered with an imported linen cloth and adorned with a four-tier wedding cake embossed in white roses and lilies of the valley and surmounted with a wedding ring from which was suspended a wedding bell and a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. William Stokes and children of Lynchburg, Va., are guests in the home of Mrs. Stokes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Clarke. Mrs. Stokes has many friends in this city, where she is remembered as Lily Blanks Clarke, who are complimenting her daily with social courtesies of an informal nature.

Mrs. Stokes spent several days in Memphis en route to Monroe, where she attended the National Junior league convention as a delegate from the Lynchburg league, of which she is president.

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Jeanette Forte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Forte of Monroe, to Mr. Jerome Danna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Danna of Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized in the St. Matthew's Catholic church, Thursday morning, June 1, at 8 o'clock. A reception and dance will be held Thursday night, following the wedding, at the Columbus social hall with the bride's mother hostess.

Friends and relatives are invited to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes are spending their vacation motoring in northern Vermont. Mr. Holmes as customary each year enjoys fishing for salmon at this particular time.

Neville Senior Play Scheduled

The Neville senior class will present "The Family Upstairs," a three-act comedy under the direction of Dorathra L. Fluke, at the Neville auditorium Thursday at 8 p.m. It is the story of a typical average American home.

Joe Heller is a street-car inspector on $42.50 a week. Louise is his eldest daughter, an office worker who hasn't managed to land a husband yet. Her mother's one anxiety is to get her married, while father's ambition is to get son Willie to work. Sister Annabelle has one passion, and that is getting out of doing her piano lessons. Louise announces at dinner that a young man is calling on her later and she would like to have the parlor for herself if the family doesn't mind. Sensation! Louise has never had a young man "caller" before. Charles Grant comes—a fine upstanding fellow—and after embarrassed introductions, is left alone with Louise. They are in love with each other, and before the evening is out they are engaged. But mother puts her finger in the domestic pie. She drops hints and tells Grant that $100 a week is too little for Louise to live on. She tells the neighbors what a wonderful fellow Louise has won and that he is a big banker (in reality he geat $40 a week). And the game of bluff goes on. Having heard all this "propaganda," Grant begins to wonder what sort of family he is getting into. There is an unhappy half-hour when the engagement seems to be off, and then Grant's mother appears on the scene. Mrs. Grant is just the bluffer that Mrs. Heller is, and both see through all the bluffs and discount them.

The cast includes: C. E. Wiggins, Joe Heller, the father; Clovis Creighton, Emma Teller, the mother; Joy Pettit, Louise Heller, the elder sister; Zach Daughty, Willie Heller, the brother; Mary Lena Ballard, Annabelle, the baby sister; Donald Stewart, Charles Grant; Marillyn Marshall, Mrs. Grant, his mother; Billy Canterbury, Herbert, his brother; Ada Cartwright, Miss Calahan. Publicity, Sidney Loeb, Raleigh Poulos; properties, Leslie Abrams, Jean Carter; stage manager, Dallas Wales, Arthur Auerback; scenery, Raleigh Poulos, Dallas Wales, Ed McGee; lighting, Zack Daughtry, Jack Lanaham; business manager, Nancy Scoggins; assistant to the director, Raleigh Poulos.

Miss Jackson Weds William Holloman

A large number of friends are interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Joyce Jackson of Clarks and Mr. William Holloman of Olla. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends at Rayville on May 10.

Mrs. Holloman, who is the daughter of Mr. J. W. Jackson of Clarks, was crowned queen of the May day festival held by the Clarks school on the evening preceding her marriage, and a few days later was graduated from the Clarks school. She is a popular member of the younger set of Clarks.

Mr. Holloman is the son of Mrs. Daisy D. Holloman and the late Dr. H. S. Holloman of Olla. After his graduation from the Olla-Standard High school, he was graduated from a business college in Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloman are now at home to their friends in Olla, where Mr. Holloman is engaged in the mercantile business.

Monroe Club Women End Successful Year; Luncheon Proves Charming Event

Instructive Program Is Given At Affair

Mrs. J. R. White Ends Term As President Of Welcome Branch; Interesting Talks Made

We are always coming to the end of things—the end of the day, the end of the year. This month marks the end of the club season in Monroe and many a festive affair is being held as a farewell gesture.

Prominent among these beautiful affairs was the luncheon on the Virginia hotel roof garden Wednesday with members of the Welcome Branch Book club bidding each other adieu until they meet again next September.

There is always a tinge of sadness when goodbyes are spoken and especially when one is bidding goodbye to a club president who has served as diligently and as conscientiously as Mrs. J. R. White.

Mrs. White was seated at the flower banked table occupied by other club officers. The central decor a mound of waxen magnolia blossoms, was suggestive of the month of May. Queen Anne's lace encircled the board. Sweet peas in all the rainbow colors were arranged with exceeding artistry by Mrs. Jack Masur on the long tables flanking the speaker's table. Corsages of sweet peas for every guest formed a chain of color encircling the table.

While the guests were assembling Miss Ivo Wilson played several piano selections, "Beautiful Blue Danube" by Johann Strauss and "Ciribiribim." Mrs. J. L. Whitfield played "Deep Purple" and "Barcarole" from "The Tales of Hoffman." The assembly stood and sang "Louisiana" in unison.

Mrs. G. D. Holland pronounced the invocation.

Mrs. White, the club president, in her introductory talk said in part: "This is one of the happiest occasions of my life to welcome all of you here today. During this year, as in past years, Welcome Branch has lived up to its purpose by welcoming, from time to time, guests that have added charm to our meetings.

"Today, we are especially honored by having, in addition to many charming guests, the only junior club in Monroe which we like to term the "club baby."

"This club was organized last fall by a committee appointed for the purpose. Mrs. H. V. Collins was chairman and later Mrs. Harold Deloney was appointed club president."

Mrs. White in addressing the members present in this new club said: "We are all glad to have you here with us today and since I am unable to find words to express that feeling I am hoping this little verse will convey my message—

"Junior Gavel," we salute you!
Proud as we can be.
You're the newest twig that's growing
On our family tree!"

The response was given by Mrs. Olan Black. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Fifth district president of L. F. W. clubs, delighted the audience with a humorous reading.

Mrs. Fagan Cox, president of the Twentieth Century Book club which is the oldest club in this city, spoke directly to the juniors, making a brief talk encouraging their club interests.

Mrs. Cox is Fifth district chairman of L. F. W. club of cancer control.

Several musical selections interspersed the serving of the delicious four-course luncheon.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon sang in splendid voice, "Calm as the Night" by Bohm and "Dark Eyes" by Salami. Mrs. J. L. Whitfield's piano selection, "By the Mountain Springs" by Bohm, was beautifully rendered.

Mrs. F. Dean Selig entertained with two violin numbers "Thais," (Meditation) by J. Massenet and Fritz Kreisler's "Liebesfreud" which emphasized the wide range of a competent technique and beautiful musical expression. Mrs. E. E. Lawson was the accompanist for both.

After this delightful luncheon, Mrs. White presided over a brief business session. Distribution of the new year book was an exciting moment. Mrs. Zell Smith, the new president, was introduced.

The following members and their guests were present: Mrs. Lewis Langford, Mrs. J. R. White and guest, Mrs. Mrs. N. D. Callaway of Hermitage, Ark., Mrs. F. Dean Selig and guest, Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Mrs. H. L. Deloney and guest, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John C. Best, Mrs. H. B. Staples, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, Mrs. J. R. Ramey, Mrs. Jack Masur and guest, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. H. E. Thain, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. C. M. Koontz, Jr., Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. B. M. Murphy, Mrs. G. G. Holland, Mrs. R. H. B. Gibson, Mrs. J. Thomas Eubank, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. J. Noble White and guest, Mrs. H. W. Virgin of Chicago, Mrs. C. A. Young and guest, Mrs. C. E. Boehler of New Orleans, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. J. Lloyd Webb, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Henson S. Coon, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. S. Swain, Mrs. A. S. Gunter and guest, Mrs. S. B. Smith, Miss Ivo Wilson, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Paul Herron and guest, Mrs. A. B. Conger of Oak Ridge, Mrs. Fagan Cox, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

PROMINENT CLUB WOMEN HOSTESSES AT LUNCHEON

D. B. S. Enjoys Boating Party

Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Kelly announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Clifford Kennedy of West Monroe. The wedding was solemnized Saturday, May 12, in the presence of intimate friends and relatives at the Methodist church with Rev. V. D. Morris, pastor, officiating. The couple will make their home in West Monroe where Mr. Kennedy is employed with the Brown Paper Mill.

Friends will regret to hear that Billy Armstrong is confined to his home, 310 Morris, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident Saturday morning.

Members of the Junior Gavel club extend an invitation to all club women of the city to attend their tea at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday, May 25, between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Friends regret the continued illness of Miss Elizabeth Langford at her home on Austin avenue, West Monroe.

Because of the unqualified success of the 17th annual encampment, United Spanish War veterans, department of Louisiana, held in the Twin Cities on May 12, 13, 14, the camp and auxiliary will give a party at the regular meeting place, 109 1-2 South Grand street, on Tuesday, May 23, at 8 p.m.

All members of the camp and auxiliary are invited. Refreshments will be served, and all indications point to an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Claud Harrison and mother, Mrs. W. O. Campbell, have returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where Mrs. Campbell was greatly benefitted by a course of medicinal baths.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gordan of Marion, Ala., are the guests of Mrs. Gordan's sister, Mrs. Bridger Thornhill and Mr. Thornhill.

Friends of Lieutenant Robert W. Germany, Jr., will be interested in news of his recent transfer to the Great Lakes Training school where he will remain for three months. He will arrive in Monroe September 1 for a three weeks' visit with his parents and then embark for the west coast of China for a period of three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Medaries announce the arrival of a daughter, Glenda Sue, at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, May 15.

Mrs. H. B. Beauchamp and son, Bobby, of Shreveport, were the guests last week of Mrs. Guy Barr of Sterlington.

Mrs. E. T. Huntsberry and Mrs. D. N. Barron motored to Oklahoma City where they will attend the Southern Baptist convention. Later they will motor to Satanta, Kans., where Mr. Barron will join them.

Barkdull Faulk

The Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. held its last meeting of the school year Thursday with the president, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, presiding.

After the regular business session, Mrs. Cranford read a message from the Bulletin on "Service" and Mrs. George Varino gave an interesting review of the address made by Dr. Knudsen of Peabody college at the state convention.

An announcement was made that the Sunshine Hill Billy Boys from KWKH, together with other entertainment, would be presented at the Neville High school auditorium June 6 at 8 p.m.

A certificate which was presented the Barkdull Faulk school for fulfilling all P.-T. A. obligations during the 1938-1939 term was exhibited to the members.

A past president's pin was presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, with words of appreciation for her fine leadership and service.

Mrs. Couch formally installed the new officers for 1939-1940, as follows: Mrs. Cranford, president; Mrs. F. Pettit, first vice-president; Mrs. Johnson, second vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Murphy, secretary; Mrs. Stuart, treasurer.

Mrs. Cranford appointed new committees to serve during her term of office.

Mrs. Martin's second grade pupils won the attendance prize.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria during the social hour.

Central Grammar

The final meeting of the school year of the Central Grammar P.-T. A. was held in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. E. G. Courtney, presiding. This official expressed her appreciation for the excellent cooperation that has been accorded by both teachers and parents during the past year.

The meeting was devoted to a resume of talks that featured the recent P.-T. A. state convention held in Monroe.

Mrs. Virginia Robinson discussed an address of Larry Fox, delivered at the convention. Mr. Fox, member of the faculty of Louisiana Tech, in which he stressed the evils of both excessive use of liquor and of tobacco. He said that the use of tobacco by women had been encouraged by clever and insidious advertising.

Mrs. Eulalia McCoy discussed the address of Charles Knudson of the George Peabody college faculty, when his theme was "In Defense of Youth." She said that the speaker stressed the need of employment, of economic security, need of guidance, of vocational training, of hygiene, of community planning and a well balanced school program. The address was regarded as one of the outstanding features of the P.-T. A. state convention.

Miss Eleona Brinsmade discussed the address at the convention of Mrs. Warren Mabrey of Cape Girardeau, Mo., national secretary of the P.-T. A. Mrs. Mabrey stressed the importance of the smaller P.-T. A. groups which derive their strength from the larger P.-T. A. organizations. The large and small units dovetail into a general plan for the whole, it was said, and in this way are mutually helpful. Through the national P.-T. A. the child labor law was made effective through national legislation and other benefits have thus been derived, Miss Brinsmade quoted Mrs. Mabrey to have stated.

Reports were rendered by chairmen of the various groups, all of which indicated that the year had been one of unusual success.

Ouachita Parish

A distinct feature of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A. program is the presentation of the first grade in their yearly program. Such was the special program for the last meeting of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A. Miss Olive Gunby presented her first graders in their rhythm band, playing two selections, "Dutch Dance" and "Amaryllis." They sang two selections, concluding with a spirited rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Another important part of the program was a talk on "Band Rating," by Mr. Walter Minnear, band director of Ouachita parish school, and the presentation of the junior band in several numbers, played in a most professional manner.

Final reports were made by retiring officers, and chairman of standing committees. The election of officers for the year of 1939-40 took place as follows:

President, Mrs. R. W. Church; first vice-president, Mrs. Ben Turner; second vice-president, Mrs. William Rodriguez; secretary, Mrs. John L. Schneider; treasurer, Mrs. Carl McHenry.

A delegate's report on the recent P.-T. A. convention was given by Mrs. William Rodriguez.

Sherrouse

The Sherrouse P.-T. A. met Wednesday to install new officers and outline plans for the coming year. Mrs. Fagan Cox, first state vice-president, conducted this service. Mrs. Cox stated that it was rather unique in that she helped to organize the Sherrouse P.-T. A. and that she was then conducting her first installation service.

The following officers were installed: President, Mrs. C. C. Lindley; vice-president, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham; secretary, Mrs. J. Leon Hurt; treasurer, Miss Eloise Cann; historian, Mrs. M. Heidenreich.

Mrs. C. C. Lindley, the incoming president, appointed the following committees: Program, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham; finance, Mrs. J. D. [illegible]; publication, Mrs. W. W. Montgomery; hospitality, Mrs. W. F. [illegible]; membership, Mrs. W. Stevens; publicity, Mrs. E. J. Brown; summer round-up, Mrs. W. M. [illegible].

Mrs. Harold Riggs and Mrs. M. Heidenreich were elected as members of the Twin-City council. Reports from the state convention were heard and also a report from the [illegible] summer round-up chairman.

The following program was then rendered: "America," by the group; scripture reading, Mrs. W. B. Mangham; president's message, Mrs. E. J. Brown; report of national convention, Mrs. Fagan Cox.

As a token of appreciation the P.-T. A. presented each teacher with a very lovely piece of pottery. At the close of the program delicious refreshments of punch and cookies embossed in P.-T. A. colors were served.

Monroe Club Women End Successful Year; Luncheon Proves Charming Event

Instructive Program Is Given At Affair

Mrs. J. R. White Ends Term As President Of Welcome Branch; Interesting Talks Made

We are always coming to the end of things—the end of the day, the end of the year. This month marks the end of the club season in Monroe and many a festive affair is being held as a farewell gesture.

Prominent among these beautiful affairs was the luncheon on the Virginia hotel roof garden Wednesday with members of the Welcome Branch Book club bidding each other adieu until they meet again next September.

There is always a tinge of sadness when goodbyes are spoken and especially when one is bidding goodbye to a club president who has served as diligently and as conscientiously as Mrs. J. R. White.

Mrs. White was seated at the flower banked table occupied by other club officers. The central decor a mound of waxen magnolia blossoms, was suggestive of the month of May. Queen Anne's lace encircled the board. Sweet peas in all the rainbow colors were arranged with exceeding artistry by Mrs. Jack Masur on the long tables flanking the speaker's table. Corsages of sweet peas for every guest formed a chain of color encircling the table.

While the guests were assembling Miss Ivo Wilson played several piano selections, "Beautiful Blue Danube" by Johann Strauss and "Ciribiribim." Mrs. J. L. Whitfield played "Deep Purple" and "Barcarole" from "The Tales of Hoffman." The assembly stood and sang "Louisiana" in unison.

Mrs. G. D. Holland pronounced the invocation.

Mrs. White, the club president, in her introductory talk said in part: "This is one of the happiest occasions of my life to welcome all of you here today. During this year, as in past years, Welcome Branch has lived up to its purpose by welcoming, from time to time, guests that have added charm to our meetings.

"Today, we are especially honored by having, in addition to many charming guests, the only junior club in Monroe which we like to term the "club baby."

"This club was organized last fall by a committee appointed for the purpose. Mrs. H. V. Collins was chairman and later Mrs. Harold Deloney was appointed club president."

Mrs. White in addressing the members present in this new club said: "We are all glad to have you here with us today and since I am unable to find words to express that feeling I am hoping this little verse will convey my message—

"Junior Gavel," we salute you!
Proud as we can be.
You're the newest twig that's growing
On our family tree!"

The response was given by Mrs. Olan Black. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Fifth district president of L. F. W. clubs, delighted the audience with a humorous reading.

Mrs. Fagan Cox, president of the Twentieth Century Book club which is the oldest club in this city, spoke directly to the juniors, making a brief talk encouraging their club interests.

Mrs. Cox is Fifth district chairman of L. F. W. club of cancer control.

Several musical selections interspersed the serving of the delicious four-course luncheon.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon sang in splendid voice, "Calm as the Night" by Bohm and "Dark Eyes" by Salami. Mrs. J. L. Whitfield's piano selection, "By the Mountain Springs" by Bohm, was beautifully rendered.

Mrs. F. Dean Selig entertained with two violin numbers "Thais," (Meditation) by J. Massenet and Fritz Kreisler's "Liebesfreud" which emphasized the wide range of a competent technique and beautiful musical expression. Mrs. E. E. Lawson was the accompanist for both.

After this delightful luncheon, Mrs. White presided over a brief business session. Distribution of the new year book was an exciting moment. Mrs. Zell Smith, the new president, was introduced.

The following members and their guests were present: Mrs. Lewis Langford, Mrs. J. R. White and guest, Mrs. Mrs. N. D. Callaway of Hermitage, Ark., Mrs. F. Dean Selig and guest, Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Mrs. H. L. Deloney and guest, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John C. Best, Mrs. H. B. Staples, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, Mrs. J. R. Ramey, Mrs. Jack Masur and guest, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. H. E. Thain, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. C. M. Koontz, Jr., Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. B. M. Murphy, Mrs. G. G. Holland, Mrs. R. H. B. Gibson, Mrs. J. Thomas Eubank, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. J. Noble White and guest, Mrs. H. W. Virgin of Chicago, Mrs. C. A. Young and guest, Mrs. C. E. Boehler of New Orleans, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. J. Lloyd Webb, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Henson S. Coon, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. S. Swain, Mrs. A. S. Gunter and guest, Mrs. S. B. Smith, Miss Ivo Wilson, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Paul Herron and guest, Mrs. A. B. Conger of Oak Ridge, Mrs. Fagan Cox, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

Junior Gavel members present were Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. Gordon Elliot and guest, Mrs. L. C. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Kelly announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Clifford Kennedy of West Monroe. The wedding was solemnized Saturday, May 12, in the presence of intimate friends and relatives at the Methodist church with Rev. V. D. Morris, pastor, officiating. The couple will make their home in West Monroe where Mr. Kennedy is employed with the Brown Paper Mill.

Friends will regret to hear that Billy Armstrong is confined to his home, 310 Morris, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident Saturday morning.

Members of the Junior Gavel club extend an invitation to all club women of the city to attend their tea at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday, May 25, between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Friends regret the continued illness of Miss Elizabeth Langford at her home on Austin avenue, West Monroe.

Because of the unqualified success of the 17th annual encampment, United Spanish War veterans, department of Louisiana, held in the Twin Cities on May 12, 13, 14, the camp and auxiliary will give a party at the regular meeting place, 109 1-2 South Grand street, on Tuesday, May 23, at 8 p.m.

All members of the camp and auxiliary are invited. Refreshments will be served, and all indications point to an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Claud Harrison and mother, Mrs. W. O. Campbell, have returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where Mrs. Campbell was greatly benefitted by a course of medicinal baths.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gordan of Marion, Ala., are the guests of Mrs. Gordan's sister, Mrs. Bridger Thornhill and Mr. Thornhill.

Friends of Lieutenant Robert W. Germany, Jr., will be interested in news of his recent transfer to the Great Lakes Training school where he will remain for three months. He will arrive in Monroe September 1 for a three weeks' visit with his parents and then embark for the west coast of China for a period of three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Medaries announce the arrival of a daughter, Glenda Sue, at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, May 15.

Mrs. H. B. Beauchamp and son, Bobby, of Shreveport, were the guests last week of Mrs. Guy Barr of Sterlington.

Mrs. E. T. Huntsberry and Mrs. D. N. Barron motored to Oklahoma City where they will attend the Southern Baptist convention. Later they will motor to Satanta, Kans., where Mr. Barron will join them.

Parent-Teacher News

Barkdull Faulk

The Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. held its last meeting of the school year Thursday with the president, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, presiding.

After the regular business session, Mrs. Cranford read a message from the Bulletin on "Service" and Mrs. George Varino gave an interesting review of the address made by Dr. Knudsen of Peabody college at the state convention.

An announcement was made that the Sunshine Hill Billy Boys from KWKH, together with other entertainment, would be presented at the Neville High school auditorium June 6 at 8 p.m.

A certificate which was presented the Barkdull Faulk school for fulfilling all P.-T. A. obligations during the 1938-1939 term was exhibited to the members.

A past president's pin was presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, with words of appreciation for her fine leadership and service.

Mrs. Couch formally installed the new officers for 1939-1940, as follows: Mrs. Cranford, president; Mrs. F. Pettit, first vice-president; Mrs. Johnson, second vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Murphy, secretary; Mrs. Stuart, treasurer.

Mrs. Cranford appointed new committees to serve during her term of office.

Mrs. Martin's second grade pupils won the attendance prize.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria during the social hour.

Central Grammar

The final meeting of the school year of the Central Grammar P.-T. A. was held in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. E. G. Courtney, presiding. This official expressed her appreciation for the excellent cooperation that has been accorded by both teachers and parents during the past year.

The meeting was devoted to a resume of talks that featured the recent P.-T. A. state convention held in Monroe.

Mrs. Virginia Robinson discussed an address of Larry Fox, delivered at the convention. Mr. Fox, member of the faculty of Louisiana Tech, in which he stressed the evils of both excessive use of liquor and of tobacco. He said that the use of tobacco by women had been encouraged by clever and insidious advertising.

Mrs. Eulalia McCoy discussed the address of Charles Knudson of the George Peabody college faculty, when his theme was "In Defense of Youth." She said that the speaker stressed the need of employment, of economic security, need of guidance, of vocational training, of hygiene, of community planning and a well balanced school program. The address was regarded as one of the outstanding features of the P.-T. A. state convention.

Miss Eleona Brinsmade discussed the address at the convention of Mrs. Warren Mabrey of Cape Girardeau, Mo., national secretary of the P.-T. A. Mrs. Mabrey stressed the importance of the smaller P.-T. A. groups which derive their strength from the larger P.-T. A. organizations. The large and small units dovetail into a general plan for the whole, it was said, and in this way are mutually helpful. Through the national P.-T. A. the child labor law was made effective through national legislation and other benefits have thus been derived, Miss Brinsmade quoted Mrs. Mabrey to have stated.

Reports were rendered by chairmen of the various groups, all of which indicated that the year had been one of unusual success.

Ouachita Parish

A distinct feature of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A. program is the presentation of the first grade in their yearly program. Such was the special program for the last meeting of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A. Miss Olive Gunby presented her first graders in their rhythm band, playing two selections, "Dutch Dance" and "Amaryllis." They sang two selections, concluding with a spirited rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Another important part of the program was a talk on "Band Rating," by Mr. Walter Minniear, band director of Ouachita parish school, and the presentation of the junior band in several numbers, played in a most professional manner.

Final reports were made by retiring officers, and chairman of standing committees. The election of officers for the year of 1939-40 took place as follows:

President, Mrs. R. W. Church; first vice-president, Mrs. Ben Turner; second vice-president, Mrs. William Rodriguez; secretary, Mrs. John L. Schneider; treasurer, Mrs. Carl McHenry.

A delegate's report on the recent P.-T. A. convention was given by Mrs. William Rodriguez.

Sherrouse

The Sherrouse P.-T. A. met Wednesday to install new officers and outline plans for the coming year. Mrs. Fagan Cox, first state vice-president, conducted this service. Mrs. Cox stated that it was rather unique in that she helped to organize the Sherrouse P.-T. A. and that she was then conducting her first installation service.

The following officers were installed: President, Mrs. C. C. Lindley; vice-president, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham; secretary, Mrs. J. Leon Hunt; treasurer, Miss Eloise Cann; historian, Mrs. M. Heidenreich.

Mrs. C. C. Lindley, the incoming president, appointed the following committees: Program, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham; finance, Mrs. J. D. Calhoun; publication, Mrs. W. W. Montgomery; hospitality, Mrs. W. F. Hemler; membership, Mrs. W. Stevens; publicity, Mrs. E. J. Brown; summer round-up, Mrs. W. M. Love.

Mrs. Harold Riggs and Mrs. M. Heidenreich were elected as members of the Twin-City council. Reports from the state convention were heard and also a report from the Sherrouse summer round-up chairman.

The following program was then rendered: "America," by the group; scripture reading, Mrs. W. B. Mangham; president's message, Mrs. E. J. Brown; report of national convention, Mrs. Fagan Cox.

As a token of appreciation the P.-T. A. presented each teacher with a very lovely piece of pottery. At the close of the program delicious refreshments of punch and cookies embossed in P.-T. A. colors were served.

Review Club Ends Successful Year

All Literary Clubs Of City Guests At Musical Program Given At Northeast Junior College

The last meeting of the year at the Junior college was a festive one with members of all literary clubs of the city in attendance.

The program, featuring Louisiana writers and composers, was most interesting with the president, Mrs. Walter Rhodes, presiding with customary graciousness. She said: "While studying about our own Louisiana and more recently of Louisiana composers, we have not been unmindful of our own talented artists and musicians. With exceeding pleasure and great pride we present today a program made up entirely of Monroe artists, Mrs Florence Z[illegible] A[illegible]ton, Mrs. H. P. Durrett, Mrs. Norman Coon, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Miss Martha Cook and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale."

These artists contributed vocal and instrumental numbers and dramatic readings.

Later the entire assemblage was invited to remain for refreshments. Mrs. Rhodes presided over the crystal punch bowl placed at one end of the refreshment table. Beautiful flowers were everywhere in evidence, forming a decorative background for the beautifully gowned guests and the hostesses in their summery gowns.

Extending courtesies were Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs D. M. Moore, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. R. E. Major, Sr., Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mrs DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. Henry Colbert, Mrs. W. J. Veasey and Mrs. H. P. Durrett.

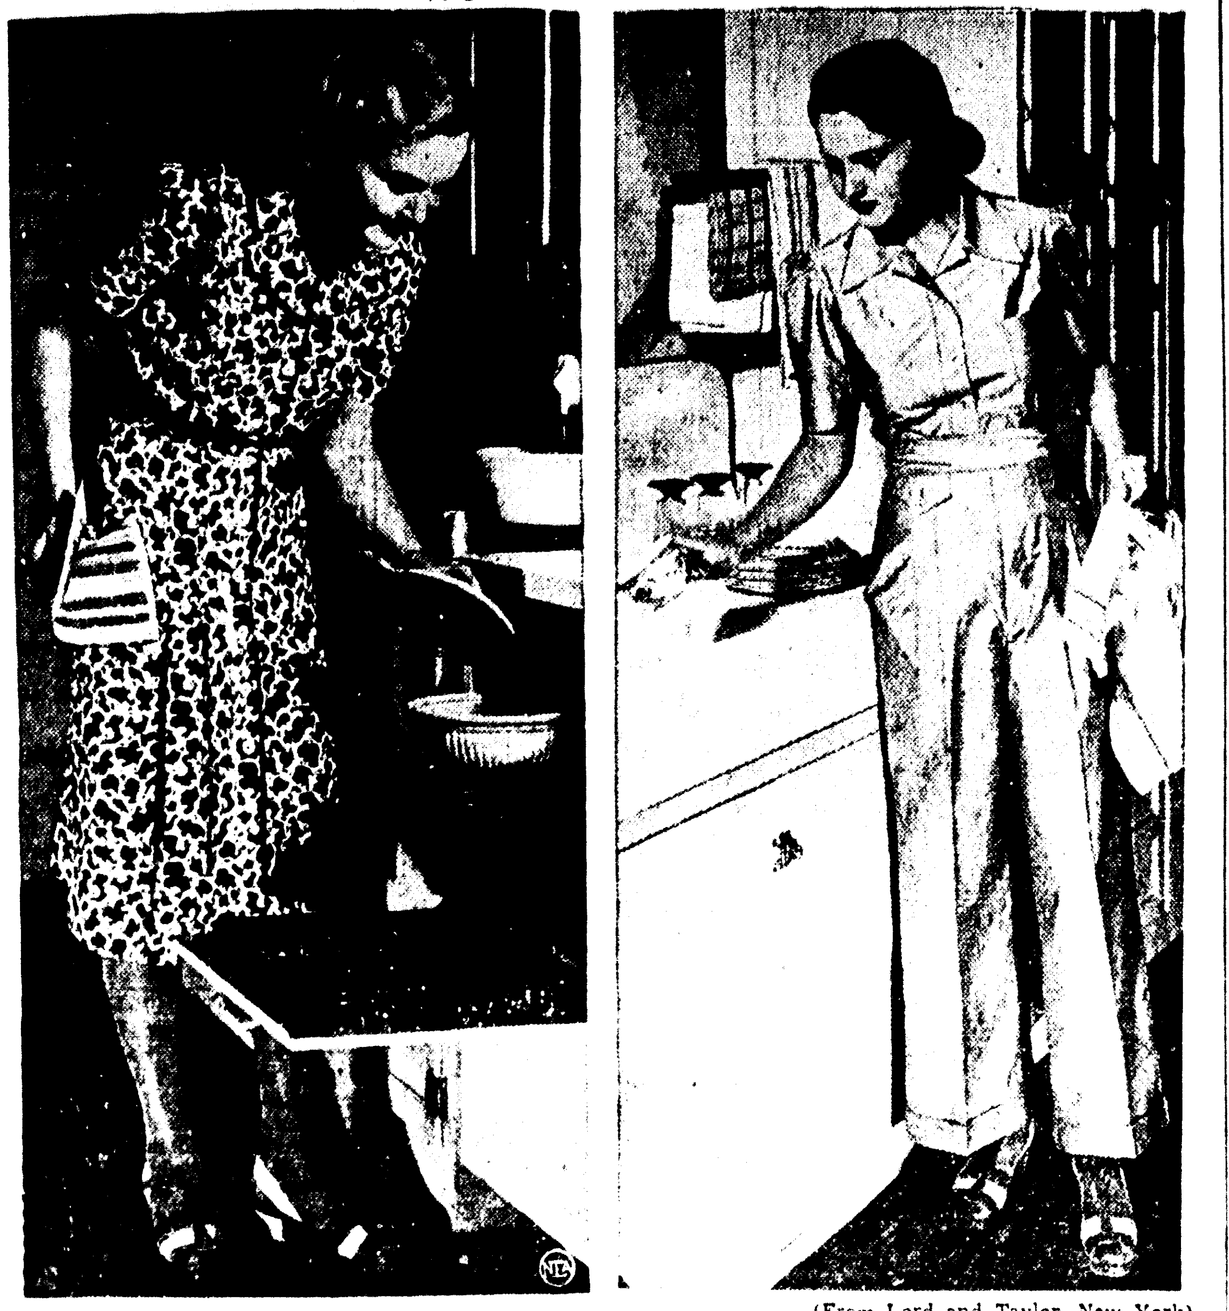
'WORKING CLOTHES'



(From Lord and Taylor, New York)

Washable, crisp looking, practical to wear around the house, yet trim enough to wear in the car when you play chauffeur to your husband or children, the new house frock at left, above, is of navy and white printed muslin. There are white buttons down the front and the hemline is slightly flared. Washing the breakfast dishes and straightening up the house, this smart young matron wears slacks and a shirt of cotton surah in a soft shade of China blue. The shrink-proof and color-fast cotton fabric has a high luster resembling the sheen of silk surah.

Review Club Ends Successful Year

All Literary Clubs Of City Guests At Musical Program Given At Northeast Junior College

Louisiana, land of story, song and romance, supplied a most interesting subject for the year's study for members of the Review club who turned to the last page of the year book with exceeding regret.

The last meeting of the year at the junior college was a festive one with members of all literary clubs of the city in attendance.

The program, featuring Louisiana writers and composers, was most interesting with the president, Mrs. Walter Rhodes, presiding with customary graciousness. She said: "While studying about our own Louisiana and more recently of Louisiana composers, we have not been unmindful of our own talented artists and musicians. With exceeding pleasure and great pride we present today a program made up entirely of Monroe artists, Mrs. Florence Zeigler Allbritton, Mrs. H. P. Durrett, Mrs. Norman Coon, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Miss Martha Cook and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale."

These artists contributed vocal and instrumental numbers and dramatic readings.

Later the entire assemblage was invited to remain for refreshments. Mrs. Rhodes presided over the crystal punch bowl placed at one end of the refreshment table. Beautiful flowers were everywhere in evidence, forming a decorative background for the beautifully gowned guests and the hostesses in their summery gowns.

Extending courtesies were Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. R. E. Major, Sr., Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. Henry Colbert, Mrs. W. J. Veasey and Mrs. H. P. Durrett.

Mangham

The Junior Literary club of Mangham entertained the Alto Cultural club and Mangham Senior Literary club at a banquet held in the high school cafeteria. The welcome address was given by Mrs. Nathan Blair, president of the Junior club. The response was given by Miss Virgie Evans, president of Mangham Senior club. Mrs. F. M. Terral was toastmistress.

Guest speakers were Mrs. W. D. Cotton of Rayville, whose subject was "Living in the House You Built," T. A. Judd, principal of the high school who spoke on "The Man In The Home."

Miss Bessie Noble gave a toast "To The Man In The Home."

Musical numbers rendered during the course of the evening were a xylophone solo by Mrs. B. N. Hixon, violin solo by Miss Beulah Curry, and a vocal solo by Mrs. C. Noble Hatch.

Those present were Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. Alice Carraway, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr., Miss Virgie Evans, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Bessie Hixon, Mrs. E. T. Exhibit Sponsored By Art Association

Twenty-Five Nationally Known Water Colors Shown At Y. W. C. A. Affair Last Week

One of the most interesting and most important water color exhibits ever held in Monroe took place last week at the Y. W. C. A., where members of the Monroe Art association sponsored the showing of 25 pictures from nation-wide aqua-chromatic water colors exhibit.

The pictures were hung to the best possible advantage with lights arranged at correct distance and correct angle. Thus the lights and shadows were accentuated properly.

Members of the art association, in lovely evening attire, welcomed the guests, one hundred or more, and led them through the gallery. They were well informed on the various subjects and explained the use of water colors and the aqua-chromatic process.

Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., president, was wearing a white marquisette evening model with Alencon lace. Miss Mary Bergevin was wearing a summery gown of blue and pink net. Mrs. H. M. James wore a blue linen semi-evening model. Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher wore a pink starched chiffon model. Mrs. Childress Armstrong wore a black lace model. Miss Ivo Wilson wore a purple crepe model with gold sequin jacket. Miss Genevieve Gremillion wore a blue and beige crepe model.

An atmosphere of festivity was created in the spacious reception suite by the placement of garden flowers in wide, flaring urns. Iced fruit frappe was served during the receiving hours from a crystal bowl imbedded in pink roses and placed at one end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. The central decor. was an artistic arrangement of blue corn flowers, pink roses and Queen Ann's lace.

Oak Grove

A mother-daughter program was given in the Oak Grove High school auditorium recently. D. W. McBride, principal, gave a brief talk; Mrs. W. H. Keller, president of the local parent-teacher association, spoke on the subject, "What It Means to Be A Mother." Melba Lee responded with "What It Means to Be a Daughter," and J. H. Thomas with "What It Means to Be a Son."

After the program the guests were invited to the home economics department, where they were served coffee.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the church with the leader, Mrs. J. T. Williams, presiding. Following the program the hostess, Mrs. D. M. Copeland, assisted by Mrs. Clayton Gunter and Mrs. Spencer Farmer, served assorted sandwiches, fruit punch and mints to Mrs. J. D. Herring, Mrs. L. L. James, Mrs. Frank McCormick, Mrs. J. S. Pollard, Mrs. Mary B. Thompson, Mrs. J. T. Williams, Mrs. B. H. Bolding and Miss Edna Caroline Briggs. Both circles will meet for a program meeting next at the church.

The Women's Department club met at the residence of Mrs. W. M. Dollerhide, with Mrs. J. J. Joyce, Jr., as co-hostess. The program was as follows: "Front, Back and All-Around Gardens," Mrs. E. B. Emmerich; "Removing Stains," Mrs. D. W. Kelly; duet, "Ye Merry Birds," Mrs. A. C. Monroe and Mrs. J. D. Brown, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. D. B. Fiske.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. Byargeon, served angel food cake, strawberries and ice cream to Mrs. E. O. Burnham, Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mrs. E. B. Emmerich, Mrs. D. B. Fiske, Mrs. W. L. Gill, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, Mrs. J. S. Lee, Mrs. A. S. Mayo, Mrs. A. C. Monroe, Mrs. Shelly Nordgren, Mrs. H. M. O'Connell, Mrs. W. A. Ross, Mrs. Spencer Farmer, Mrs. Clayton Gunter and Mrs. D. M. Copeland.

Hurry! Hurry!

— there's still time to Win a Prize in the National Child Culture Contest!

We don't want to see you "miss out" on that interesting Child Culture Contest sponsored by W. W. Kimball Co., Manufacturers of Fine Pianos and Pipe Organs, Chicago, now celebrating their Eighty-second Anniversary. Your time for entering is getting mighty short.

All you have to do is write a simple, natural letter of 50 words or less—and you have a real chance to win one of the Kimball Pianos that are being given away as prizes, or one of the many Cash Prizes.

The rules are simple; the Contest is really easy—and you can get all of the facts from your free copy of the Contest Circular we will give you when you call. But come in soon. The Kimball Child Culture Contest absolutely closes on midnight, June 12th, 1939—and all entries must be in the hands of the Contest Manager by that time. This is the last call!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
Corner North Second Street And Auburn Avenue

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 21, 1939.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels." (Isa. 61.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is the expression of soul. The Indians caught some glimpses of the underlying reality, when they called a certain beautiful lake 'the smile of the Great Spirit.'" (p. 477.)

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
North Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Ferren Hayward, Rector

This Sunday after Ascension day is called Expectation Sunday. Christ had said: "I will not leave you orphans," and had promised to send the Comforter. But on this Sunday, the Lord had gone up to glory, and the Comforter had not yet come. So, then, for the time being, they were orphans, but they looked for the fulfillment of the promise, and continued in prayer and supplication. They were expecting the Comforter, and hence this day is known in the church as "Expectation Sunday," or "the Sunday after Ascension."

The services for this Sunday are as follows: the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m.; church school at 9:30 a. m., and a choral celebration of the Eucharist and sermon at 10:45 a. m., with the rector preaching the sermon. Evensong will be said and sermon preached at St. David's, Rayville, at 4 p. m.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
'The Church With The Lighted Steeple'
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

Rev. W. L. Doss, Jr., our presiding elder, will fill our pulpit at the morning service, using for his sermon theme, "Faith." Rev. Scott will preach at the evening hour. You are cordially invited to worship with this congregation on all occasions. Our church school classes are open to all who desire an hour of Christian fellowship, worship and Bible study each Sabbath morning. There is a well organized class for every age group. Plans are being made for the vacation church school to be held in June.

The Women's Missionary society will meet Tuesday afternoon in circles. The adult council will meet Wednesday evening at 7:45 at the home of Mrs. Clyde Culver, 211 South Fourth street.

On May 30th, under the auspices of the choir of this church, the Southwestern university chorus of Georgetown, Tex., will appear in concert at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium. Tickets are now on sale with all groups in the church cooperating. Funds derived from this concert will be used for a payment of the organ.

"The Strong and the Weak" will be the theme of the discussion on next Thursday evening as the minister continues the review of the book, "The Meaning of Service," by Dr. Fosdick. The discussion will deal with the responsibility of the strong toward the weak and the justification of this responsibility.

The district conference of the Women's Missionary society will be held at this church on Tuesday, May 30th, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Representatives from the churches throughout the Monroe district will be in attendance.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
Dr. C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

The pastor has just returned from a memorable trip to New York and the World's fair, taking his son and "Cooter" Lambert for presentation over a nation-wide broadcast the past week. He will preach at both services at church today.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

"Mother's Day" was observed at Gordon avenue last Sunday with appropriate services at both hours. At 11:00 a.m. the pastor delivered a message on the "Influence and Power of Mother's Love." Special songs, "My Mother's Bible" and "My Mother's Prayer" were sung. At the evening hour the young people rendered a very impressive pageant on "Mothers of Great Men."

Today the church school exercises will open at 9:45 a.m. and the regular worship service will follow at 11:00 o'clock with Rev. W. F. Mays, Jr., bringing the message. At the same time the pastor will hold service at Claibourn Methodist church. Rev. Mays will preach at the evening hour at Claibourn and the pastor will hold his regular service at Gordon Avenue at 7:45, speaking on the subject, "The Methodist View of a World Religion."

We cordially invite all who can do so to meet with us and cooperate in advancing the interest of our Lord's kingdom.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The attendance at our worship services has been gratifying. To the Lord be all the praise! To Him belongs the credit, for He is the source of spiritual progress and church loyalty. And yet as we think about it, many of our co-religionists are absent from the Sabbath school, the morning and evening worship hours, and the mid-week prayer and praise period. There is a reason. Shall the faithful give up? Shall we follow the lines many of us are disposed to follow? It is our privilege to pray and work and think and live so that every member of our faith may cooperate to the end that good may come to all. Jesus understood. He said: "Let your light so shine before men that they in seeing your good works will be constrained to glorify your Father who is in Heaven."

God is depending on us. We can labor with Him. He expects us to be devout and fervent. And He will give us the victory.

Our themes this Sabbath are "Spiritual Enthusiasm Sustained" and "Prayer, a Real Power in Human Experience."

You are urged to attend the church school. The Bible is studied and applied to life. A welcome awaits you.

Exhibit Sponsored By Art Association

Twenty-Five Nationally Known Water Colors Shown At Y. W. C. A. Affair Last Week

One of the most interesting and most important water color exhibits ever held in Monroe took place last week at the Y. W. C. A., where members of the Monroe Art association sponsored the showing of 25 pictures from nation-wide aqua-chromatic water colors exhibit.

The pictures were hung to the best possible advantage with lights arranged at correct distance and correct angle. Thus the lights and shadows were accentuated properly.

Members of the art association, in lovely evening attire, welcomed the guests, one hundred or more, and led them through the gallery. They were well informed on the various subjects and explained the use of water colors and the aqua-chromatic process.

Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., president, was wearing a white marquisette evening model with Alencon lace. Miss Mary Bergevin was wearing a summery gown of blue and pink net. Mrs. H. M. James wore a blue linen semi-evening model. Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher wore a pink starched chiffon model. Mrs. Childress Armstrong wore a black lace model. Miss Ivo Wilson wore a purple crepe model with gold sequin jacket. Miss Genevieve Gremillion wore a blue and beige crepe model.

An atmosphere of festivity was created in the spacious reception suite by the placement of garden flowers in wide, flaring urns. Iced fruit frappe was served during the receiving hours from a crystal bowl imbedded in pink roses and placed at one end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. The central decor. was an artistic arrangement of blue corn flowers, pink roses and Queen Ann's lace.

Oak Grove

A mother-daughter program was given in the Oak Grove High school auditorium recently. D. W. McBride, principal, gave a brief talk; Mrs. W. H. Keller, president of the local parent-teacher association, spoke on the subject, "What It Means to Be A Mother." Melba Lee responded with "What It Means to Be a Daughter," and J. H. Thomas with "What It Means to Be a Son."

After the program the guests were invited to the home economics department, where they were served coffee.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the church with the leader, Mrs. J. T. Williams, presiding. Following the program the hostess, Mrs. D. M. Copeland, assisted by Mrs. Clayton Gunter and Mrs. Spencer Farmer, served assorted sandwiches, fruit punch and mints to Mrs. J. D. Herring, Mrs. L. L. James, Mrs. Frank McCormick, Mrs. J. S. Pollard, Mrs. Mary B. Thompson, Mrs. J. T. Williams, Mrs. B. H. Bolding and Miss Edna Caroline Briggs. Both circles will meet for a program meeting next at the church.

The Women's Department club met at the residence of Mrs. W. M. Dollerhide, with Mrs. J. J. Joyce, Jr., as cohostess. The program was as follows: "Front, Back and All-Around Gardens," Mrs. E. B. Emmerich; "Removing Stains," Mrs. D. W. Kelly; duet, "Ye Merry Birds," Mrs. A. C. Monroe and Mrs. J. D. Brown, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. D. B. Fiske.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. Byargeon, served angel food cake, strawberries and ice cream to Mrs. E. O. Burnham, Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mrs. E. B. Emmerich, Mrs. D. B. Fiske, Mrs. W. L. Gill, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, Mrs. J. S. Lee, Mrs. A. S. Mayo, Mrs. A. C. Monroe, Mrs. Shelly Nordgren, Mrs. H. M. O'Connell, Mrs. W. A. Ross, Mrs. Spencer Farmer, Mrs. Clayton Gunter and Mrs. D. M. Copeland.

St. Joseph

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Elliott of Courtland, Miss., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hollomon Cook at "Mayflower."

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher B. Haddon had as their guests recently, Mr. and Mrs. John Haddon and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hopkins of Hickory, Miss.

The Presbyterian auxiliary met with Mrs. Philip Watson, who was the hostess. "God of All Power" was the subject of the Bible reading given by Mrs. E. H. Biggs and which opened the meeting. "Christ Caesar" was the theme of the program. Mrs. Curry Macpherson was the leader, assisted by Mrs. Ida Jones and Mrs. C. B. Haddon. At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served to Mrs. E. H. Biggs, Mrs. Niccoleni Bruno, Mrs C. B. Haddon, Mrs. Ida Jones, Mrs. Curry Macpherson, Mrs. Frank Martty and Mrs. Wealthy Thomas.

A play day was held in St. Joseph under sponsorship of Miss Rogenia Green, Joseph M. Davidson High school instructor. Twenty St. Joseph Athletic association members entertained 20 Newellton girls and 20 Waterproof, La., girls. Games were played until noon on the high school grounds. At noon lunch was served in the park by the St. Joseph girls.

Two girls from each school were candidates for health queen. The judges were Miss Marjorie Davidson, Miss Arlene Holloway and Dawson Johns, all of St. Joseph. Nell Hammond of St. Joseph was chosen health queen, Patricia Wilds of St. Joseph placed second, and Helen Drake Miller of Waterproof, third.

Speakers were Mrs. E. Blevins of Urania, Mrs. H. V. Dunford and Mrs. J. G. Russell of Winnfield, and Miss Pauline Chavalier of Olla. A playlet was presented by Mrs. C. E. Gimler, Mrs. H. O. Baker, Mrs. R. H. Adams, Mrs. Walter Wade, Mrs. Gwin Hicks and Miss Margaret Baker, all of Rochelle.

Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the local American Legion auxiliary held at the legion home. The officers are: President, Mrs. Dewey Temple; vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Hennegan; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dottie Weems; historian, Mrs. J. L. Allison; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Thomas Dempsey; chaplain, Mrs. J. M. Beebe. Mrs. Beebe, the retiring president, appointed the following delegates and alternates to the state convention to be held at Alexandria: Delegates, Mrs. J. L. Allison, Mrs. Dewey Temple and Mrs. J. C. Hennegan; alternates, Mrs. Dottie Weems, Mrs. T. R. Varnell and Mrs. N. G. Fox.

Mrs. Melvin Wedmore and little daughter, Guyline, returned to Crossett, Ark., after a visit to Mrs. Wedmore's sister, Mrs. J. M. Beebe. They were accompanied by Mrs. Dottie Weems and Woodrow Brittain.

Mrs. T. A. Stewart, Mrs. T. M. Rabb and little son, Stewart, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gentry of Campti recently.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Watts visited friends and relatives at Cotton Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Brown had as their guests Miss Jo Guidry, Mrs. H. J. Guidry and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walker of Lafayette.

Swartz

The Swartz Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. T. G. Johnson with 12 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, gave an interesting talk on shoes and their effect on comfort and health.

Plans were made for the garden tour on May 18 and committees were appointed to prepare for the flower and vegetable show to be held May 26-27.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Johnson to Mesdames McQuiller, Hammett, Quinn, C. C. Hare, M. Hare, Addison, Coats, McGlohon, Paul Johnson, Cobb, Dugal, and the visitor, Mrs. Kilpatrick.

Afterwards the guests enjoyed walking through the gardens and lawns of Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Kilpatrick.

Okaloosa

Donald Tolbird recently returned from Norfolk, Va., where he was a guest of his aunt, Mrs. Ivy Walpole.

Mrs. Ollie Coon and Mrs. Molley E. George have returned from Pine Grove, where they were the guests of Mrs. Julian Crowell.

Mrs. Chapel Walters had as her guests recently Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Willis and Mr. and Mrs. R. Jones of Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. Dock Rainbolt and daughter and Mr. Wallace Rainbolt, all of West Monroe, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coon recently.

Corner North Second Street
And Auburn Avenue

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 21, 1939.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God: for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels." (Isa. 61.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is the expression of soul. The Indians caught some glimpses of the underlying reality, when they called a certain beautiful lake 'the smile of the Great Spirit.'" (p. 477.)

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
North Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

This Sunday after Ascension day is called Expectation Sunday. Christ had said: "I will not leave you orphans," and had promised to send the Comforter. But on this Sunday, the Lord had gone up to glory, and the Comforter had not yet come. So, then, for the time being, they were orphans: but they looked for the fulfillment of the promise, and continued in prayer and supplication. They were expecting the Comforter, and hence this day is known in the church as "Expectation Sunday," or "the Sunday after Ascension."

The services for this Sunday are as follows: the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m.; church school at 9:30 a. m., and a choral celebration of the Eucharist and sermon at 10:45 a. m., with the rector preaching the sermon. Evensong will be said and sermon preached at St. David's, Rayville, at 4 p. m.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Come in, rest, give thanks, meditate.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison And D'Arbonne Streets
Sherrouse Addition
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school meets at 9:30 a. m. Bible class at 10 a. m. Morning service at 10:45 a. m. We extend a cordial welcome to everyone to come and worship with us.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
'The Church With The Lighted Steeple'
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

Rev. W. L. Doss, Jr., our presiding elder, will fill our pulpit at the morning service, using for his sermon theme, "Faith." Rev. Scott will preach at the evening hour. You are cordially invited to worship with this congregation on all occasions. Our church school classes are open to all who desire an hour of Christian fellowship, worship and Bible study each Sabbath morning. There is a well organized class for every age group. Plans are being made for the vacation church school to be held in June.

The Women's Missionary society will meet Tuesday afternoon in circles. The adult council will meet Wednesday evening at 7:45 at the home of Mrs. Clyde Culver, 211 South Fourth street.

On May 30th, under the auspices of the choir of this church, the Southwestern university chorus of Georgetown, Tex., will appear in concert at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium. Tickets are now on sale with all groups in the church cooperating. Funds derived from this concert will be used for a payment of the organ.

"The Strong and the Weak" will be the theme of the discussion on next Thursday evening as the minister continues the review of the book, "The Meaning of Service," by Dr. Fosdick. The discussion will deal with the responsibility of the strong toward the weak and the justification of this responsibility.

The district conference of the Women's Missionary society will be held at this church on Tuesday, May 30th, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Representatives from the churches throughout the Monroe district will be in attendance.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
Dr. C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

The pastor has just returned from a memorable trip to New York and the World's fair, taking his son and "Cooter" Lambert for presentation over a nation-wide broadcast the past week. He will preach at both services at church today.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

"Mother's Day" was observed at Gordon avenue last Sunday with appropriate services at both hours. At 11:00 a.m. the pastor delivered a message on the "Influence and Power of Mother's Love." Special songs, "My Mother's Bible" and "My Mother's Prayer" were sung. At the evening hour the young people rendered a very impressive pageant on "Mothers of Great Men."

Today the church school exercises will open at 9:45 a.m. and the regular worship service will follow at 11:00 o'clock with Rev. W. F Mayo, Jr., bringing the message. At the same time the pastor will hold service at Claibourn Methodist church. Rev. Mayo will preach at the evening hour at Claibourn and the pastor will hold his regular service at Gordon Avenue at 7:45, speaking on the subject: "The Methodist View of a World Religion."

We cordially invite all who can do so to meet with us and cooperate in advancing the interest of our Lord's kingdom.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

Services of the day begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Miss Jean Garver will have charge of the program. Elbert Dodd, the evangelist, will preach at each service. Bluford Burgner will direct a large choir, and will give special numbers in song. You are cordially invited to attend.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The attendance at our worship services has been gratifying. To the Lord be all the praise! To Him belongs the credit, for He is the source of spiritual progress and church loyalty. And yet as we think about it, many of our coreligionists are absent from the Sabbath school, the morning and evening worship hours, and the mid-week prayer and praise period. There is a reason. Shall the faithful give up? Shall we follow the lines many of us are disposed to follow? It is our privilege to pray and work and think and live so that every member of our faith may cooperate to the end that good may come to all. Jesus understood. He said: "Let your light so shine before men that they in seeing your good works will be constrained to glorify your Father who is in Heaven."

God is depending on us. We can labor with Him. He expects us to be devout and fervent. And He will give us the victory.

Our themes this Sabbath are "Spiritual Enthusiasm Sustained" and "Prayer, a Real Power in Human Experience."

You are urged to attend the church school. The Bible is studied and applied to life. A welcome awaits you.

Deanna Durbin's New Film Opens At Paramount Today

Fine Cast With Young Star In Hit

'3 Smart Girls Grow Up' Is Romantic Musical Attraction

WHAT is said to be the most pleasing picture in which Deanna Durbin has ever appeared, Universal's "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," comes to the Paramount theater today.

Deanna became a full fledged star with her first picture, "Three Smart Girls." It was followed by "100 Men and a Girl," "Mad About Music" and "That Certain Age." Each picture was hailed by critics as a better one than its predecessor. Now critics and preview audiences are claiming that "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" is the best of the five.

Directed by Henry Koster, who directed "Three Smart Girls" and "100 Men and a Girl," the current offering is a happy reminder of "Three Smart Girls." It presents approximately the same cast—Deanna, Charles Winninger, Nella Walker, Nan Grey and Ernest Cossart, with the addition of Helen Parrish, Bob Cummings and William Lundigan.

It will present Deanna as a slightly older youngster who tries to straighten out the tangled love affairs of her two sisters with amusing and amazing results. With this plot it is much more of a comedy than any of the 16-year-old singing star's previous offerings.

In the picture Deanna sings four songs, "Invitation to the Dance" by Weber, with a special vocal arrangement by Charles Henderson, "The Last Rose of Summer" from Flotow's opera "Martha," "La Capanera," "The Wren" by Sir Julius Benedict; and "Because" by Edward Teschemacher and Guy D'Hardelot.

Deanna will be seen as the daughter of a multi-millionaire, and for the first time wears an extensive wardrobe.

RESERVE OFFICERS PLAN RIVER OUTING

A boat ride and banquet on the Ouachita river Monday night will feature the last assembly of the scholastic year of reserve officers of the Monroe area. The officers will board the boat at the rear of 800 South Grand street and the evening's program is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Major [illegible], district director of reserve officers, will address the assembly on the subject, "Recent War Department Policies Pertaining to the O. R. C."

Because it marks the end of a nine-month period of study and contacts between the officers of the reserve, the Monday night assembly is expected to be largely attended. The next scholastic period will begin late in the summer.

Nan Grey, Deanna Durbin and Helen Parrish in Universal's lavish dramatic production, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," showing at the Paramount theater today, Monday and Tuesday. Deanna grows up to new romantic situations in her fifth consecutive success, singing the songs you asked to have her sing.

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, handsome screen couple, star in Cecil B. DeMille's new American panorama, "Union Pacific," playing at the Paramount theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, Robert Preston and thousands are in support.

Every dog has his day, and the lucky hound shown here enjoys his with Martha Raye and Bob Hope in the new Paramount comedy, "Never Say Die," playing Wednesday only at the Paramount theater. Others in the cast are Andy Devine, Alan Mowbray, Gale Sondergaard and Ernest Cossart.

Akim Tamiroff, top boss of a city of shadows, and Anna May Wong, the only one his power can't control, co-star in Paramount Pictures' "King of China Town," playing Wednesday only at the Capitol theater. Miss Wong plays a woman surgeon who is able to smash a powerful gambling ring when the racket chief is put under her care after a gun battle.

Miss Lamour In New Film At Capitol

Beautiful Star Supported By Lloyd Nolan In 'St. Louis Blues'

DOROTHY LAMOUR'S many local fans will see their favorite star with a new leading man and a highly original screen story, when the Paramount romance with music, "St. Louis Blues," opens today at the Capitol theater. Teamed with rugged Lloyd Nolan, Miss Lamour plays a dazzling theatrical celebrity who runs away from fame and glamour and finds love on a Mississippi river showboat.

The story, by John C. Moffitt and Malcolm Stuart Boylan, two writers who know the Mississippi region from first-hand experience, plots Miss Lamour's exciting experiences from the dramatic moment when she rebels against her manager's insistence that she always appear in public in a sarong, palming herself off as a South sea native, and decides to make her getaway once and for all.

From this point on, most of the action of "St. Louis Blues" takes place aboard Nolan's rather down-at-the-heels showboat, one of the few such crafts remaining on the river in 1939. Not knowing who Miss Lamour is when she arrives in a much-bedraggled state, the hard-boiled Nolan gives her a job as singer.

The showboat sequences offer Miss Lamour and other members of the cast ample opportunities to sing Hollywood's newest and most popular song hits, written especially for the film by such outstanding tunesmiths as Leo Robin, Sam Coslow, Hoagy Carmichael, Frank Loesser, Matty Malneck and Burton Lane. The five new numbers are "Kinda Lonesome," "I Go For That," "Blue Nightfall," "Junior" and "Let's Dream in the Moonlight."

"St. Louis Blues" boasts one of the year's most talented casts of supporting players. Tito Guizar, the charming young Mexican who won feminine hearts everywhere in "Tropic Holiday," plays a Mississippi planter in love with one of the showboat troupe, Mary "Punkin" Parker. Maxine Sullivan, the dusky songstress who has made swinging the classics a national pastime, renders her versions of "Loch Lomond" and the famous Russian folk song, "Dark Eyes."

Deanna will be seen as the daughter of a multi-millionaire, and for the first time wears an extensive wardrobe.

RESERVE OFFICERS PLAN RIVER OUTING

A boat ride and banquet on the Ouachita river Monday night will feature the last assembly of the scholastic year of reserve officers of the Monroe area. The officers will board the boat at the rear of 800 South Grand street, and the evening's program is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Major Leigh Bell, district director of reserve officers, will address the assembly on the subject, "Recent War Department Policies Pertaining to the O. R. C."

Because it marks the end of a nine-month period of study and contacts between the officers of the reserve, the Monday night assembly is expected to be largely attended. The next scholastic period will begin late in the summer.

Nan Grey, Deanna Durbin and Helen Parrish in Universal's lavish dramatic production, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," showing at the Paramount theater today, Monday and Tuesday. Deanna grows up to new romantic situations in her fifth consecutive success, singing the songs you asked to have her sing.

Douglas Corrigan, himself, daring young aviator who accomplished a surprise solo non-stop flight from New York to Dublin in a heavily overloaded, outmoded $900 "crate," and who now stars in "The Flying Irishman," shows Friday at the Capitol theater.

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, handsome screen couple, star in Cecil B. DeMille's new American panorama, "Union Pacific," playing at the Paramount theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, Robert Preston and thousands are in support.

Akim Tamiroff, top boss of a city of shadows, and Anna May Wong, the only one his power can't control, co-star in Paramount Pictures' "King of China Town," playing Wednesday only at the Capitol theater. Miss Wong plays a woman surgeon who is able to smash a powerful gambling ring when the racket chief is put under her care after a gun battle.

Miss Lamour In New Film At Capitol

Beautiful Star Supported By Lloyd Nolan In 'St. Louis Blues'

DOROTHY LAMOUR'S many local fans will see their favorite star with a new leading man and a highly original screen story, when the Paramount romance with music, "St. Louis Blues," opens today at the Capitol theater. Teamed with rugged Lloyd Nolan, Miss Lamour plays a dazzling theatrical celebrity who runs away from fame and glamour and finds love on a Mississippi river showboat.

The story, by John C. Moffitt and Malcolm Stuart Boylan, two writers who know the Mississippi region from first-hand experience, plots Miss Lamour's exciting experiences from the dramatic moment when she rebels against her manager's insistence that she always appear in public in a sarong, palming herself off as a South sea native, and decides to make her getaway once and for all.

From this point on, most of the action of "St. Louis Blues" takes place aboard Nolan's rather down-at-the-heels showboat, one of the few such crafts remaining on the river in 1939. Not knowing who Miss Lamour is when she arrives in a much-bedraggled state, the hard-boiled Nolan gives her a job as singer.

The showboat sequences offer Miss Lamour and other members of the cast ample opportunities to sing Hollywood's newest and most popular song hits, written especially for the film by such outstanding tunesmiths as Leo Robin, Sam Coslow, Hoagy Carmichael, Frank Loesser, Matty Malneck and Burton Lane. The five new numbers are "Kind'a Lonesome," "I Go For That," "Blue Nightfall," "Junior" and "Let's Dream in the Moonlight."

"St. Louis Blues" boasts one of the year's most talented casts of supporting players. Tito Guizar, the charming young Mexican who won feminine hearts everywhere in "Tropic Holiday," plays a Mississippi planter in love with one of the showboat troupe, Mary "Punkin" Parker. Maxine Sullivan, the dusky songstress who has made swinging the classics a national pastime, renders her versions of "Loch Lomond" and the famous Russian folk song, "Dark Eyes."

TRY THEM YOURSELF

DORCHESTER, England—(AP)—A tongue-twisting contest evolved from a music festival here when three venerable doctors of music competed in pronouncing such place names as Puddletrenthide, Stourton Chaundle and Childe Okeford.

QUITMAN SCHOOL PLANS EXERCISES

QUITMAN, La., May 20.—(Special)—The commencement exercises for Quitman High school have been announced by the Principal D. W. Swanner.

The graduation exercises will be held in the new gymnasium-auditorium Thursday night, May 25, at 8 o'clock. The honor graduates are Misses Emogene Tolar, valedictorian, and Clovis Baggarly, salutatorian.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday, May 21, at 11 a.m. at the high school building with Rev. Foss, pastor of the local Baptist church, delivering the sermon.

The senior class consists of 17 members. They are Ester Alexander, Nell Bernard, Clovis Baggarly, Sarah Brooks, Maurice Carr, Belle Cooper, Bill Davis, Rudolph Lowery, Luise Quick, Willie Mae Moser, Thelma Steveson, Emogene Tolar, Mack Turnbow, Lorine Williams, Troy Walsworth, Virginia Thrift, Webb Swanner, principal.

NEGRO EDUCATOR, VOCAL GROUPS TO APPEAR HERE

Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern university, negro institution at Baton Rouge, will deliver an address and a quartet and chorus from the university will render a program of songs, next Tuesday night at the Monroe negro high school. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Monroe extension center of the university is sponsoring the program. No charge will be made for attendance, and a special section will be reserved for white people desiring to attend.

GOOD LOGIC, THOUGH

ARKANSAS CITY, Kas.—(AP)—Smart young child tale is this: Six-year-old watched her parents set out the empty milk bottles each night and bring them in, filled, in the morning. So one night she replaced the bottles with pop bottles. It didn't work, though.

2 HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES GUESTS

Students Will Visit Monroe At Behest Of Local Chamber Of Commerce

In accordance with the invitation extended to more than 70 high schools of the area to have members of their senior classes visit the Twin Cities during senior week as guests of these municipalities, two large groups are expected to come here this week. Other groups have visited here the past few days. The invitation was extended by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe. Groups of students that are expected this week are those from Choudrant and Epps High schools.

While in the Twin Cities they will be accorded every possible courtesy. The various institutions of the cities will be visited, as will the radio station, parks, manufacturing enterprises and the News-Star and Morning World plant.

It is expected that many high school seniors will attend Northeast Junior college this fall as three bus lines have been announced for operation, making daily attendance both convenient and inexpensive for students located in northeast Louisiana.

COLUMBIA WILL GET WPA SEWER SYSTEM

The office of Representative Newt V. Mills has been advised that the WPA project providing for village-wide improvements in Columbia, Caldwell parish, have been approved at an expenditure of $6,046.

The project is described as comprising construction of sanitary sewers through the village with all necessary accessories. No improvements will be made to private property and the work thereon will consist of installing sewers across properties. No taxes or assessments will be levied to cover the amount of federal funds expended.

JACKSON PARISH PLANS EXERCISES

Jonesboro-Hodge Will Close Session Friday Night; 66 To Graduate

JONESBORO, La., May 20.—(Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge High school will close the 1938-39 session on Friday night, May 26, with a class of 66 members applying for graduation. Mortimer Raphael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Raphael of Jonesboro, and John Holland, Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Holland, also of Jonesboro, will share first place honors equally. Jeraldine Colvin, daughter of Mrs. W. Lowe, won second place, and her twin sister, Christine, won third place in the rating of the class, with Betty Jane Meredith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Meredith, claiming fourth place. Mortimer Raphael also won the distinction of being the president of his class, John Holland the vice-presidency and Betty Jane Meredith is the class secretary.

"The Kraftsman," the school annual, published by the student body this session, has been received and distributed among the students.

BAPTISTS BUY LA SALLE CAMP

Acquire Valuable Equipment Of Abandoned CCC Set-up At Olla

The trustees of the Northeast Louisiana Baptist encampment at Olla have just succeeded in obtaining ownership of the buildings of the government owned CCC camp there. For several years the Baptists have had their camp in these structures which recently were abandoned by Uncle Sam and bids were opened in New Orleans recently for their sale. The bid offered by the Baptist encampment was accepted.

The structures are said to represent an expenditure of $7,500 and were obtained for a trifling sum.

Some of the buildings need roofing and other repairs and the board is now endeavoring to raise $1,000 among the churches of this area. The water tank and pump will have to be replaced as they were not included in the sale.

There are 13 large buildings on the grounds and the equipment is said to be ideal for the purposes of the encampment and that the purchase price was exceptionally low.

BARKDULL FAULK BAND TAKES PART IN FESTIVAL

Barkdull Faulk band, directed by Charles Gaushell, left by special bus for Shreveport early Saturday to participate with 35 other bands in the third annual Ark-La-Tex band festival. In all several thousand players participated, concerts being given on the Caddo courthouse grounds every 20 minutes throughout the hours of 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

No ratings were given but a critic, Everette McCracken of Baylor university, studied the technique of each band for the purpose of later submitting his opinion as to the performances, outlining their strong and weak points.

Bands that participated were from cities located 100 miles from Shreveport.

Students Will Visit Monroe At Behest Of Local Chamber Of Commerce

In accordance with the invitation extended to more than 70 high schools of the area to have members of their senior classes visit the Twin Cities during senior week as guests of these municipalities, two large groups are expected to come here this week. Other groups have visited here the past few days. The invitation was extended by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe. Groups of students that are expected this week are those from Choudrant and Epps High schools.

While in the Twin Cities they will be accorded every possible courtesy. The various institutions of the cities will be visited, as will the radio station, parks, manufacturing enterprises and the News-Star and Morning World plant.

It is expected that many high school seniors will attend Northeast Junior college this fall as three bus lines have been announced for operation, making daily attendance both convenient and inexpensive for students located in northeast Louisiana.

COLUMBIA WILL GET WPA SEWER SYSTEM

The office of Representative Newt V. Mills has been advised that the WPA project providing for village-wide improvements in Columbia, Caldwell parish, have been approved at an expenditure of $6,046.

The project is described as comprising construction of sanitary sewers through the village with all necessary accessories. No improvements will be made to private property and the work thereon will consist of installing sewers across properties. No taxes or assessments will be levied to cover the amount of federal funds expended.

CAMERA 'SNAPS' PROMINENT LADY

While we have been told by several of Mrs. Stevenson's many friends that our picture doesn't do her justice, nevertheless, it has been chosen as the picture of the day, and will entitle her to a fine sepia enlargement which does show her up in a better light than the engraving. Watch these columns for the daily parade of candid pictures. When yours appears, you will be given a free sepia enlargement with the compliments of the News-Star—World.

JACKSON PARISH PLANS EXERCISES

Jonesboro-Hodge Will Close Session Friday Night; 66 To Graduate

JONESBORO, La., May 20.—(Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge High school will close the 1938-39 session on Friday night, May 26, with a class of 66 members applying for graduation. Mortimer Raphael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Raphael of Jonesboro, and John Holland, Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Holland, also of Jonesboro, will share first place honors equally. Jeraldine Colvin, daughter of Mrs. W. Lowe, won second place, and her twin sister, Christine, won third place in the rating of the class, with Betty Jane Meredith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Meredith, claiming fourth place. Mortimer Raphael also won the distinction of being the president of his class, John Holland the vice-presidency and Betty Jane Meredith is the class secretary.

"The Kraftsman," the school annual, published by the student body this session, has been received and distributed among the students.

BAPTISTS BUY LA SALLE CAMP

Acquire Valuable Equipment Of Abandoned CCC Set-up At Olla

The trustees of the Northeast Louisiana Baptist encampment at Olla have just succeeded in obtaining ownership of the buildings of the government owned CCC camp there. For several years the Baptists have had their camp in these structures which recently were abandoned by Uncle Sam and bids were opened in New Orleans recently for their sale. The bid offered by the Baptist encampment was accepted.

The structures are said to represent an expenditure of $7,500 and were obtained for a trifling sum.

Some of the buildings need roofing and other repairs and the board is now endeavoring to raise $1,000 among the churches of this area. The water tank and pump will have to be replaced as they were not included in the sale.

There are 13 large buildings on the grounds and the equipment is said to be ideal for the purposes of the encampment and that the purchase price was exceptionally low.

BARKDULL FAULK BAND TAKES PART IN FESTIVAL

Barkdull Faulk band, directed by Charles Gaushell, left by special bus for Shreveport early Saturday to participate with 35 other bands in the third annual Ark-La-Tex band festival. In all several thousand players participated, concerts being given on the Caddo courthouse grounds every 20 minutes throughout the hours of 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

No ratings were given but a critic, Everette McCracken of Baylor university, studied the technique of each band for the purpose of later submitting his opinion as to the performances, outlining their strong and weak points.

Bands that participated were from cities located 100 miles from Shreveport.

HEY!
OH BABY! WHAT A DREAM. SO REAL. I THOUGHT A BUZZ-SAW HIT ME ON THE HEAD AND..
SOMETHING FLYING AROUND THIS ROOM.
A BIRD. COMING RIGHT TOWARD ME. I'LL GRAB HIM AND...
STOP! HALT! YOU..
HE WENT BEHIND THIS CABINET, I THINK. HE'S GONE AGAIN.
GEORGE! WHAT'S THAT... A WOODPECKER FLYING OUT?

JUNIOR AND BUCK HAVE AGAIN TAKEN THEIR PLACE BEHIND THE PLATFORM TO WATCH AND LISTEN IN ON THE SECRET MEETING OF THE YELLOW ORDER OF SUPERIOR MORTALS
SH-H - THE TUNNEL DOOR IS OPENING _THEY'LL BE COMING IN NOW
AFTER DONNING THEIR UNIFORMS THE USUAL DRILL TAKES PLACE, AFTER WHICH THEY ARE ADDRESSED BY THEIR COMRADE COMMANDER
AND IN CONCLUSION, COMRADES, COME TOMORROW NIGHT PREPARED FOR A BIG CELEBRATION _ THE HEADLINES IN TOMORROW AFTERNOON'S PAPERS WILL GIVE SOME HINT OF WHAT IT'S ABOUT _ YOU ARE NOW DISMISSED.
YOU STAY. I WANT TO TALK TO YOU
NOW ARE YOU SURE EVERYTHING IS SET TO COME OFF TOMORROW AS PLANNED?
POSITIVELY! THE NEW ARMY BOMBER IS TO MAKE ITS FIRST TEST FLIGHT -
COMRADE RATTO IS A TRUSTED MECHANIC IN THE FACTORY. HE KNOWS HIS SABOTAGE _ HE ASSURES ME IT WILL CRASH _ TONIGHT HE IS TO DELIVER TO COMRADE FRIDDLE A COMPLETE SET OF BLUEPRINTS KERCHOO!

WE SOON SHALL LEARN IF POPEYE CAN WHIP A SPINACH-FED GORILLA
THE EXPERIMENT WILL BE ANOTHER STEP FORWARD IN THE PROGRESS OF SCIENCE
SPINACH
SPINACH
MY FRIEND, A GORILLA IS ONLY A GORILLA
I KNOW, WIMPY, BUT THE DIFFICULTNEY IS THEY'A FEEDIN' HIM SPINACH
NOW IF I WERE FIGHTING A SPINACH-EATING GORILLA I WOULD PLACE ONE FOOT FORWARD AND ASSUME A CROUCHING POSITION
YAS, BUT YA AIN'T FIGHTIN' HIM, I YAM'A ONE THA'S DOIN' THE FIGHTIN'
STOMP
